HOUSE VOTES TO EXCLUDE POWELL FROM CONGRESS

WRATHFUL HOUSE MEMBERS, ignoring their leadership and spurning the recommendations of a select House investigative committee, voted last night to exclude Adam Clayton Powell from Congress.

After the House spurned a move to seat Powell with censure, loss of seniority and a $40,000 fine by a roll call vote of 222 to 202, the final exclusion resolution was passed, 248 to 176.

The House vote probably means the first court battle over such a move in 46 years, and there were opinions expressed by many House leaders that Powell would be upheld by the court because he possessed the qualifications to be a House member — age, citizenship and residence. The head of the House committee which probed the case, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), predicted Powell would run for re-election, win and force another test.

HOFFA DUE TO START TERM NEXT TUESDAY

JAMES R. HOFFA, the powerful Teamsters Union president who reputedly could have paralyzed the nation with a single strike order, was ordered jailed yesterday to begin serving an eight-year prison term for jury tampering.

U.S. District Judge Frank W. Wilson, the same judge that heard the jury tampering case, issued the order in Chattanooga, Tenn. He told Hoffa to report at 9 a.m. Tuesday at the U.S. Marshal's office in Chattanooga.

ARREST MADE IN JFK ASSASSINATION 'PLOT'

A NEW ORLEANS MAN was arrested last night and charged with participating in a conspiracy to murder President Kennedy. It was the first arrest in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's investigation of the 1963 Kennedy assassination.

The district attorney's office identified the man as Clay Shaw, 54, the former managing director of the International Trade Mart in New Orleans.

SIX MORE QUIT AIR FORCE ACADEMY

THE LIST OF CADETS kicked out of the Air Force Academy grew to 46 yesterday when six more resigned for cheating. Officials said the number might reach 60.

An academy official said seven varsity football players and two varsity basketball players either have resigned or are among another 14 cadets being investigated.

SENATE BACKS U.S. TROOPS IN VIETNAM

THE SENATE went on record yesterday as reaffirming support of U.S. troops in Vietnam while endorsing efforts to end the war honorably. It then passed a special $4.5 billion military authorization with the declaration attached.

The military measure, carrying authorizations for parts of the $12.3 billion President Johnson requested to finance the Vietnam fighting through June 30, was approved 89 to 2. Only Sens. Wayne Morse, (D-Ore.), and Gaylord Nelson, (D-Wis.), voted against it.

RIBICOFF AMONG SEVERAL NAMED AS CLARK SUCCESSOR

TWO CABINET MEMBERS and two members of Congress are being mentioned as possible successors to Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark, resigning the high court to prevent possible conflict of interest with his son, Ramsey, named to the Attorney General post by President Johnson.

The names of Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) figured prominently in speculation about Johnson's likely choice for a replacement.

OLDSMOBILE RECALLS 2,237 CARS

OLDSMOBILE DIVISION of General Motors Corp. yesterday called back 2,237 of its 1967 model cars to check for a possible defective bolt that might cause a loss of steering control.

The cars, model 88s and 98s, were built between Jan. 15 and Feb. 3 of this year.

ARRESTS EXPECTED IN DeSALVO ESCAPE

THE ARREST of one or more persons is expected in connection with the escape of Boston Strangler Albert H. DeSalvo, United Press International learned yesterday.

UPI also learned investigators are virtually positive they know where DeSalvo got a key, gun and money used during his escape last week from the Bridgewater State Mental Hospital. Authorities are quite certain they know how much money was spent to buy the gun and other articles used during the breakout and flight to freedom, UPI was told.

LOWELL TEACHERS TO MARCH TOMORROW

TEACHERS WILL MARCH in protest tomorrow against the Lowell School Committee's "unwillingness to bargain in good faith," it was reported Wednesday.

The teachers, possibly as many as 400, will begin their march from City Hall at 2:30. Their destination will be the new Lowell Teachers Assn. "campaign" headquarters at 10 Kearney Sq. The school committee has refused to grant pay raises to Lowell's 600 teachers.

TESTS FOR ELDERLY DRIVERS DEFEATED BY HOUSE

THE HOUSE DEFEATED a bill which would have allowed the Massachusetts registrar of motor vehicles to require periodic examinations of elderly drivers. The vote on the measure sponsored by Registrar Richard McLaughlin was 156-52.

McLaughlin had proposed that drivers 70 and over be given an annual examination by the doctor of their choice to lessen the possibility of elderly drivers becoming incapacitated at the wheel.

VOLPE EYES 'FAVORITE SON' CANDIDACY

GOV. JOHN A. VOLPE said he might be a "favorite son" presidential candidate in 1968, but sidestepped becoming committed now to a slightly lower position.

The Republican governor said there was no hidden significance to the fact he was to share the platform last night in Washington with leading presidential candidates, Govs. Ronald Reagan of California and George W. Romney of Michigan.

B&M GIVEN PERMISSION TO DROP PASSENGER LINE

THE DEPARTMENT of Public Utilities has granted a Boston & Maine Railroad petition to abandon immediately passenger service between Springfield and Greenfield. The railroad also was given permission to abandon passenger facilities at stations in Springfield, Holyoke, Northampton and Greenfield.

"Generally speaking, with the approval of this petition, this railroad is no longer in the business of carrying passengers except where subsidized by the Commonwealth through the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority," the DPU noted in its four-page decision.

GOLDBERG IN SAIGON TO LOOK OVER SITUATION

U.S. AMBASSADOR to the United Nations Arthur J. Goldberg was in Saigon today on a mission to "reaffirm our commitment" that the South Vietnamese "be left alone to determine their own destiny."

Goldberg arrived last night by special jetliner from Taiwan where he conferred for two hours earlier with Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek.

MAOISTS CLAIM 'BLOODY' VICTORY IN PROVINCE

COMMUNIST CHINESE party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's supporters have won control of Shantung Province after a six-month battle marked by "many bloody incidents," Peking Radio said last night.

It is the fourth of 26 provinces and autonomous regions in Red China which Maoists claim to have seized by force.

Expert On Old Films

Prof. Paul C. Deane of Newtonville sets up his projector with reel from one of his unusual personal collection of early, silent motion pictures.

Jaded World Needs Old Silent Movies

A Bentley college professor from Newton feels movies were better than ever when they were seen and not heard — and he has almost a hundred old flickers as his celluloid evidence.

Dr. Paul C. Deane, of Newtonville, associate professor of English and faculty adviser of Bentley's Film Society, has strong credentials for making this statement.

His chief outside interest is research into old-time films and expanding an unusual personal collection of early motion pictures.

He says one of the reasons why the older films, especially the silent movies, were better than many films of the past decade, is that they required more vigorous application of the imagination.

"As a viewer, you can't be a passive beholder," Dr. Deane says. "You must participate in the film and get more involved."

To illustrate his convictions, his Film Society at Bentley has been showing such oldies as "The Great Train Robbery," 1903; "The Lonesome Operator," 1911, directed by D. W. Griffith, who in Dr. Deane's opinion is probably the greatest director of films that ever lived; "The Making of Broncho Billy," 1913; "The Birth of a Nation," 1915; and Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," 1920, with John Barrymore.

On Monday, Feb. 27, his group presented two movies produced 50 years ago to commemorate Sunday's Feb. 26, official observance of the founding of the college a half century ago. The films were "American Aristocracy," starring Douglas Fairbanks, and "The Immigrant," featuring Charlie Chaplin.

Capacity Crowd Looms For Sessions Hearing

By JAMES G. COLBERT JR.

A big turnout is expected for a public hearing to be held by the School Committee next Monday night (March 6) on a report by a group which made a lengthy and in-depth study of class schedules in Newton's elementary schools.

The hearing will be held at Newton South High School, probably in the cafeteria, starting at 8 p.m.

School Superintendent Charles E. Browne explained that the cafeteria has been chosen as the meeting place because groups of parents could get together, decide on the questions they wanted asked and choose a spokesman to direct the inquiries to the study group.

In the event the cafeteria is inadequate to accommodate the crowd attending the meeting the site of the meeting would be shifted to the school auditorium, it is expected.

Present plans call for the hearing to be divided into two parts.

During the first portion of the session spokesmen for various groups will put their questions to members of the study committee headed by Boston University.

Coffee will be served at ity Professor Malcolm S. Knowles.

Tremendous interest and considerable feeling have been generated by the prolonged controversy as to whether the present split sessions should be maintained in the city's elementary schools or a change should be made to a single sessions with the pupils eating their lunches at school instead of going home at noon.

Arguments have been offered on both sides of the issue.

A compromise proposal has been presented by the Knowles study group and will be the subject of debate next Monday night.

Under the plan submitted by the group, the split sessions would be retained for the next school year in most of the elementary schools.

However, the group suggested that a pilot program be conducted as an experiment next year at from two to four elementary schools, where pupils would eat lunch at school on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, which are at present the long days, when pupils return after lunch. No specific schools were recommended.

At present, programs exist in a few Newton elementary schools.

Downs Given Top Teacher Recognition

Herbert S. Downs, of Weeks Junior High School, a veteran of 26 years service in the Newton school system, was named the Massachusetts Industrial Arts "Teacher of the Year."

The honor was bestowed on the Newton teacher at the 69th banquet of the Massachusetts Industrial Education Society held at the Yankee Drummer Inn, Auburn.

Teachers of Industrial Arts from all over the state elected him for outstanding service in his field. He will receive his award at a formal ceremony later this year in Philadelphia where he will meet recipients from other states.

Mr. Downs is chairman of the Industrial Arts Department at the Weeks Junior High School, a resident of Needham and for the past ten years.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE MAN EDWIN HAWKIDGE emphasized that the Board was accepting the Site Committee's recommendation but not its full report.

200 Students From Overseas Are Feted

Two hundred students, representing forty-one foreign countries attended Sabbath Eve services as guests of Temple Shalom of Newton's People-To-People Sabbath.

Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, spiritual leader of Temple Shalom of Newton, conducted the Service, explaining to the guests the meaning of the liturgy and the symbolism inherent in the blessings over the bread.

Under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baron of Chestnut Hill, together with the cooperation of the International Student Association, the students and their families were invited to a traditional Sabbath Eve dinner at the homes of Temple congregants.

After dinner, students and host families gathered at the

POLITICAL HIGHLIGHTS

By JAMES G. COLBERT

Court Redistricting Order Creates Absurd Situation

It now seems that the federal court order for a revamping of the Massachusetts congressional districts was ridiculous for a number of reasons.

For one thing the state's population has increased sharply since the 1960 federal census on which the congressional redistricting would be based. Great population shifts also have occurred in the intervening seven years.

Ironically, most of the congressional districts are now more nearly equal from a population standpoint as a result of those changes than when they were created in 1962.

If the federal court is to decree that congressional districts must be based on the "one-man-one-vote" rule, then it also should order a revision in the method of making the federal census which provides the yardstick for carving out the congressional sectors.

The federal census in 1960 counted everyone residing in Massachusetts on April 1 of that year, irrespective of whether they were legal voters or residents in other States.

to a further suggestion made in the report that homes be taken in another part of the Albemarle playground area to compensate for the loss of park land to the school.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas also commented: "I think we should take vacant land, but not homes. If adjacent homes became available for sale in the future we might think of buying them for the park then."

School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier declared: "I am quite pleased to observe that the school will be adequate for further growth. In most cases we have built schools and then a few years later have had to build additions."

Four other sites were studied. One of them the present F. A. Day site on Walnut St., engrossed by some adjacent land. The other three sites were around the Albemarle playground, but involved taking homes or a large portion of the playground.

One of the defects of the existing school site is that children have to travel about a quarter of a mile to get to playing fields.

The State School Buildings Assistance Commission also objected to the present site because of lack of space for expansion. The buildings commission will pay Newton 40 per cent of the estimated cost of the $2.9 million of the new school; although it is estimated that this sum will only cover interest on the twenty year bond that the city of Newton will issue to finance the school.

Members of the Site Committee are Planning Director James A. Miller, chairman of the group; Aldermen Winslow C. Auryansen, Melvin J. Daniel, William M. Glosky and George L. Hicks; School Committee members Harold J. Berman and Mrs. Norma W.

Winterfest Exhibits Due At City Hall

The Newton Winterfest Display which won high praise in the "Treasures of Massachusetts" exhibition last week in Boston's War Memorial Auditorium is being brought to Newton's City Hall and being reassembled for viewing in the Rotunda.

Thousands of school children and their parents from the metropolitan area visited the display during its Boston Winterfest appearance.

The approval which Newton's display received prompted Mayor Monte G. Basbas to urge that local residents be given added opportunity to see the graphic presentation of the numerous facets of Newton's life, its history, antiquities, famous people, homes, education, art, and recreation.

Newton's exhibit was planned and arranged by a committee of volunteers organized and headed by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Shattuck. The Shattucks, assisted by Ernest E. Morenon, as art director have been working on the project for several months.

Participating on the committee with the Shattucks have been the following: Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Asaff, Mrs. E. Graham Bates, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brewer, Ruth E. Cannard, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Citron, Mr. and Mrs. James Couzens, Mary P. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Cunningham, Peter S. Eastman, Theodore F. Boston Naval Shipyard Has Job Openings

Officials at Boston Naval Shipyard expect a substantial increase in their work force, and as a result, their Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners has issued announcements of the need for apprentice, helpers and trades positions.

The latest announcement for mechanic (limited), trades and crafts is to fill the gap between helper and journeyman positions in a variety of woodworking, metal working, welding and electrical trades. These positions start at $2.97 per hour.

No written test is necessary. Applicants will be evaluated on the basis of the quality of their experience or training. Length of experience is relatively unimportant.

The board of examiners has announced new examinations for the following positions: Carpenter, painter, laborer, laborer (heavy), and warehouseman. The pay varies from $2.37 to $3.18 per hour. Applications will be accepted until further notice.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Boston Naval Shipyard, Boston 02129, and from most large post offices and state employment offices.

Bill To Credit For Overseas Teachers Heard

Rep. Paul Malloy of Newton and Paul Ippolito, chairman of the Newton Teachers Association's Legislative Committee, went to the State House last Monday to speak in favor of Senate Bill 632, which is an act allowing credit in the Massachusetts Teachers Retirement System for teachers who have served overseas in dependent schools operated by the U. S. Government.

The existing law does not allow teachers to credit overseas teaching toward their eventual retirement.

This bill was defeated in 1962 and 1963. Stated Ippolito:

Maximum Security Needed

Shock may have a therapeutic value in Massachusetts this week. It may awaken a lethargic electorate to ills at the institution at Bridgewater and similar facilities throughout the Commonwealth.

The shock was administered by Albert DeSalvo, the man who claims to be the Boston Strangler, when he escaped from Bridgewater State Hospital with relative ease.

His escape, and that of his two companions, precipitated the greatest manhunt in the northeast. It also engendered mass fear in women throughout the northeast.

However, DeSalvo was recaptured; no women were abused and murdered, at least by him; and the dangerous criminal was incarcerated again, this time in the maximum security institution at Walpole.

DeSalvo said he made the break to call attention to his need for rehabilitation. He said he left a note behind at Bridgewater which said, "Since I can't understand the law and society, the way it acts, I'm going to leave."

The law and society couldn't understand DeSalvo either. That is why he was tried and convicted of armed robbery and assaults upon women.

But whether the Malden man's dramatic escape will help his case remains to be seen. What his flight to short-lived freedom did do was focus public attention on Bridgewater State Hospital.

There have been reams of words written about the archaic facility in the past but none has hit the front pages of the nation's newspapers with the impact registered last week.

Now, perhaps, the Great and General Court, in their infinite wisdom, will take action on the problems that beset Bridgewater, especially its physical properties. Bridgewater Supt. Charles W. Gaughan has said of the institution that it is like trying to hold "murderers in a chicken coop."

We don't believe that men like DeSalvo and others like him belong in chicken coops.

We believe that there should be a maximum security building at Bridgewater. It should be constructed immediately, if not sooner. Until then DeSalvo should remain at Walpole. The first consideration must be the protection of the public.

Architect For High School By End of Month Says Mayor

The schedule for replacement of buildings at Newton High School is still the same. Mayor Monte G. Basbas reported to the Newton School committee last Monday night.

Mayor Basbas, who addressed high school students on Tuesday, said that he had met recently with the commission which is selecting an architect for the new buildings.

"I wrote to half a dozen more architects, basically in this area," Mayor Basbas explained. "I had a response from four. I will call a meeting in about 10 days of the Commission. They will recommend three architects and I will select one."

"We'll have an architect by the end of March," the Mayor said. "Then we can sit down and determine which land we are going to use. We have to have an architect before that."

"Also we are devoting a sizeable sum of money to Building One," he added. School Committee Chairman Harold J. Berman asked if anything had been done on the suggestion that students participate in the face-lifting of Building One. "This could give them a sense of pride in the school," Berman stated.

Mayor Basbas replied that

Jungle Book In 2 Showings At Ward School

The movie based on Kipling's "Jungle Book" will be shown Saturday afternoon, Mar. 4, at 12:45 o'clock, and again at 3, in the Ward School auditorium.

It will be the third in the children's entertainment series planned by Ward School PTA.

Co-chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mezoff, and ticket co-chairmen are Mrs. John Reichard and Mrs. Jerome Bertolini.

Rudyard Kipling reached the epitome of his great literary talent in "Jungle Book" and the story of Mowgli, the Jungle Boy. Mowgli was reared by wolves and adopted by all the beasts of the jungle except one — Shere Khan, the tiger — Mowgli's deadly enemy.

Wizard Of Oz To Be Given By Emerson Group

The Creative Arts Committee of Burr-Murray Road PTA has engaged the Emerson Strolling Players for a performance of "The Wizard of Oz" at the Williams School, Grove St., Auburndale, Saturday afternoon, Mar. 4, at 2 o'clock.

Tickets will be available at the door at 1:30.

According to Mrs. Gloria Kummins, committee chairman, it was the enthusiastic reception given the Strolling Players' presentation of "The Sleeping Beauty" last December that encouraged the group to continue its program of live theatrical entertainment, which is designed for all children of the area.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Not Speak For Him Pilot Plan Inadequate?

Editor of The Graphic:
It was interesting to read in your issue of February 23rd, 1967, that Rev. Donald Prinn, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Newtonville, said that the Massachusetts Council of Churches advocated adoption of a resolution to call upon President Johnson, by the Congress, through enactment of legislation, to cease the bombing in Vietnam.

It was much more interesting, and very revealing, to read that when questioned as to whether Council members had been polled, the Rev. Prinn replied that this had not been done but that the "paid full time staff of the Council were in favor of having their voices heard" in support of the resolution but could not be expected to speak specifically for every Christian in the State. Why was the information not offered that this was the advocacy of a small clique, and not the membership?

Definitely I am a Christian for whom they do not speak, they certainly do not have authority to speak for me. A recent Harris Poll has reported that 70% of Americans do support bombing of North Vietnam targets. It is reasonable to suppose that such percentage is likely similar within the ranks of Council membership.

Such techniques have been the ploys of Church Councils in the past, and have often been so exposed, yet they still being used to mislead the public. Church Councils are constantly professing to be on the side of "fairness," "rights," "democracy," etc.; but it seems obvious that such qualities are not self applied.

If the advocacy of the resolution is that of a committee, or staff, it should always be so identified without such having to be exposed by questioning. Let us have an end to this deceit about the "views or positions" of Church Councils when it is known, and often doubtful, if Council membership is in accord therewith.

Very truly yours,
J. Ellis Bowen

Commends Report

Editor of The Graphic:

As a citizen of Newton, a parent of two children who have been educated in the Newton schools, and a Newton elementary school teacher, I wish to commend Dr. Knowles and his study group for their painstaking and skillful attention to one of the problems which has arisen in our community.

I feel that their recommendation for a pilot study of single session (although the numbers involved do not strike me as quite adequate for good research procedure) is not only in the best interest of all concerned but also a long overdue step in the direction of proper research and evaluation of new procedures undertaken in our schools.

It is my fervent hope that this recommendation will be accepted and acted upon in good faith. Unfortunately, I sense, on the part of proponents on both sides of this issue, some resistance to this forward looking step.

Many people in favor of single session see this as a method of "side-tracking" the issue and many in the schools feel that any change is a blow to their professional decision making autonomy.

Such positions pre-suppose that each side considers it entirely in the right.

I feel that the time has come for the schools to drop their defensive attitude toward their image of excellence and stand with dignity for the position that our schools, although excellent, contain areas in which improvements could be effected.

(It is not enough to say, in response to any criticism, that we are good because we are not as bad as other school systems).

At the same time, I feel that the parents need to drop their role as negative critics and come forth, also with dignity, with constructive suggestions for discussion, evaluation, and experimentation.

I see the Knowles report as a positively oriented (though somewhat biased) evaluation of the single session issue. As many of us know, however, single session is only one of several areas of concern in which change might be beneficial.

Let us use the Knowles Report as a beginning to move toward forthright, honest, and objective communication and cooperation between the schools and the community in order to make our "better than most" schools even more effective in serving the needs of all the children of New-

Suzanne R. Horner
(Mrs. William R. Horner)

Pilot Plan Inadequate?

Editor of The Graphic:

I wish to thank the Study Group for its interesting concluding report and its informative suggestions to the School Committee; however, I and many other citizens of Newton feel that the suggestion to institute a pilot system for single session in two to four schools is completely inadequate. We feel that at least 10 to 12 schools be instituted into this program for a fair and comprehensive review of the situation.

The report states that the program will be in effect on Mondays and Wednesdays. We feel that there should be a uniform system for all five days so that our children will be exposed to a regular, balanced schedule. Priority should be given to schools where the majority of parents voted for single session. Our sampling must be adequate or results will be invalid.

We also wish to state that all 25 schools, whether on a pilot system or not, avail themselves to a lunch program for working mothers.

There are many women in Newton who must work for one reason or another. No one can pass judgment on the necessity of our citizens to work.

There are some people who feel that working parents can hire household help to be home for the arrival of their children; however, I think that we can all understand that parents who must work can not always afford help at home.

We should never force any family into a situation where their children must be at home without the presence of at least one of their parents. I certainly feel that the school administration and the School Committee, even though they may not be involved in these circumstances, must and should realize the anguish and worry of the parents of our children.

All children have the right to receive a proper education and a proper home life at all times. They should and must be put on an equal footing so that psychologically some of our children are not hurt by the fact that they are a product of a different environment. No child should suffer a hardship of having to enter an empty home because of either two working parents, or because a father is incapacitated or has passed on.

Therefore, I would like to close by reviewing the major purpose of this statement: 1) 10 to 12 schools be chosen for a single session program, 2) all 25 schools make a lunch program available for working mothers, and 3) a five day uniform system for our children.

Replies To Letter

Editor of The Graphic:

I was very pleased to see Mrs. Cunningham's letter in last week's Graphic. It gave me the opportunity to know her, at least by remote control — the press. I blushed indeed at my lamentable ignorance over civic matters and at first felt like crawling under the carpet back to where I belong — looking after my children, church and kitchen, and minding my own business.

However, on second thought, I grabbed a bright red pen and sat down chockfull. After all, what a good thing Mrs. Cunningham did answer my letter because no one around here seemed to have heard of the Charles River Civic Action and Improvement Association, certainly as a comparative newcomer no one ever told me about it, it was much less what work it was doing. So, thank you. I hope by the helpful medium of the press I shall be kept informed about all its future progress in all its fields.

As to my own misplaced energetic efforts, I have been in very close cooperative contact with Miss Babkey of Pomroy House in every phase of this new endeavour, and her feeling is that there is much that can be done around the Newton Corner area, that whatever else can be started, apart from Pomroy House, would be of the greatest help to the community as a whole. Particularly in this day and age, when the individual can get lost in the mass. Small group activities under the friendly, helpful eye of the volunteer adult must be recognized as gloriously beneficial to every child.

As for the "existing agencies trained and experienced in the handling of children," I am in the midst of contacting them all to find out their opinions. This will be a very valuable contribution and very necessary, but at this point, I feel most strongly that we can all get lost in that motionless curse of the Twentieth Century — committee meetings! When children want to do things and space is offered to teach them those laudable practical hobbies.

Explains Support

Editor of The Graphic:

Lest there be any misunderstanding of the reason I submitted the resolution requesting support of the House Bill requiring separate tax bills for the school tax and other municipal services, I wish to make this point clear. No hidden meaning should be given to this resolution, certainly not to take any of the present powers from the School Committee given to it by our state constitution.

We should never force any family into a situation where their children must be at home without the presence of at least one of their parents. Women Voters Sponsor Film Here March 31

The League of Women Voters of Newton will present the Charlie Chaplin film "Modern Times" at Newton South High School on Friday evening, March 31, at 8 o'clock.

The feature film will be preceded by a silent comedy short, and a refreshment booth will offer beverages and home-made pastries.

This program is being offered as a fund-raising project to enable the League of Women Voters to continue its many services to the community. Tickets may be purchased through Mrs. Alan Goldberg, finance chairman, at 969-5225.

Because of the limited seating capacity at Newton South High, tickets should be ordered in advance for this unusual evening's entertainment for the whole family.

Marion Rudkin, Book Reviewer, Guest Of Club

"Reading for Fun and Profit" is the topic Marion Rudkin has chosen for her appearance before the regular meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Club on Tuesday, March 7.

Mrs. Rudkin, a popular and much sought after book reviewer, gives portrayals of characters so vivid they are brought to life.

Mrs. Charles W. Laffin, president, will open the business session at 2 p.m. The coffee hour will be at 1:30, with Mrs. Warren L. Huston and Mrs. Orvil F. Haganan hostesses for the day. Pourers will be Mrs. Edward E. Hickie, Mrs. Amos L. Hall and Mrs. Frederic C. Seeton.

College Notes

Susan Rieger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Saul Rieger, 226 Commonwealth Ave., Chestnut Hill, a junior at Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, has been chosen as editor-in-chief of the Mt. Holyoke News for 1967-68. An English literature major, she is co-chairman of Eliot House, the college's center for the Fellowship of Faiths organization, and has served on the Action on Academic Issues committee of the Student Government Association.

Ronna Flaschner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin N. Flaschner, 564 Quinobequin Rd., Waban, a student at Elmira College, N.Y., has enrolled for a special study of American Government at American University, Washington, D.C. A Political Science major at Elmira, Miss Flaschner commented on the value of the program as follows: "It is an invaluable opportunity to understand first hand the actual way in which the federal government operates. Exposure to different officials and their offices takes government out of its ivory tower and places it in its proper perspective."

Alexis Donath of 37 Fox Hill Rd., Newton Centre, was one of six students at York Junior College, Penn., who put in two hours a week during the first semester tutoring second grade through junior high pupils at the McKinley-Cooke Service Center in York. She is a sophomore majoring in Psychology.

Meredith Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Howard, 21 Ithaca Cir., Newton Lower Falls, was named to the Dean's List at Hood College, Frederick, Md., as a result of her high academic average. A senior majoring in Music, she is a Hood Scholar, member of Mortar Board and a song leader, and has been elected to Who's Who Among American College Women.

Trip to Canada Followed Wollaston-Kelly Bridal

Miss Sheila Anne Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kelly of Newton Centre and Robert Anthony Wollaston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian J. Wollaston of West Roxbury, recently exchanged vows at the Sacred Heart Church, Newton Centre.

The Rev. John Corcoran officiated and a reception followed at the Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire gown of ivory satin faced peau de soie marked with medallions of Chantilly lace, which had a sabrina neckline and long sleeves.

A matching pill box headpiece held in place her triple-tiered shoulder-length illusion veil. She carried a cascade of butterfly roses accented with ivy.

Mrs. Kenneth Chisholm of Norwood was her sister's honor maid. Miss Kathy Kelly and Miss Peggy Kelly, both of Newton Centre, joined Miss Mary Jane Condon of Rockland and Miss Carol Wollaston of West Roxbury as bridesmaids.

Francis H. McCarthy of Canton served as best man for his nephew. Ushering were Kenneth Chisholm of Norwood, Richard A'Hearn of Quincy and Paul Walker of Stoneham.

Mr. Wollaston, a graduate of Boston College, attended Suffolk Law School.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Miss McFarland - Dr. Seidler

The altar of the Trinity Episcopal Church in Newton Centre was decorated with traditional white flowers while the aisle was highlighted with candelabra for the recent marriage of Miss Caroline Cromwell McFarland to Dr. Robert Craig Seidler.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Jonathan McFarland of 6 Bush Hill road, Newton Highlands, and carried a cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis of Metedeconk, N.J., are the couple's parents.

The Rev. Howard R. Dunbar officiated at the 4 o'clock afternoon service. The Brae Burn Country Club was the setting for the reception.

Given away by her father, the bride's ivory gown of peau de soie, designed with a scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves, had a modified empire bodice accented with re-embroidered Alencon lace. The slim A-line skirt and full chapel-length train were scalloped and edged with similar lace.

Miss Wahlen-Mr. Brahms

Wed at Candlelight Rites

At a recent 7:30 o'clock candlelight service at the home of the bride's parents, Miss Virginia Wahlen became the bride of Thomas Walter Brahms.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Congregational, Cambridge. Wahlen of 145 Upland road, officiated at the double-ring Cambridge. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Brahms of 192 Gibbs street, Newton, are given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white cage dress appliqued on net over a white shell. A double white bow fashioned the pretty headpiece and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of pink and white roses.

Miss Carol Beth Munro of Chelmsford was the bride's only attendant.

Paul J. Brahms of Brookline, brother of the groom, served as best man. Lt. Walter C. Wahlen of Cambridge, brother of the bride, ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. Brahms are making their home in Allston. The bride, a graduate of Cambridge High and Latin School, is attending the Northeastern University School of Nursing.

A concert is planned for the season's end, with music from the classics of Mendelssohn, Haydn, Pergolesi, Tallis, Purcell and others. Songs from the films and theater will be included, as will folk songs from many lands.

Local Girls To Be Board Members Of Magazine

Four college girls who are residents of Newton have won representation on the College Board of Mademoiselle Magazine—an award that enables them to participate in the publication's many activities and allows them to gain practical experience in magazine publishing.

The students are: Pat Mehan, 164 Highland Ave., Newtonville, University of Massachusetts.

Sisterhood Of Beth Avodah To Sponsor Auction

The sisterhood of Temple Beth Avodah, 45 Puddingstone Lane, Newton, announces an Antiques Show featuring forty dealers under the direction of Milton Babcock, to be held March 12 from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., March 13 from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., and March 14 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Chairman of this affair is Mrs. Milton Shaer with Mrs. Marshall Paisner as advisor. Also planning this affair are Mrs. Frederick Shapiro, distribution; Mrs. Ronald Viselman and Mrs. Jason Tonkony, tickets; Mrs. Lewis Aronson and Mrs. Maurice Ruebens, refreshments; Mrs. Coleman Goldberg, secretary; Mrs. Robert Berkman and Mrs. Alan Fain, publicity; and Mrs. Philip Shapiro, treasurer. The public is invited to attend.

The girls will remain on the Board until graduation. Meanwhile, each will accumulate a portfolio of work submitted to Mademoiselle which should be of value in finding a challenging job.

Once a student has been selected for the College Board, she is eligible to compete for Mademoiselle's 20 grand prizes. Each year, 20 of the Board members are chosen to become Guest Editors. To win one of these positions, a Board member must submit a second entry that shows superior aptitude for magazine work.

The 20 Guest Editors spend the month of June in New York as salaried employees. They help write, illustrate and edit Mademoiselle's August college issue, sharing offices with the magazine's regular editors. They interview well-known personalities and represent the magazine on visits to publishing houses, stores and advertising agencies. They are Mademoiselle's guests at parties, discotheques and screenings. In addition, they are photographed for the August issue and receive special consideration for future staff positions with Mademoiselle and other Condé Nast publications. The 1966 Guest Editors had a special bonus—a week's trip to Denmark and Sweden.

lems of mental health and penology."

In 1947 as a student at Yale Law School and Managing Editor of the Yale Law Journal, he published an article in that journal entitled "Legal and Medical Considerations in Commitment of the Mentally Ill."

For many years this was the definitive piece of modern research in the area of civil commitment of the mentally ill.

"From 1949 to 1954 Attorney Flaschner served as a special consultant to the National Mental Health Institute in co-authoring a model act governing hospitalization of the mentally ill, which was later enacted in several states," Richardson said.

Flaschner was associate counsel for Dr. Miriam Van Waters in 1948 when an attempt was made to oust her as superintendent of the Framingham Reformatory for Women. He served as president and counsel of Friends of Framingham, an association founded to support Dr. Van Waters' methods of rehabilitation.

In connection with his work in behalf of Framingham Reformatory, Flaschner drafted and supported day-work laws permitting some women inmates of the Reformatory to work in the outside community.

At present work-release legislation for male prisoners has been filed with the State Legislature by the Commission of Correction.

Attorney Flaschner has served on the Board of the Massachusetts Mental Health Association and heads the programs of the Massachusetts Council on Crime and Delinquency on legislation and study of bail.

He also participated in the establishment of a halfway house in Dorchester operated by the Friends of Framingham primarily for alcoholics discharged from the Framingham Reformatory.

A partner in the firm of Singer, Stoneman and Kurland, Flaschner is now serving his fifth term on the Newton Board of Aldermen. He is chairman of the Aldermanic Committees on Claims and Rules and on Planning.

He is also serving his second three year term as Newton's representative on the Metropolitan Area Planning Council where he has been a member of the Executive Committee since the establishment of the Council.

Attorney Flaschner is a former recipient of the "Young Man of the Year" award by the Newton Junior Chamber of Commerce and is now a member of the Board of the Newton Chamber of Commerce. He is a former president of the Newton World Affairs Council and Chairman of the Newton Red Feather Drive.

Flaschner is a graduate of Boston Latin School, Yale University, and Yale Law School. As a fellow at the Littauer Center of Public Administration of Harvard University, he was awarded a certificate of Public Administration.

He served in the Navy during World War II as a lieutenant junior grade and received a letter of commendation for his work in secret communications from the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet.

He is married to the former Beatrice M. Mandelstam of Newton and they have three daughters, ages 20, 17, and 14.

Hockey, Basketball Teams Fail To Make Tournies

By RAY KWASNICK

Newton South's winter sports teams ended their 1966-67 seasons with only a minimum of success. The basketball squad finished ninth out of 10 teams in the Suburban League with a 5-13 mark. The hoopsters split their last two games. The hockey team, meanwhile, lost its final contest and didn't qualify for the state tournament.

The cagers were nipped, 66-65, in a close contest at Cambridge Latin. The Cantabs, who finished last in the Suburban League, surprisingly led all the way. They jumped to a 23-12 lead at the end of the first quarter. South cut the gap down to five in the second quarter, and that's where it stayed for most of the rest of the game.

However, sparked by Captain Steve Cooper, the Lions rallied to within one point of the slipping Cantabs. But the Cantabs held on for only their third league victory of the year.

Cooper topped the Lions with another great performance. He netted 27 points on 12 field goals and three free throws. No one else hit double figures for South although five Lions had six points. Captain Ron Quick led the Latin attack with 19 while brothers John and Rick Walsh scored 17 and 12 points.

The script of the Lions' last tilt could have been identical to the Latin affair except for the fact that South won. At home against Watertown, who had gone down earlier in the season before the Lions, South came from behind to take an overtime decision, 64-62.

Again the Lions trailed throughout the game. In fact the Watertown lead grew slightly from quarter to quarter. They carried a 12-10 margin off the floor at the end of the first period. At the half they led 27-23, and by the fourth quarter Watertown possessed a five-point edge.

Again sparked by Cooper, the Lions came back. However, this time with support from seniors Rick Ginsburg and Bob Whittlesey, South tied up the game and sent it into overtime. The Lions scored only six points in the extra period, but it was enough for the 64-62 win.

Cooper again was high with 20 points giving him a season total of 310, the third highest in Newton South's history. Ginsburg and Whittlesey, playing their last games for the Lions, pitched in 14 and 12 points, respectively. The losers were led by Rick Monkewicz with 18.

The team should look forward to better days in the future. True, the team's high scorers, Cooper and Ginsburg, are going. However, only two other seniors, Whittlesey and Steve Gordon, won't be around next year.

And only the guard spots won't be filled by returning lettermen. Juniors such as Ken Isaacs at center and Lee Casty, Paul Brissette, and Bob Levine at the forward spots will provide experience for the future Lions.

The pucksters, down after getting knocked out of the state tournament by the 4-0 loss to Lynnfield, were blanked in a meaningless game by Lincoln-Sudbury 2-0. This put the Lions in fourth place with a 7-5 record behind Marian, Wayland, and Lynnfield in the Dual County League.

South hockey fans have a lot to look ahead to next year. The Lions will lose very few players to graduation. Two key men to go will be defensemen and Assistant Captain Mark Holland and Captain Frank Rezzuti. Holland's steady checking and solid play stabilized the South defense and might win him an all-star berth. Rezzuti, the older of the brother combo, provided a scoring punch that was evident when he was out with mononucleosis. During his absence South was shut out twice.

However, goalie Dave Roberts who has had a fine year and most of the other members of this winning team will return to the ice next year. This time they'll make the state tournament.

Lions JV Hoopsters End Season With 10-10 Record

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

bridge Latin. Due to vacation the Lions were perilously low on personnel. Only seven players appeared, and one, (Cliff Greene) played exclusively varsity. But because of yeoman service by those present — Joe Brodsky (14 points), Irving Houston (11), Al Berkowitz (9), Herb Snyder (7), Ken Stewart (7), and Lew Freedman (6)—the game was salvaged.

Also in the second half of the season: Newton South topped Arlington, for the second time, 54-49. Bob Saltzberg was high man with 12 points.

The Lions next dropped three in a row, to league-leading Weymouth, 69-57, to second place Rindge Tech, 52-43, and to third place Waltham, 57-54.

In the Waltham game, the JV cagers dropped their record to 8-9, the only time they were below .500 all year. It was a very rough, dirty game in which a tremendous number of fouls were called, but not nearly enough. Surprisingly, only two players fouled out. South again possessed a big early lead, but once again when the final buzzer sounded, the Lions found themselves on the short end of the score.

The Lion hoopsters next turned away Brockton, 43-37. In an extremely low scoring half, Brockton led 16-15, but the Lions grabbed the lead quickly after the intermission and never faltered. Stu Silverman dropped in 11 points to lead the club.

MRS. EDWIN HAMADA

"Open House" Arranged For Teen Dieters

Twenty-two Newton teachers have been named recipients of Fellowship Awards which will give them an opportunity to pursue independent study projects. The Fellowship program, sponsored by the Newton Teachers Association, provides these teachers the opportunity to be released for as many as five days from their regular teaching duties so that they can concentrate on studies with particular significance to their teaching assignments. These 22 awards, chosen from 54 applications, were selected because of the quality and the uniqueness of the proposals and their intrinsic value. The projects, both of an individual and a group nature, represent a wide range of topics. Reading studies reach beyond regular programs by exploring further uses of language-laboratories, by preparing teaching tapes, creating plays and developing linguistic materials.

Projects to mathematics range from planning computer-oriented courses to preparing heuristic materials, and science plans range from studies with the microscope to the consideration of outdoor laboratory experiences for high school students.

Four projects involve the arts and are concerned with planning and preparing materials to enhance and enrich

College Notes

Donald J. Sullivan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, 19 Schofield Dr., Newtonville, a senior industrial engineering student at Northeastern University, has been elected to the University's Alpha Pi Mu Honor Society on the basis of his scholarship, integrity and interest in extracurricular activities. It is one of the highest honors conferred on undergraduates.

Margaret McPhee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. McPhee, 35 Wiswall Rd., West Newton, was awarded a B.A. degree on completion of the first semester of the school year at Olivet College, Mich. A 1963 graduate of Newton High School, she majored in Sociology at Olivet, and was named to the Dean's List in her last semester. She was also granted a Provisional Teacher's Certificate at graduation.

Gail J. Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Howard, 162 Charlesbank Rd., Newton, a sophomore majoring in Elementary Education, has been named to the Dean's List at Framingham State College. A 1965 graduate of Newton High School, she was elected to the National Honor Society in her junior year there, and in her senior year was president of the Outing Club.

Women Voters Discussion Units Planned Next Week

Are you interested in Newton's city government? The League of Women Voters of Newton will devote the first of two sets of units, March 8th, 9th, and 10th to a discussion of the government of Newton.

The passage of the home rule bill enables cities and towns to update their charters through the election of charter commissions. Does Newton need changes in its city government? Come and Come offer your opinion.

The resource committee, Mrs. Ruth Fernandez chairman; Mrs. Sylvia Apelbaum, Mrs. Florence Rubin, Mrs. Helen Jackson, Mrs. Margaret Richardson, Mrs. Shirley Beaser, Mrs. Carol Pfund Ruby Weiss, Mrs. Lea Crist, Mrs. Rose Simon, Mrs. Thelma Fleishman, Mrs. Bonnie Orlin, and Mrs. Jane Montgomery, will lead discussions of the powers of the Mayor, the Board of Alderman, and the departments of the city. The size of the Board of Alderman, the length of terms, the methods of election and the means of filling vacancies will be among topics reviewed.

Copies of the city charter are available through the League of Women Voters publication plan. For more information about copies of the Newton Charter telephone Mrs. Kravitz 332-5084. Study the charter and come to a League unit on Newton's Charter prepared for a lively, thoughtful discussion. League members and interested friends of the League are invited to attend any discussion group.

The following is the schedule of the first set of Units on Newton's Charter. On Wednesday morning, March 8th, a unit (9:30-11:15 a.m.) will be held at the Newtonville Library, Walnut Street, Newtonville. Wednesday afternoon (1:15-3:00 p.m.) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Gerald Golden, 83 Hammondswood Road, Chestnut Hill. Wednesday evening (8:00-9:45) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Alan Goldberg, 31 Sheffield Road, Newtonville.

On Thursday, March 9th, a morning unit (9:30-11:15) will be held at the Newton Highlands Workshop, 72 Columbus Street, Newton Highlands. That evening (8:00-9:45) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Leonard Albert, 92 Varnick Road, Waban.

On Friday, March 10th, a morning unit (9:30-11:15) will meet at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock Street, Auburndale. A baby sitter will be in attendance.

Hellenic Women Sponsor Fashion Show, Luncheon

A Scholarship - Fashion Show, sponsored by the Hellenic Women's Club of Boston, is being held on Tuesday, March 14th at the Colonial Statler-Hilton Inn in Wakefield. Many Newton members are active in planning the affair.

This gala spring event with the theme, "Spring Into Spring" will include a full-course luncheon and a fashion show by the well-known designer of national fame, Alfred Fiandaca.

Proceeds from the event will be given to a worthy stu-

Mayor Gets Congratulations For Police and Fire Depts.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas this week announced he had received number of letters praising the work of the Newton police and fire departments.

One letter came from School Committee Edwin Hawridge, whose car was stolen from the School Committee parking lot outside the Sterns School. The car was recovered less than 12 hours later in Boston.

"It is so easy to blame; and so easy also, not to recognize good work but to take it for granted," Hawridge remarked. "This is excellent police work," he commented.

William P. McNamara, manager of Filene's store in Chestnut Hill, wrote the Mayor to praise the police and firemen for their quick and efficient work when a large plate glass window in the rear of the store was shattered in a storm last week.

"I wish to commend Officers Wallace and Stone for the great assistance they gave me in terms of protection and investigation," McNamara declared. "Also my thanks go to the men of Ladd 2 who under the most difficult weather conditions erected temporary barricades to protect the interior of our store until such time as our maintenance men could arrive on the scene. As always they did a praiseworthy job!"

Charles Hurwitz of 77 Cot-ton St., Newton, told Mayor Basbas that one evening he was putting some articles from his basement into his car parked in his driveway.

"When I came up on my second trip," Hurwitz recounted, "a police car was blocking my driveway and two very alert patrolmen were waiting for me.

"After I identified myself to their satisfaction they explained that many homes had been broken into and the contents removed in the manner that I employed. I thanked them for their diligence and felt grateful that we, who live in Newton, are so well protected," Hurwitz asserted.

DR. W. J. NEWMAN
BU Liberal Arts Names Local Dean

Dr. William J. Newman of 39 Grove Hill Park, Newtonville, has been appointed acting dean of Boston University's College of Liberal Arts. Newman, who is a professor of government, succeeds Richard Millard, who will become chancellor of Massachusetts higher education on March 1.

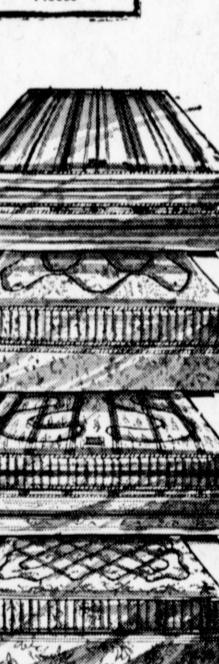

Dr. Newman is married and has one daughter. A native of Cleveland, Ohio, Newman, has been associated with Boston University since 1949.

He graduated from Hiram College in 1941 and received his M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1943. He earned his doctorate at Princeton in 1949.

Newman's academic specialties have been international relations and the meanings of liberalism. He has written "The Utilitarian Society," 1961, and "Liberalism and the Retreat from Politics," 1964.

He is now terminating a book entitled "Balance of Power in the Interwar Years, 1919-1939."

Prof. Newman spent a year at St. Anthony's College, Oxford, and another year as a Fulbright Professor at the University of Rennes, France.

Courts, Police Theme Of March Chapter Meeting

"Police, Courts and Citizens' Rights" will be the subject of the March program of the Emma Lazarus Chapter, American Jewish Congress, to be held March 15 at the Newton Highlands Women's Club, Columbus Avenue, Newton Highlands.

Members of the panel will be Edward J. McCormack, Jr., former Attorney-General; Donald Conn, assistant attorney-general; and Samuel Robison of the Mass. Civil Liberties Union, chairman of Police Practices Committee.

The moderator will be Daniel D. Levenson of Newton Lower Falls, regional chairman of the Commission on Law and Social Action.

The program will begin at 8:15. Following the presentation the panel members will hold an open discussion. Mrs. Roy L. Kisliuk, president of the chapter, will preside. The meeting is open to the public.

Years ago, where he has been Cantor and director of music.

Seven years ago, Cantor Zimmer and a group of colleagues founded and organized the New England Jewish Music Forum. Under the dynamic leadership of Cantor Zimmer, its president, this group has grown to almost 500 members.

In addition to his musical talents, Cantor Zimmer is also an able educator. His interest in youth work is known throughout the region. He has been on the faculty of many conclaves and leadership institutes.

Because of his abilities and talents in this field, he was twice chosen to be the Dean of the Youth Leadership Institutes, leading in a vital and stimulating program of education and inspiration for hundreds of teenagers from all over New England.

Unprecedented early response from out-of-state guests is a harbinger of the success of the Annual Janet Stuart Guild Spring Luncheon and Fashion Show.

On Saturday, March 4, in Stuart House on the campus of Newton College of the Sacred Heart, luncheon will be served at twelve noon followed by a parade of haute couture fashions by Bonwit Teller. Miss Janet Chute will present the parade of models.

Proceeds from this function will be presented to the Library Fund. The new library, completing a quadrangle on the campus, will be formally dedicated at three o'clock.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the college (DE 2-6700), or ticket co-chairman, Mrs. Francis X. Walsh (FA 5-4548), or Mrs. Ernest Comeau (893-0332).

Guild President, Mrs. William Scheft of Newton, president of H. Scheft Co., served as chairman of the Kiddie Kamp Shoe and Allied Industries Committee Dinner held at the Statler Hilton Hotel, February 27.

The proceeds of the dinner, which was attended by more than 100 industry leaders, will be used to create the Lt. Carl C. Marran Scholarship Fund at Kiddie Kamp in Sharon.

Strong Opposition Registered Against Office Bldg. Complex

A plan to build a complex of three two-story office buildings in Newton Lower Falls met stiff opposition recently at a joint public hearing before the Claims and Rules Committee and the Planning Board in City Hall.

The Aldermanic chamber had a standing room only crowd when the hearing on a total of 10 petitions began.

William Mitchell of Weston asked for and received a continuance on the Sun Auto Rental petition because of the absence from the city of his father, the petitioner. However, the members of the Claims and Rules Committee voted to allow anyone interested in the proposal to give an indication of their opinion. In a show of hands, none was in favor and 10 were opposed. The hearing was dismissed without prejudice on motion of Alderman William P. Matthews.

Pentland Development Corporation made an elaborate presentation in connection with the petition for construction of a three-building business complex at the Newton Lower Falls site. It comprised a model of the complex that occupied a spot in the middle of the chamber, and two projections slide screens for showing of the detailed plans.

Also presented were Myron Hilton, vice president of Union Mutual Life Insurance Company of Portland, Me., the company that assigned Pentland Development Corporation to the task of planning the development of the land, whose owner is the Greek Orthodox Church. Hilton said that his company, the largest financial institution in the State of Maine, proposed to occupy some 25 percent of the space in the complex. A purchase - sales agreement with the church has been executed, conditioned on approval of the petition, he said. He explained that Pentland would handle development, and Union Mutual would be on a rental basis. Much evidence was introduced by Hilton and others connected with the proposal in an effort to show that traffic generated by the complex would not add measurably to the 28,000 cars per day that pass in front of the complex.

It was brought out that the three buildings would be connected at the second floor level, and it was declared that the complex would be a credit to the community. Also, it was said, Union Mutual would have a 15-year lease with option to renew, and that the complex would cost an estimated $1,500,000, and that it was planned to provide each person to be employed there 25 sq. ft. of space. The Route 128 formula, it was pointed out, was 25 sq. ft.

Stuart Loughman, 24 Adeline Rd., Waban, president of the Waban Improvement Society Association, expressed the favorable attitude of his group to the proposal, and he declared that Beacon St. Extension could adequately handle the traffic to and from the complex.

Speaking as an opponent and representative of other immediate abutters, Charles A. McCarthy, 2081 Beacon St., declared that the site was an island, and that the development would completely isolate the homes of Belmore Park, of which there were 11. Traffic congestion, he said, would be difficult to control. He termed the proposal "a violation of the prime purpose of zoning."

McCarthy added that the abutters looked on the proposal as unnecessary. They would welcome establishment of a church on the site, he said, but not a business development. In closing, he gave the committee a petition signed by 100 names of immediate abutters who were not in favor.

Other objectors were Rubin Brown, Samoset Rd.; Harold Fine, 2088 Washington St.; Alvin Ring, 2075 Washington St., a Newton teacher; Sanford Blitzer, president of the Newton Lower Falls Improvement Association, and Robert B. Slattery Jr., president of the Woodland Golf Club, whose directors, he said, wished to indicate their op-

When Claims and Rules Chairman Franklin N. Flaschner called for a show of hands, one was raised in favor and 44 against.

Robert Corliss, speaking in behalf of the Mr. Donut petition, declared that the "typical" donut shop would be an asset to the community. The company had a lease on the property conditioned on approval of the petition, he said, and declared that the existing parking area behind the building and next to the Wayne Drug Store would be capable of handling the traffic. The intention was to operate the shop daily from early in the morning till midnight, he said. Corliss submitted a petition signed by the names of 15 abutters who were in favor.

The show of hands, called for prior to ending this hearing, brought up two hands of property owners in favor and 21 opposed.

The case for the Garden City Family Recreation Center, Inc., was presented by Richard J. Pearson of 131 Windsor Rd., Waban, who described himself as a Newton resident since 1943 and the Center's clerk and representative. He listed the Center's incorporators as follows:

President, Harrison Rowbotham, who a few days ago was elected vice president of the United States of America Tennis Association and Pearson added, president since 1951 of the New England Youth Tennis Foundation; treasurer, Sidney Cohen, CPA; Dr. Way Dong Woo, electronics engineer and manufacturer and a member of the Newton School Committee; Irving Karg, lawyer; Dr. Anthony Minchello, dentist; Sumner Rodman, life insurance counselor and well known in the tennis world, and himself as the corporation clerk.

Planned for the site, he said, were eight outdoor tennis courts, five indoor tennis courts, two squash courts, a medium sized swimming pool, a small wading pool and two parking areas for approximately 40 cars at no charge.

There will be only one building, he went on, and he said that "we have informed neighbors that this will not be the usual clubhouse, and there will be no kitchen and no facilities for dancing. Further, he said the club would be so constructed as not to produce excess noise. Youth development programs, he said, would be in charge of tennis and swim instructors.

Continuing, Pearson said that the outdoor facilities would be available only until dusk. "Furthermore," he went on, "we are willing to put in writing that the families living opposite our facility will be issued special membership cards permitting use on weekdays at 50 percent of the normal rates.

The abutters to the site, he said, are: "In Boston, only the Ellen M. Gifford Sheltering Home, who have authorized us to proceed with this petition. In Newton: The Massachusetts Bay Transport Authority's street car turnaround depot at Lake St., the MDC and the Chestnut Hill Country Club's golf course."

The MDC land is an easement, approximately 35 feet wide, that contains an underground aqueduct.

The Sheltering Home is now to lovers of cats throughout a wide area. There, cats who no longer can be cared for by their owners, are assured of a life of luxury for as long as they live.

Roland Gray, the Shelter's president, told the committee that the area provided for the cat's outdoor recreation, would be moved in order to provide room for the proposed project.

Three opponents spoke, all Boston citizens. They were Thelma R. Gottlieb, an attorney who said she represented 70 Brighton families, and State Representatives John F. Melia and Michael J. Daly of the 17th Suffolk District. Rep. Melia declared that the project would create

Boylan Puppets On Countryside School Program

Countryside School is looking forward to this lively new production, to be presented March 4th, 5th, 11th, and 12th at 2:30 p.m. Produced and directed by Eleanor Boylan, Gulliver's Travels will be performed by the Young Newton Players, with the delightful Ruth Brand puppets as Lilliputians. An original score by Karl Ernst will fill the beloved Swift tale with music.

Gulliver's Travels, despite its popularity with young people, has rarely been staged. The technical difficulties of portraying Gulliver in the land of the "little people" has kept the story out of the theatre for many years. Mrs. Boylan's ingenious coupling of child actors with puppets provides a unique opportunity for Newton children.

For those too young to read the book, as well as those already familiar with the story (and their nostalgic parents), the production at Countryside School, Dedham St., Newton Highlands, promises an afternoon of unusual entertainment. Call 527-5938 or 969-7846 for ticket information.

Dave Brickman Will Speak At Woman's Club

David Brickman, writer and lecturer, will speak at the meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club Friday afternoon, Mar. 10 at 2:30 o'clock. He will appear through the courtesy of the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company.

Preceding the Brickman lecture there will be a coffee and social hour, with the hostesses Mrs. George O'Neill and Mrs. Patrick J. Courtney.

The stage decorations will be by Mrs. Frederick L. Putnam, Mrs. Walter D. Stewart and Mrs. Stanton J. TenBroek Jr. Greeting members at the door will be Mrs. Alice T. Smith, Mrs. Charles H. Day Jr., and Miss Dorothy Taylor.

Mrs. Stanford D. Blitzer, club president, will conduct a business session at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Clarendon L. Southmayd will give the opening prayer, to be followed by a verse of "America," with Mrs. John W. Merrill, music chairman, at the piano.

Small Group Of Women Give Huge Assist In Cancer War

Aid for Cancer Research is a group of 27 Greater Boston women including many from Newton who know through experience that strength in dedication is worth far more than strength in numbers, according to Mrs. Bernard D. Frank, of Newton, president. Small in size of membership, it is large in accomplishments.

Established 19 years ago, these women have played a strong role in acquiring urgently needed funds to be used to advance the fight against cancer. Their efforts in behalf of research have supported innumerable programs at local hospitals and medical schools. Over $350,000 has been raised in the past years and used to aid research, without delay.

Mrs. Frank points out that all requests are first approved by the eminent doctors of the Medical Advisory Board, consisting of Dr. Francis D. Moore, Surgeon-in-chief, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital; Dr. Sidney Farber (Chairman, 1967), Children's Medical Center; Dr. Joseph Aub, Massachusetts General Hospital; Dr. Shields Warren, New England Deaconess Hospital; and Dr. Peter Mozena, University Hospital.

Whether it be for a piece of equipment, scholarship assistance, or fellowship, when the need for money to continue research work is both urgent and immediate, that is when Aid for Cancer Research is called upon.

Wisconsin Alumni Founders Meet On March 7

All four Newton Representatives voted "yes" on a measure which would have provided for a study of capital punishment and its effect as a deterrent.

However, Reps. Joseph G. Bradley, Irving Fishman, Paul F. Mallory and Theodore D. Mann found themselves on the losing side of the fight as the controversial bill was defeated 116-105. Rep. Edward M. Dickson of Weston, whose district includes Newton's Ward 4, also voted in favor of the study.

"Ranny" Weeks Ends 20-Yr. U.S. Naval Reserve Service

Captain Randall W. Weeks, USNR, of Newton, better known to many as Ranny Weeks, retired from the United States Naval Reserve last week after more than twenty years of service.

Captain Weeks who is the executive director of the Boston University Law School Alumni Association, completed his Naval career with Reserve Public Affairs Company 1-1, where he has served since its inception in 1947.

He served two tours of active duty with the Navy during his career. From 1942-1946, he was the public affairs officer for the Naval Air Training Center in Jacksonville, Florida, with collateral duties as the president of the Summary Court Martial Board.

He was in charge of the U.S. Naval Recruiting and Naval Officer procurement for the Philadelphia area for three years.

Draft To Be Discussed By Panel Here March 6

Speakers representing divergent positions concerning Government policy on the draft will participate in the panel discussion "The Draft and/or Other Service Opportunities" being sponsored March 6 by the Newton Community Peace Center.

The public meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Beethoven School, will feature John Carr, State Director of Selective Service for Massachusetts and Albert Kay, Associate Director of Procurement Policy, Office of Assistant Secretary of Defense Washington.

These two men will outline draft regulations and Selective Service opportunities with various branches of the Service.

George Willoughby of the Upland Institute of the Crozer Foundation, Chester, of war and peace.

Penn, will present information on alternative service and the conscientious objector classification.

The meeting is expected to be of keen interest to Newton youths who face the draft and to their parents, as an informative aid in helping young men to make wise decisions for their careers during the year 18 to 26. The meeting is open to the public, free of charge, and a question-and-answer period will follow the panel presentation.

Moderator of the meeting is Newton resident, William Carmen, an American Jewish War Veteran and a member of the Peace Center's Advisory and Supporting Council. The Peace Center is a non-profit, educational organization devoted to increasing community knowledge and understanding on vital issues of war and peace.

DR. HANS L. TEUBER
Member Of MIT Faculty Speaks At Church Here

Dr. Hans-Lucas Teuber of Mass. Institute of Technology will be the principal speaker on Sunday, March 5, at 11 a.m., when the First Unitarian Society in Newton will present another shared pulpit program.

The address, "Determinism and Freedom — the Behavioral Sciences and the Problems of Voluntary Action," will highlight the 1967 series, "New Frontiers in Religion," at the West Newton church.

At M.I.T., Dr. Teuber is chairman of the Psychology Section and heads the Psychophysiological Dept. which seeks to develop new techniques in the diagnosis of brain injury in adults and children.

Dr. Leslie T. Pennington, minister, will lead a discussion period following the address. The public is invited.

Girls Hit On Leaving Bus

Two local youngsters were struck by a car last Monday evening as they alighted from a bus at 1763 Commonwealth Avenue, West Newton.

The girls, Amanda Parodi, 12, of 2084 Washington street, West Newton, and Lois Reco, 13, of 15 Aspen avenue, Auburndale, were taken by police to Newton-Wellesley Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Operator of the car that hit them, Roger R. Shell of Belgrave, Mont., told police that he had started away from the intersection when the lights shifted to green, and the girls came out from in front of the bus.

Bill Filed By Rep. Mann Sets Reimbursement

House Bill No. 1045 has been filed by Rep. Theodore D. Mann to secure substantial reimbursement for the City of Newton for funds expended in its conduct of the Newton Junior College.

The successful enactment of the legislation would materially benefit the taxpayers of the city and would help the Junior College which has an enrollment of approximately six hundred.

The bill has received favorable action in the House Committee on Education and is now in Ways and Means.

Key city officials are supporting the proposed legislation, which is similar to that successfully sponsored by Rep. Mann last year.

POWELL; AIDS SEEK 3-JUDGE COURT TO HEAR CLAIMS

A DECISION today by a federal judge was expected by attorneys of Adam Clayton Powell on the suit they filed in Washington yesterday calling for the naming of a three-judge panel to hear their claim the House action March 1 barring Powell from his legislative seat was unconstitutional.

Suing Speaker John W. McCormack and several other House leaders and officers, the attorneys said that until the constitutional issue is decided, the three-judge court should issue a preliminary injunction restraining the defendants from executing the resolution under which Powell was excluded.

The requested injunction also would direct McCormack to administer the oath of office to Powell and the House sergeant-at-arms to pay him his salary.

REUTHER TAKES CONTROL OF WILDCAT GM PLANT

THE UNITED AUTO WORKERS have taken control of a rebellious UAW local which defied the union's leaders in three wildcat walkouts, including one that resulted in the laying off of about 200,000 General Motors Corp. employees.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, announced the union was putting an administrator in charge of UAW Local 549, which represents the 2,700 workers at GM's body parts plant in Mansfield, Ohio.

Reuther's announcement came as dissident factions in the local continued an unauthorized strike at the plant.

JUDGE REFUSES TO DISMISS JFK PLOT CHARGES

A DISTRICT JUDGE, Bernard J. Bagert, has refused in New Orleans to dismiss a murder-conspiracy charge against Clay L. Shaw, who is accused of conspiring to kill President Kennedy. The ruling cleared the way for a preliminary hearing next Tuesday for Shaw, 54, retired managing director of the International Trade Mart.

The judge also deferred a ruling on another defense motion, asking identifying of a "confidential informant" Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison says heard Shaw plotting against the President.

GOP ASKS RESERVATIONS TO U.S.-SOVIET TREATY

CONSERVATIVE SENATE Republicans proposed Wednesday two reservations to the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty. Senate approval of the reservations could scuttle the consular agreement, but there appeared to be little support for the two riders offered by Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.).

Mundt suggested these reservations: (1) — U.S. consular officers in Russia should have the "same right to press expression" as a Soviet consul in the United States; and (2) — the treaty should not take effect until the President advises Congress that there is "no longer a need for U.S. forces in Vietnam."

MOON LANDING CRAFT DELIVERY DELAYED

PROBLEMS IN DEVELOPING a new spacecraft and the threat of design changes resulting from the Apollo 1 fire will push delivery of the Space Agency's first moon landing craft past its deadline, it was learned yesterday.

The result, informed sources said, could be that the craft will make its maiden flight sometime this summer instead of this spring as engineers had hoped.

VOLPE ASKS FOR PANEL TO DRAFT MASTER TAX PLAN

GOVERNOR VOLPE yesterday called on the legislature to avoid day-to-day tax decisions through a master plan.

In a special message to both houses, Volpe said, a master tax plan for the decade ahead "is an imperative need. We must know where tomorrow's revenue will come from to meet tomorrow's needs."

The governor proposed creation of a 16-member special commission to project revenue collections and needs. The commission would report its findings by next February.

MBTA DOESN'T EXPECT 'PHONY' CRASH CLAIMS

A SPOKESMAN for the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority MBTA says injury claims "probably will be costly" but the authority does not expect a rash of phony claims to be filed as a result of the crash of two rapid transit trains in Charlestown during the storm Tuesday. An estimated 145 persons were treated at hospitals for injuries.

The spokesman said the MBTA believes that every claim made against it "would be made in good faith." The MBTA does not carry insurance, preferring to save premium costs while paying claims from its own funds.

APPEALS COURT SPURNS YOUTH'S DRAFT PLEA

THE U.S. COURT of Appeals in Boston has dismissed an appeal by David B. Wood of Watertown who was sentenced to a three-year term for failing to submit to the draft.

Wood's attorney, Henry M. Holzer of New York, claimed the government had no right to draft anyone. But Judge Bailey Aldrich, speaking for the three-judge court, said, "The claim that no person owes any other person any duty whatsoever, except not to harm him, has no basis in law or philosophy."

WORCESTER POLICE CLAIM CAR-THEFT RING BROKEN

WORCESTER POLICE say they have broken up a New England-wide car-theft ring with the arrest of five men from the Worcester area. Further arrests were expected and state police had joined the investigation, the officials reveal.

The ring had stolen some 250 cars in the six-state region, investigators said, including about 50 in Worcester.

U. S. TROOPS on two fronts were stepping up their offenses on the ground and in the air today against Communist forces which are pressing their heaviest mortar attacks of the Vietnam war.

The Reds yesterday made twin mortar attacks on two 9th Division posts in the Delta, killing at least six Americans and wounding 25. American Marines were digging in just south of the militarized zone where a beefed-up North Vietnamese force has been intensifying its shelling of American positions.

RUSSIAN, 130, AND CHILD BRIDE, 114, MARK CENTENNIAL

THE SOVIET TASS news agency reported that Balakish Ondzhems, 130, and his 114-year-old wife, Amina, yesterday celebrated their 100th wedding anniversary in the southern mountain village of Ilkhychi.

A Tass dispatch from the Azerbaijan city of Baku quoted the wife, quick and energetic, as saying: "Under old law, he could have had several wives. But I have been his only wife for 100 years."

FRENCH FEAR VIOLENCE IN SOMALILAND

FRENCH TROOPS and police forces are on alert in French Somaliland against violence as hostile racial groups prepared for the March 19 independence referendum.

French officials complained that a mounting radio propaganda barrage from neighboring Somalia was urging the population to vote for independence from France in the plebiscite.

Storm Fails To Hinder Attendance At Hearing

By JAMES G. COLBERT, JR.

MORE than 500 Newton parents and teachers crowded into the cafeteria of Newton South High School during Monday night's storm to attend a hearing on the report of the Elementary School Schedule Study Group, headed by Boston University Education Professor Malcolm S. Knowles.

It was the biggest and most important public session held to date in the prolonged controversy as to whether pupils in the city's elementary schools should remain on their present split-session schedule or be shifted to a single-session system.

Strong feeling on the issue was reflected at times during the proceedings, but the hearing generally was conducted in an extremely orderly manner.

The hearing consisted of a first phase during which those present questioned the study group on different aspects of the report and then of a second part in which individuals addressed their opinions on the report and comments on the issue.

City Forces Battle Deceptive Storm

A "deceptive" storm, termed by some as the worst of the season but billed as "just a plain old snowstorm" by the weatherman, dumped up to 12 inches of heavy wet snow in Newton this week.

Going by the rule of thumb of $10,000 an inch, the storm cost the city about $100,000 in snow removal costs but brought immeasurable benefits in the form of drought relief.

The mixture of rain, sleet and snow began about 8 p.m. Monday night and continued all day Tuesday. Driving conditions were hazardous throughout the storm, especially late Tuesday when temperatures dropped.

Several accidents were reported throughout the city but no critical injuries were listed. The most spectacular accident occurred on the Eliot street bridge when a panel truck operated by Peter J. Devonshire st., Boston, was Balconoff, 57, of 115 Upland returning home after closing

Residence Issue Overlooked In Row Over Ousting Powell

A number of experts on constitutional law have raised a question as to whether the members of Congress committed a legal blunder in following the procedure they did in voting to exclude Adam Clayton Powell from the national House.

The legal sharps do not dispute the justification of giving Powell the heave-ho. What they do challenge is whether it was done in a legal manner which will stand up in court.

Ironically, they think Powell could have been expelled from Congress on the strictly constitutional ground that he no longer is a legal resident of New York State because he has carefully remained away from the state to avoid arrest in connection with a defamation suit.

Of course, the members of Congress who spearheaded the move to oust Powell did not want

Winterfest Helpers Get Aldermen's Commendation

A resolution commending those who helped make possible the City of Newton's exhibit at the 1967 Winterfest was approved by unanimous vote of the Board of Aldermen Monday night.

Submitted by Ward 1 Alderman-at-large Adelaide B. Ball, the resolution was as follows:

"Whereas, the City of Newton was represented with distinction at the 1967 Winterfest in the exhibition of the 'Treasures of Massachusetts', thereby effectively presenting various significant aspects of our community's life for the information of thousands of visitors, and

"Whereas, Newton's successful display was designed and produced largely because of the personal efforts, talent, and dedication of a group of our local citizens, now

"Be it resolved: That the Board of Aldermen take cognizance of the singular success enjoyed by the Newton exhibit, and expresses its appreciation and commendation to those who made it possible, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shattuck, chairmen of the Newton Winterfest Committee, and to the other volunteers who gave generously of themselves and their talent so that Newton would be properly represented among the cities of the Commonwealth at the event."

The Newton Winterfest exhibit has been set up in the City Hall lobby. The men and women who served on the committee that made it possible, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Shattuck, are as follows: Art director, Ernest E. Morenon; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Asaff, Mrs. E. Graham Bates,

This small band has tried over the years to provide an evening's change of pace, by visiting those patients every few weeks. The evening usually consists of dancing for the patients, and then refreshments, with some visits including special entertainment, such as the coming visit on the 14th by the Barbershoppers singing group.

And at Christmas of course Doug Garron puts on a special show, with Santa Claus (Peter Knight) to give out gifts to the patients. Now that the Barbershop Chorus have established regular meeting headquarters at the Unitarian Church Parish Hall (every Monday night at 8 p.m.) in Wellesley Hills, it is hoped that they will visit Mattapan again.

Anyone interested in joining the visiting group of Mrs. Elsie Anderson are more than welcome, and she can be contacted for further information (235-5740).

Election Board Re-appointments Get Alderman OK

Two reappointments to the Newton Election Commission were confirmed Monday night by unanimous vote of the Board of Aldermen.

Both Eugene M. Hirschberg of 19 Wyman St., Waban, and Charles J. Doherty of 26 Sterling St., West Newton, were reappointed to four-year terms beginning April 1.

Also approved was the appointment of Edmund Bolduc, acting street commissioner, as superintendent of brown tail moth suppression an unpaid post. His appointment becomes effective at once and continues to Dec. 31.

The reappointment of Earl P. Stevenson of 106 Shorncliffe Rd., Newton, as member of the Newton Redevelopment Authority for a period of five years was held.

Commands Viet Nam Company

Army 1st Lt. John G. Gurry, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gurry, 57 Hunnewell Avenue, Newton, recently assumed command of the 74th Supply Company at Cam Ranh Bay, Viet Nam.

The lieutenant entered on active duty in June, 1965, and arrived overseas a year later.

A 1961 graduate of Newton High School, Lt. Gurry received a B.A. in Psychology from the University of Maine, and was commissioned through the U. of M. ROTC program.

In addition to his teaching Business Policy at Northeastern, he is a consultant in connection with general business management problems, specializing in long-range planning and international business.

He is the author of several articles appearing this spring in the Columbia Journal of World Business and in The Tax Executive.

"Substance" Is Sermon Title

The imperishability of spiritual things will be a theme of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled "Substance" to be read in all Christian Science churches on Sunday.

Bible references will include a verse from Psalm 125: "They that trust in the Lord shall be as mount Zion, which cannot be removed, but abideth for ever."

PLAN RECITAL—Heidi and Alfred Kanwischer of Newton, duo-pianists, who will give a four-hand, one piano, recital at Jordan Hall on April 3rd.

Husband-Wife Duo To Offer Piano Recital

Alfred and Heidi Kanwischer, of Cedar street, Newton, will be heard in a four-hand, one piano recital at Jordan Hall on Monday, April 3rd at 8:30 p.m.

The noted duo-pianists have made many concert appearances. During the past year they also have been active in Newton, where they gave over fifteen lectures-recitals in the local schools.

Last summer they participated in the U.S. Government sponsored Title I program. They also will give several public recitals in London next month.

Their program at Jordan Hall will consist of the great F minor Fantasia of Schubert, the Petite Suite of Debussy, Impromptu of Robert Schumann, and a group of Legends by Dvorak, all seldom-heard music originally written for one piano, 4-hands. Also included will be an original composition by Mr. Kanwischer entitled "Toilers of the Sea."

Alfred Kanwischer, presently on the piano faculty at Boston University, is a former pupil of the late Egon Petri, Dutch pianist, and Bela Nagy. He studied composition with Darius Milhaud in Oakland, California, and at the Aspen Music Festival in Colo.

In 1959, Mr. Kanwischer won the Young Artists' Auditions in San Francisco and was subsequently soloist with the San Francisco Symphony.

He has given many concerts throughout California and the Middle West, and his compositions have been performed over radio station KPFA in Berkeley, composers' workshops in San Francisco and locally at the Composers' Forum in Belmont.

Heidi Kanwischer is a graduate of the Univ. of Calif. at Berkeley, and was a pupil of Ignace Hilsberg of Los Angeles, Egon Petri and Bela Nagy. She was a soloist with the Southern California Bach Festival, and appeared over radio station KPFA in Berkeley for three years.

FDA Names Dr. Heyn As Boston Science Advisor

Dr. Arno H. A. Heyn of 21 Alexander Rd., Newton Highlands, professor of Chemistry at Boston University, has been sworn in as a science advisor to the Boston District Laboratories of the Food and Drug Administration.

Professor Heyn will assist the FDA in devising new and improved methods for testing thousands of domestic and imported samples, which field inspectors continually collect in the effort to protect the people against contaminated foods and unsafe drugs.

He was selected because of his distinguished career in science education and his extensive background in the field of chemistry.

Dr. Heyn is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Association of University Professors, and the honor societies of Sigma Xi and Phi Lambda Upsilon.

He has published 17 papers in the field of Analytical Chemistry. During the summers of 1954 to 1956 he was a visiting scientist at the Brookhaven National Laboratory, under contract with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, and in 1965 he spent the second semester at the Eidg. Technische Hochschule in Zurich, Switzerland, on sabbatical leave.

Reynolds Gives Jaycees Insight On Barbiturates

The Newton Jaycees held their March meeting last Tuesday evening at the Highlands Restaurant in Newton Highlands.

The guest speaker of the evening was Richard W. Reynolds, a pharmacist with the F. A. Hubbard Drug Co. of Newton and the secretary of the Jaycees.

Mr. Reynolds spoke on barbiturate addiction, an increasingly prevalent disease in the United States today and one which is the common complication of opiate addiction. Dick had given this speech before several police groups and civic associations and his speech was quite comprehensive and interesting.

He differentiated between narcotic and barbiturate addiction, and discussed the effects of barbiturate poisoning, the types and amounts of barbiturates used, chronic intoxication and recognizable symptoms, treatment, laws, and enforcement problems connected with barbiturate addiction.

Film and Forum Series To Open At Temple Tues.

The Adult Education Committee of Temple Emanuel of Newton is sponsoring a Film and Forum Series which will continue for four consecutive Tuesday evenings beginning March 14 in the Benjamin Vestry of the Temple.

The program for each evening will feature an interesting and provocative movie which raises several questions.

The film will be followed with comments by a panel and open discussion from the audience. Rabbi M. David Weiss, associate rabbi, will serve as moderator. Herbert Berman is chairman of the Adult Education Committee.

On March 14 the featured film will be, "The Thief and the Hangman," a kinescope of an Eternal Light television program produced by the Jewish Theological Seminary. It is a morality fable based in part on an ancient legend of the Yemenite Jews. It deals with the theme of moral man in an immoral society and road, Waban, slammed through a bridge railing in Newton Upper Falls and landed on the bank of the river.

He was treated at New-Wellesley Hospital and admitted for nose and shoulder fractures.

The city's snow-battling forces moved against the storm at 7 p.m. when Street Commr. Edmund Bolduc sent 22 sanders into action. By 1 a.m. Tuesday 83 pieces of equipment, mostly plows, were put into service. By 9 a.m., Bolduc had doubled the number of pieces with 167 plows and sanders on the job.

Schools were closed throughout the city, which didn't bother the kids any. Some business establishments closed also and where they didn't, absenteeism and tardiness soared.

Perhaps the worst driving conditions were early in the day Tuesday when commuters were attempting to get to their jobs. One man left his home in Scituate at 6 a.m. and at 8 a.m., two hours later, had only managed to get to Newton on Rte. 128.

Harry Terban, Weather Bureau meteorologist in Boston, said "this will make a good dent in the drought. The snow will make it quite favorable for the upcoming spring season."

Terban said the storm could not be classified as among New England's worst. "Comparatively speaking," he said, "this was just a good old snowstorm."

He said the storm was a product of two colliding air masses—warm, moist air from the tropics and cold, dry air from the polar region.

"The polar air mass will be the victor in the elemental struggle," he said, leaving the northeast in the grip of a cold snap.

"That's good," Terban said. "The sudden freeze will prevent a rapid runoff, easing the flood threat and making it possible for more water to seep into the ground and replenish the sinking water level."

West Newton Private Takes Infantry Course

Army Pvt. Sidney Olasky, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Ogalsky, 42 North Gate Pl., West Newton, has completed eight weeks of advanced infantry training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

He received specialized instruction in small unit tactics and in firing such weapons as the M-14 rifle, the M-60 machine gun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Tea will be served following the meeting. Mrs. Herbert Goldenberger of Chestnut Hill, president of the senior group of the Boston Wellesley College Club, and Mrs. William O'Brien of Newton, arrangements co-chairman of the junior group of the Boston Wellesley College Club, will pour.

Wellesley Club Program Mar. 15

Newton members of the Boston Wellesley College Club will participate in an afternoon program at the Newton Art Center next Wednesday (March 15) at 2 p.m. A gallery tour and lecture will be given by Mrs. Jerome Presnell, an alumna of Wellesley College and a member of the faculty of Pine Manor Junior College.

Cynthia Morgan of Newtonville and Jane M. Banas of Newton Centre were named to the Westfield State College Dean's List for the first semester.

Sandy's Discount Store Acquired By King's Inc.

King's Department Stores, Inc., one of the nation's major self-service department stores, has acquired Sandy's Discount Stores, according to an announcement by William F. Kenney, vice president and general manager of King's. King's Dept. Stores, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, has 47 stores in 14 states from Maine to Florida and as far west as Denver. King's serves over twenty million customers a year and does an annual volume of approximately one hundred and forty million dollars.

King's maintains an executive and buying office at 150 California St. in Newton and a New York buying office where a large staff of apparel buyers enables King's customers to purchase the newest in fashions for all the family at substantial savings.

"Because of our huge buying power," says Mr. Kenney, "we at King's hope to bring to Sandy's customers even better values than before. King's buys more and therefore pays less. These savings are passed on to our customers. This policy plus careful consideration of fine quality, has made King's one of the most successful self-service chains in the nation."

"There will be no change in Sandy's merchandising policies," Mr. Kenney continued, "store hours, money back guarantees, fine quality, customer service . . . all these will be standard procedure as before. We at King's appreciate the confidence of Sandy's customers, and sincerely hope we can continue to serve them and perhaps save them even more in purchases for the family and home."

Use Sidewalks

Editor of The Graphic:

In the discussion of the single session versus the double session schedules for the elementary schools, a great deal of emphasis has been placed upon the safety of the children walking to and from school.

In the light of so much parental concern for traffic safety, I think it is about time that a campaign were begun to insist that teenagers walk on the sidewalks instead of on the streets.

Anyone who drives in the neighborhood of Newton High School or Warren Junior High School has to pilot around large numbers of teenagers who are rude in their attitude toward drivers and irresponsible in their example to young children.

It is ridiculous to try to train young children to walk on the sidewalks and at the same time to allow older children to hog the streets which are meant for automobiles.

Sincerely yours,
ELLEN S. GOODWIN
(Mrs. George Goodwin, Jr.)

Let Public Have Say

Editor of The Graphic:

I strongly object to Mr. Colbert's expressions of disapproval of our state legislators who sponsored a recent resolution memorializing Congress to call upon the President to order a cease fire and ending of bombing in North Vietnam, in order to create a climate for negotiations.

Mr. Colbert feels it is best left to the President to decide, but the conflict in Vietnam is being fought by citizens from Massachusetts. People from Newton have given their lives in this undeclared war.

Citizens of Massachusetts are paying for it with their tax money. Enormous amounts of our national treasure are being diverted from the towns, cities and states to pay for armaments to wage this war.

I think that this is a grave situation about which every citizen, every state legislator, should have an opinion. The memorialization to Congress is an appropriate democratic channel for the expression of these opinions on a national crisis that affects us all.

A. Raymond Tye Named Crime Prevention Head

The appointment of A. Raymond Tye, 44, of 219 Chestnut St., West Newton, as chairman of the Mayor's Crime Prevention Committee was announced today by Mayor Monte G. Basbas.

Born in Haverhill, Mr. Tye attended Tufts University and Boston University Law School, and is a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. He is first vice president of National Distillers Distributors Foundation, vice-president of B'nai B'rith Sports Lodge and a national commissioner of the Anti-Defamation League.

Mr. Tye has been active in the Combined Jewish Philanthropies and is industry chairman for the 1967 Cancer Drive. He is Trustee of Tufts University Civic Education Center and the University Hospital. He is a life member of NAACP and is associated with the Caritas Guild. He is also a member of the Mass. Police Chiefs Association and the One Hundred Club. Mr. Tye is married and has five children.

On assuming his new position, Chairman Tye announced the following sub-committees: Public Relations; Howard Branch, Melvin Norris and Joseph H. Karlin. Collection and Distribution of Crime Prevention Literature; Edmund C. Berkley and Sidney T. Small, Burglary Problems; George M. Levy and Mr. Berkley. Teen Age Problems; Mr. Tye, Mr. Small and William E. Merchant. Liaison with State and Federal officials; George S. Chaletzky, Harry M. Cohen and Mr. Branch.

Mr. Norris was named sub-chairman of the full committee.

Powell Case Shows Need For Code of Ethics

One thing the ouster of Powell points out beyond any argument or dispute is the need for a Code of Ethics for members of Congress.

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler spoke out to urge the adoption of a Code of Ethics on her first day as member of Congress — the day Adam Clayton Powell was denied his seat pending an investigation.

Now her proposal is being pushed into the forefront as an issue of mounting proportions. Those Congressmen who are opposed to the adoption of a Code of Ethics should be prepared to explain why they're against it.

A political columnist indicated the other day that members of Congress who voted for the exclusion of Powell now have an obligation to vote for the enactment of a Code of Ethics.

They certainly do. But what about the Congressmen who voted against the expulsion of Powell? Don't they have the same obligation?

As a matter of fact, the members of Congress who came to Powell's defense may find themselves in an extremely vulnerable position if they fail to join in the movement by Mrs. Heckler and others.

This is not something that the freshman members of Congress should be obliged to force onto their elders. A lot of people are beginning to ask why there shouldn't be a Code of Ethics by which the members of Congress would be required to abide.

Her talk will be illustrated by slides.

Prior to the meeting there will be a white elephant sale to raise money for the June Rose Show. Mrs. Charles Schmitt of Auburndale will help with refreshments.

Political Highlights

to throw him out on the technical question of his residence in New York State.

They preferred to exclude him on the basis of his flagrant abuse of his public trust, his misuse of public funds and the fraud he committed upon the public. In doing so, however, they may have left the way open for a federal court to overturn their action.

Members of the investigating committee headed by veteran Congressman Emanuel Celler didn't explore the matter of Powell's legal residence in New York because they obviously were seeking means of avoiding recommendation for his expulsion from Congress.

They permitted Powell to walk in, declare that he would only answer questions relating to the constitutional requirements of age, residence and citizenship and then walk out without being interrogated as to how he meets the residence requirements since he hasn't set foot in New York State for a long time and wasn't there when he was re-elected last fall.

The problem now arises that Powell was not excluded on that ground.

Ted on Sound Ground In Political Warning

Senator Edward M. Kennedy, in response to a newsman's question, expressed the hope the other day that the major speeches on war in Vietnam by himself and his brother, Senator Robert F. Kennedy of New York, would not cause a division within the Democratic party.

Ted Kennedy was not being flip or smart-alecky. He was being sincere, and in the speech he made supporting his brother, Bobby, he was speaking from strong convictions he had previously expressed privately.

Yet, while Ted might hope that his words and those of Bobby would cause no split in the Democratic party, he must have known that such a division within his party would inevitably develop, as, indeed, it already has.

There is no real reason to believe that any meaningful peace negotiations would develop from a cessation of the bombing in North Vietnam as urged by Bobby Kennedy and seconded by Ted Kennedy.

Any indication that the North Vietnamese would go to the negotiating table if the bombings were halted undoubtedly would bring an immediate order to stop the air raids.

However, there was sound logic to Ted Kennedy's warning that public dissatisfaction with the war in Vietnam could produce a protest vote which would cause President Johnson's downfall next year and seriously hurt the Democratic party.

The problem is that quick negotiations and peace talks without renegeing on our commitment and withdrawing our troops are more easily requested than accomplished.

Ted Kennedy does not propose that we renege on our commitments in Vietnam or that we withdraw our troops from that war-ravaged nation.

He backs his older brother's appeal for a suspension of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, and he calls for quick negotiations and peace talks.

The problem is that quick negotiations and peace talks without renegeing on our commitment and withdrawing our troops are more easily requested than accomplished.

Ted Kennedy's implied criticism of the slowdown of the Johnson administration in some programs because of the war in Vietnam must have stung like a whiplash at the White House.

It may have hurt more than Bobby's call for a ban on bombing, because Ted's relations with President Johnson have been warmer than those of his brother.

Ted's relations with LBJ may well have become the latest casualty of the war in Vietnam.

Local Solons Back Proposed Welfare Bill

Reps. Joseph G. Bradley,

Irving Fishman and Theodore

Mann of Newton, are among the bipartisan sponsors at the State House of $804, a bill for reorganization of the Commonwealth's public welfare system.

Enactment of this bill, according to the Massachusetts Committee on Children and Youth, would result in major benefits to the people of this community — welfare recipients and taxpayers alike.

It will have a public hearing Monday, Mar. 13, before the Joint Committee on State Administration.

There are two important facets to the plan. First, it provides that the Commonwealth will pick up the cost of the entire local welfare operation.

Secondly, it provides for a network of state-operated service centers strategically located throughout the Commonwealth, with branches easily accessible to the people.

Named To Committee Of Scrap Metal Group

Murray Glickman, 33 Beaumont avenue, Newtonville, has been appointed a member of the executive committee of the Northern New England Chapter, Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel.

Samuel Robinson is a member of the legal panel of the Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union and chairman of the Police Practices committee.

Former Attorney General McCormack's special interest in citizens rights led him to publish a widely used pamphlet, entitled, "If You Are Arrested."

Ted Kennedy alluded to a very distinct possibility.

Indeed, the Republican tide which hit Massachusetts and a number of other states across the nation in last fall's election obviously flowed from public discontent with the war in Vietnam.

What politicians sometimes forget is that a shift of 10 or 15 per cent of the voters can set a political tidal wave in motion and that a protest vote is not necessarily born of reason or logic.

In 1946 a surging Republican tide, which stemmed from public dissatisfaction with post-war rationing and shortages of such things as butter, meat and nylon stockings, rolled across the United States.

Here in Massachusetts it swept down to defeat such men as Maurice J. Tobin, Paul A. Deyer and David I. Walsh who, in no way, were responsible for the shortages but, nevertheless, were victims of the political tide.

So Ted Kennedy knows what he is talking about when he implies that public dissatisfaction with the war in Vietnam could spawn a protest vote which would leave the Democratic party in a shambles after next year's election.

Ted also has grave reservations, as do many other people, concerning the effect the war in Vietnam is having upon the rest of the world and especially upon the youth of America.

But then there is the military question and our obvious responsibility to give the greatest protection and support we can to the more than 400,000 American fighting men in Vietnam.

There are, of course, enough people who believe those 400,000 men shouldn't be in Vietnam to create a sizeable protest vote.

The fact is that they are there, and they didn't go there through choice. While they're there we have a clear responsibility to do everything we can to prevent as many as possible of them from being killed and maimed.

Ted Kennedy does not propose that we renege on our commitments in Vietnam or that we withdraw our troops from that war-ravaged nation.

He backs his older brother's appeal for a suspension of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, and he calls for quick negotiations and peace talks.

The problem is that quick negotiations and peace talks without renegeing on our commitment and withdrawing our troops are more easily requested than accomplished.

Wilma Linscott Is Bride of Winthrop Lee Puffer

The marriage of Miss Wilma Mary Linscott to Winthrop Lee Puffer took place recently at the North Billerica Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. James Heyworth of North Billerica and Mr. and Mrs. Stanwood Puffer of 417 Auburn street, Newton, are the couple's parents.

The Rev. Nathan F. Wood officiated at the 5 o'clock double-ring service. A reception followed in Burlington.

The bride was attired in a turquoise suit topped with a matching velvet hat. Her flowers were white gardenias.

Mrs. Janet C. Blackwell of Burlington, sister of the groom, was the bride's sole attendant.

Leon J. Blackwell of Winthrop, brother-in-law of the groom, served as best man.

After a trip through New Hampshire and Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Puffer are at home at 5 Aberdeen street, Pinehurst.

Mr. Puffer attended the High School of Commerce and Waltham Evening High School.

Announcement from Mrs. Donald F. Claflin of Newtonville makes known the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Miss Eileen Patricia Claflin, to James Leo Handley Jr. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Handley of Framingham.

Daughter of the late Mr. Claflin, the future bride attended Bryant College, Providence, R.I.

Mr. Handley, who attended Boston College, is now assigned to Fort Gordon, Ga.

An April wedding is planned.

Members have been asked to bring a friend and a sandwich, and to buy a hat.

Newton area members include Mrs. Thomas Gephart, Mrs. Ruth Lindquist, Mrs. Carol Billings and Mrs. Lorenz Muther.

A hat party will be held at a meeting of Boston West Suburban Alumnae of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority in the home of Mrs. Albert E. Burgess, 80 Putnam St., West Newton, Thursday morning, Mar. 16, at 11 o'clock.

Newton area members include Mrs. Thomas Gephart, Mrs. Ruth Lindquist, Mrs. Carol Billings and Mrs. Lorenz Muther.

Miss Wasserman is a senior at the Boston University College of Liberal Arts.

Mr. Brodkin is a third year student at the Boston University School of Medicine.

Planning to be married in September are Miss Joyce Wasserman and William Brodkin.

Help Available In Filing For GI Bill Education

Information pamphlets and personal assistance in filling out application blanks for educational benefits under the new GI Bill are available at the Veterans Administration Contact Division, Room E-116, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Government Center, Boston, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Saturdays from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m., William F. Connors, manager of the Boston VA Office announced.

This post-Korean educational program is open to all veterans with more than 181 days active duty service, any part of which occurred on or after February 1, 1955. The veteran must have a discharge that is other than dishonorable or if less than 181 days he must have been discharged or released for a service-connected disability.

These veterans will be eligible for one month of education for each month or fraction of a month that they were on active duty.

Courses may be taken at approved colleges and universities, vocational schools, correspondence schools and at high school level. Approval of the institution will be made by the Mass. Dept. of Education. Foreign course approval will be by VA.

The VA will pay $100 a month to those veterans with no dependents who take full-time courses. Veterans with one dependent will receive $125 a month while those with more than one dependent will receive $150 a month.

Proportionate rates will be paid those taking part-time courses.

Maximum education will be 36 months.

There is no deadline as to when a veteran must enter upon his education. VA payment will be made only to the eighth annual anniversary of his discharge from active duty with the exception that all veterans will be able to participate in the program until May 31, 1974, regardless of their discharge date.

Paulist Speaker Topic "Theology Of God Is Dead"

The speaker for the Christian Culture Series lecture in John Hancock Hall, Boston, Wednesday evening, Mar. 15, at 8:15, will be the Rev. Anthony T. Padovano, professor of Theology at Immaculate Conception Seminary, Darlington, N.J.

He will speak on "The God Is Dead Theology."

The Rev. Edward Hennessy, C.P., pastor of St. Gabriel's Parish, Brighton, will be program chairman.

Father Padovano is the author of the recent book, "The Estranged God," and is a frequent contributor to such leading magazines as Ave Maria, Christian Centure, Catholic Mind and Catholic World. He is associate editor of The Advocate, official newspaper of the Newark Diocese, and a member of the Archdiocesan Ecumenical Study Commission.

Further information may be had from the Paulist Center, 5 Park St., Boston, RI 2-4460.

Principal speaker at the dedication was Dean John U. Monro of Harvard College, who affirmed that the opening of a new library building with great amounts of space to be filled by new books in coming years was an excellent occasion to reflect on the

Vietnam Pilot Gets Air Medal

U.S. Air Force Captain Charles R. Duberger, whose wife, Jane, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Glynn of 28 Beech St., Newton, has been decorated with the Air Medal at Tuy Hoa Air Base, Vietnam.

An F-100 Super Sabre pilot, he was awarded the medal for meritorious achievement during military flights in Southeast Asia. The citation was for outstanding airmanship and courage on successful and important missions under hazardous conditions.

tend the ceremony, recalled that his daughter-in-law had attended Newton College and expressed his esteem for Mother Kenny and Mrs. Cotter.

"It is a wonderful thing to have one's name associated with good works," Volpe commented. "I would say that the chapel is the center of a college," the Governor added, "and then comes the library. Massachusetts is a center of education and I know that this great library will be a welcome addition to existing facilities."

courses will be used to support faculty supervision.

Monro called for direct contact between students and faculty in freshman seminars, which would introduce the entering college students into live areas of learning instead of immersing them in fossilized, formal courses. He also suggested that sophomores, juniors, and seniors be allowed to plan one course a year for themselves, under faculty supervision.

He said that the tutorial program which has existed "on the books" at Harvard University for some time, is beginning to work along these lines, so as to permit students to satisfy their educational needs, of which they have a much better idea than the older generation, Monro continued.

"I feel a double pleasure to be with you today," Dean Monro said. "First, it is an honor indeed for me to represent the oldest college in the country, as its Dean of Men, at this wonderful occasion of one of our newest and most energetic neighbors, a college for women. Second, Mrs. Monro and I are the parents of two daughters, both now grown up and through college and on their way. I think perhaps the happiest days in our family's life were the days we spent together with our daughters at their parents' days at college. I congratulate you on a wonderful occasion, and I want you to know how pleased we are to share in your happiness this day.

"The opening of a fine new college library is an occasion for rejoicing, and also for a good hard look at where we stand now in college education and where we will go and want to be going in the years ahead.

"Such an approach is particularly important as we think about a great new library like this one, which has a capacity for 200,000 books but right now has only 60,000 books to be put in the shelves. It is a fortunate and inviting situation.

"What sorts of books will the next 140,000 books in the Kenny-Cotter library be? How will they all be chosen? For what educational goals?"

"The way these questions finally come to be answered will spell out the kind of college Newton is to be, the kind of education it will be giving to its students, the kind of women it will be sending out into the world.

"My subject today is 'The College and the New Student.' And my main point is that I believe that this college and all our colleges, will be the stronger, and our educational effort will be the more meaningful in the years immediately ahead, if our student communities are given a larger responsibility in describing what courses should be taught, what courses or programs of instruction should be most meaningful to them in their time, and as a corollary, what back-up books should be bought for the library.

"Now, I wish to take pains not to be misunderstood. I am not recommending that the curriculum be turned over to undergraduates, or that undergraduates become responsible for deciding all book purchases. What I am suggesting is that we seem to have reached a point in history and in the relationship between the older and the younger generations, between faculty and students, when we in the college faculties will greatly strengthen our educational offering if we increasingly ask our students what courses would be more meaningful to them, and increasingly involve them in decisions about what is to be taught, and how it should be taught.

Monro backed his position by quoting the late Alfred North Whitehead, renowned Harvard philosopher, who maintained that ours is the first period in history when parents live in one world, in one set of conditioning ideas, and their children live in a quite different world.

"Nowadays my undergraduates were all born after World War II. They just don't believe at all in Depression. They take moonlights and television for granted, and despite what they see and hear they find it difficult to believe in war," Monro concluded.

"If young men have changed so much, I do not have to tell this audience of parents, that young women have changed even more. As an instance relevant to our discussion here today, I think of the thousands of young women each year who take themselves into difficult, sometimes dangerous, situations in the Peace Corps, or into Civil Rights work, or work in our urban slums, and do good and incredible things, meanwhile learning . . . meanwhile learning."

"Girls are doing things out in the world that at their age would have scared their mothers out of their wits. I suppose what girls do nowadays scares their mothers out of their wits right now."

Take just one small Radcliffe-Harvard project, sponsored by the students, they call it "Education for Action." Last summer Education for Action had 11 sophomore men and women out in the preliminary, experimental phase of a program designed to tie their college educations more meaningfully to social welfare projects here and abroad. Seven of the students on projects were girls: three were working in Ethiopia, two of them in schools, one in a mental hospital; two girls helped set up a youth program in a Venezuela town, one set up a summer camp, and another helped a Peace Corps volunteer.

"This winter the young people are back at Cambridge selecting courses, organizing seminars, developing independent study programs, all to capitalize on their experience in the field and prepare for more. This coming summer they have in mind further active programs in Brazil, Chile, and Central America. As part of the requirement they must learn either Spanish or Portuguese.

"I suggest this sort of college effort is significantly different from what my generation went through.

"Yet, as educators, it is our responsibility to try to help our young people get ready for effective work in their strange, new world.

"We older people have simply got to find a way of reshaping our present day college programs so they will serve the purpose of our young people in the strange new world of the last third of the 20th century.

"How can we set about such a major readjustment? I don't believe I am overstating the case. College courses and programs of study are to a large extent very conservative reflections of the past, of long past theories of education, of the long past preparations and interests of the teachers.

"Is it possible to adapt the offerings of a traditional college like Newton or like Harvard, to the shocking changes in the world, and to the proper demands and urgent needs of our new breed of students?

"I believe it is possible, and to indicate a way to go about it, I want to return once again to Professor Whitehead, this time to his fine little book, 'The Aims of Education.'

Whitehead says: 'The justification for a university is that it preserves the connection between knowledge and the zest for life, by uniting the young and the old in the imaginative consideration of learning. The university imparts information, but imparts it imaginatively. At least, this is the function which it should perform for society. A university which fails in this respect has no reason for existence. This atmosphere of excitement, arising from imaginative consideration, transforms knowledge. Youth is imaginative, and if the imagination be strengthened by discipline this energy of imagination can in great measure be preserved through life. The tragedy of the world is that those who are imaginative have but slight experience, and those who are experienced have feeble imaginations. Fools act on imagination without knowledge; peasants act on knowledge without imagination. The task of a university is to weld together imagination and experience.'

Whitehead tells us.

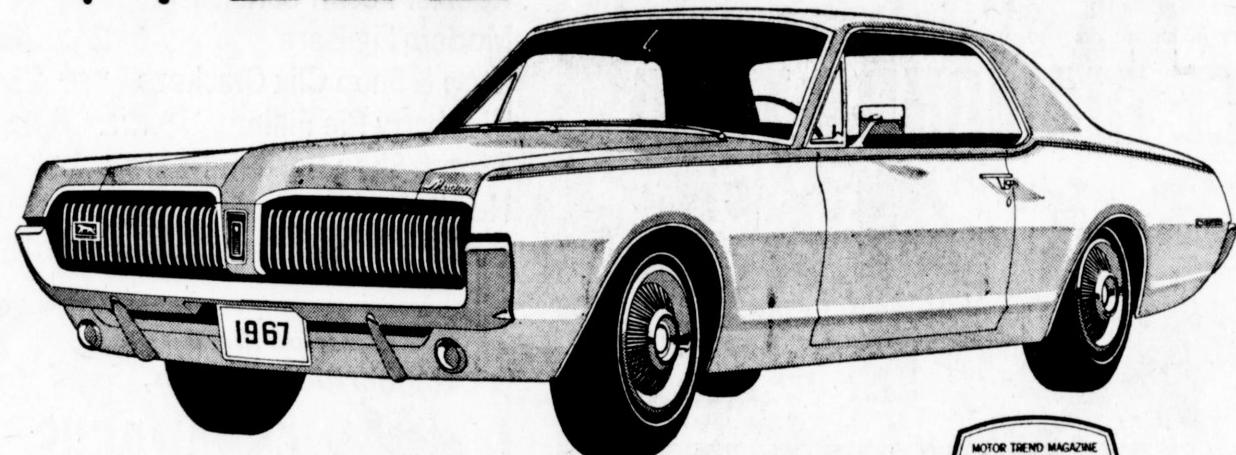

"Now, I think of this as an exciting development. Here is a course the students want, and have designed. We can all be sure more real learning will go on in such a course, for students and faculty alike, than in any formal course in the catalogue listing.

"I am sure it is perfectly clear to you that I have taken the occasion of the dedication of this fine new library to speak of the adaptations we should be making in the years ahead, to shape our courses and course programs to the keen interests and the brand new world of an extraordinary generation of new students.

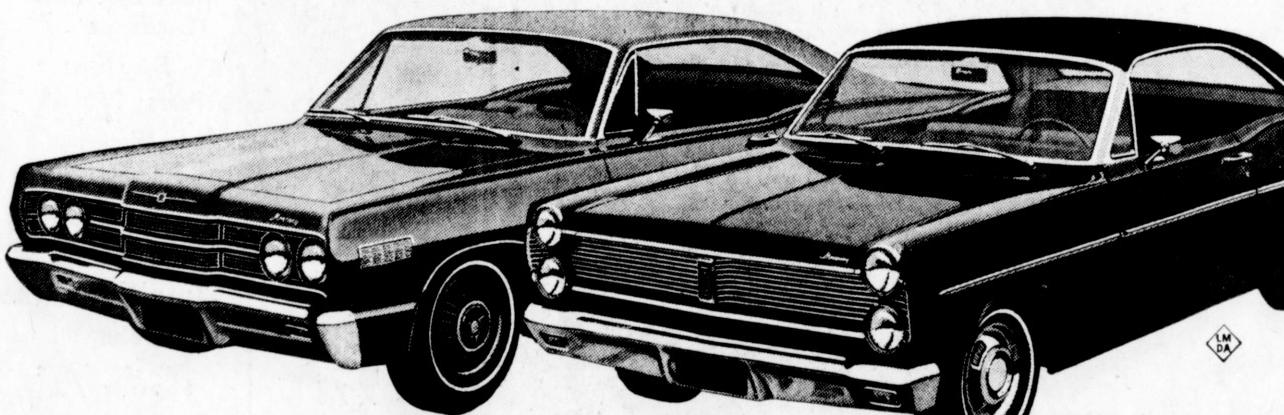

I suggest that the Kenny-Cotter Library, with its inviting areas for study and discussion, and its room for 140,000 books yet to come, will be a key element in the changing program of Newton College in the challenging years ahead," Dean Monro concluded.

Street Widening Project Approved By Aldermen

Although there was some opposition from residents, the Newton Board of Aldermen approved a $40,500 appropriation request Monday night to relocate, alter and widen Brookline St., Newton Centre, from Dedham st. northeasterly to Baldpate Hill.

The request was from Public Works Director Willard S. Pratt and is a Chapter 90 project for which the state will pay half the cost and the city and county one-fourth each.

The street now varies in width and the project will widen it to 50-feet with a gravel sidewalk to provide a safe walkway for school children.

The Oak Hill District Improvement Assoc. and the Spaulding School PTA were recorded in favor of the project.

Approval was given Silver Lake Motors, Inc., for lighting and for safety display of cars held for sale at 451 Watertown St., Newtonville, provided that 11 floodlights be used instead of 14.

The Board granted the request of Aldermen Edward C. Uehlein and Paul J. Burke for establishment of a special committee to make recommendations on the shortage of low-income housing in the city.

Also given unanimous approval by the Board was the recommendation of the Newton Taxi Assoc. for raises if fare rates.

Under the approved, revised ordinances, the charge for one passenger with ordinary baggage, weight not exceeding 100 pounds, shall not exceed 50 cents for 3/16th of a mile or less plus 10 cents for each additional one-sixth of a mile or fraction thereof.

Waiting time shall include all time during which the vehicle is not in motion after its arrival at the place to which it has been called. No charge shall be made for the first 10 minutes of waiting time. A charge seven cents per minute may be made for time between premature arrival in response to a call and the time for which the vehicle was ordered, or for time lost through inefficiency of the vehicle or its driver or for delays incident to traffic.

Other docket items unanimously approved were as follows:

A request by the city engineer for $300.96 for repairs to a department car, which was sideswiped by two cars.

An authorization requested by the workmen's compensation agent to pay Newton-Wellesley Hospital $709.41 to cover the bill for treatment of Joseph Piselli, a Street Department employee, who was hospitalized for 13 days as a result of an accident in a city truck that caused an injury to his back.

A request by the City Solicitor for $300 to be paid to Sally Winer in settlement of a case arising from her fall on a city sidewalk that had an unraised concrete slab.

Permissive use was granted Arthur T. Wasserman of 137 Baldpate Hill Rd., Newton Centre, for use of the old Auburndale post office on Auburn St. for wholesale and retail sale of women's sweats.

Babysitters' Course Offered By Red Cross

At the request of Newton YMCA, Newton Chapter, American Red Cross, offers a babysitters' course.

It begins Wednesday, Mar. 15, and continues for three successive Wednesday evenings, Mar. 22 and 29 and April 15.

The leader on two of the evenings will be Mary Caira, R.N., nursing services chairman and Red Cross instructor. She will cover topics such as care of children and general rules to follow.

Another evening will be led by a Red Cross instructor in first aid.

On the fourth evening, officers from the police and fire departments will give safety precautions.

The Red Cross invites anyone interested in taking the course or in offering a similar one to other young people, to call LA 7-6000.

Gene Dietz Writes Welfare Paper For Tufts Assembly

A Boston newspaperwoman claims that "public welfare in Massachusetts is so interdependent that neither client nor observer can make sense out of it."

"It is a patchwork of operating procedures financed by Federal, state, and local funds, with a separate, parallel setup for veterans," writes Jean P. Dietz, social science reporter for the Boston Globe, in a background paper for the Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government. The Assembly, whose 1967 theme is public welfare, will be held Mar. 21-22 on the Tufts campus in Medford.

The leader on two of the evenings will be Mary Caira, R.N., nursing services chairman and Red Cross instructor. She will cover topics such as care of children and general rules to follow.

Another evening will be led by a Red Cross instructor in first aid.

On the fourth evening, officers from the police and fire departments will give safety precautions.

The Red Cross invites anyone interested in taking the course or in offering a similar one to other young people, to call LA 7-6000.

Mrs. Dietz, whose home is at 93 Hancock Ave., Newton Centre, writes that "public welfare is interdependent with a host of other state agencies, including public health, mental health, rehabilitation; with host of private agencies far dearer to the hearts of the middle-class community than public welfare; and finally with an antiquated civil service structure and the fascinating politics of each community in the state."

She contends that the fault in the Massachusetts welfare system lies "in the mishmash of local, state, and Federal laws rather than with recipients or workers."

Mrs. Dietz's area of specialization the past five years has been social legislation. "In the public welfare system," she says, "no evidence of scandal has been reported. What has happened is that a great many very serious citizens, as concerned about their taxes as any other citizens, but also concerned about human needs at home, have started to look at the present system."

In essence, they have found, vast sums of money are being spent on a system which actually perpetuates the problems of poverty. What is so hard to get across is that the money that so often goes down the drain is swept away quite within the law. By now, it has become apparent that it is the law that needs changing."

The welfare reorganization bill filed this year proposes that 50 community service centers be established throughout Massachusetts to replace the 270 local public welfare offices, where, Mrs. Dietz observes, "the local ward boss often reigns supreme. The local welfare worker, or whoever controls him (frequently a town wheel apart from the welfare department), is often the final arbiter in individual cases. Somewhere along the ragged line of authority, the person in need of help gets lost."

Mrs. Dietz, a graduate of Wellesley College, looks hopefully to the future. "The new alliance of academic interest at the top," she says, "and enlightened self-interest at the client level means, at least, that an era of smug self-satisfaction has ended and the battle for improvement has begun."

The ninth annual Assembly is sponsored by the Lincoln Fileene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts, and is under the direction of Dr. Bradbury Seasholes, Tufts assistant professor of political science.

Newton Tops Burlington 5-0 In Tourney Opener

By FRANK WALL

The Newton High hockey team got off on the right foot in the state hockey tourney as it clobbered Burlington 5-0 at Ridge Arena, Braintree, Wednesday night before a crowd of 2000.

The Tigers now tangle with the winner of the Charlestown-St. John's Prep game which was played last night. The game will be played at the Boston Arena Monday night at 8:00 p.m.

DONOVAN HAT TRICK

The game was now out of reach, but Charley Donovan was senior first liner Charley Donovan, who scored the final Tiger three goals to put the game out of reach.

The Burlington sextet was champion of the Merrimac Valley League and sported a 13-1 mark as compared to Newton's 9-2-3 record for a second place finish behind powerhouse Arlington in the Greater Boston League.

Other goal scorers for the winners were Bob Cotter and Don Gallagher. Co-Captain Steve Toomey aided in the winning effort by bagging three assists while Jack Dros had a pair.

In the first frame, the Tigers went right to the attack but were met by a fine goalie in Captain Don Blair of Burlington, who turned aside 10 Newton shots in the first frame and had 24 stops for the night.

In the early minutes of the first canto Bruce Huntley came from his right-wing spot and had an open shot, but missed the far corner. Charley Donovan and Steve Toomey combined at the three-minute-mark, but Blair made a great stop.

Steve Cote and Bob Vigneau came flying back for the Burlington Red Devils, but Newton goalie Bob Newis made a fine save in close and dove on the rebound as the action picked up.

The Burlington team was being outskated, but Newton just couldn't put the puck in the Red Devil cage. Bob Cotter, Don Gallagher, Mike Dezotell all had pot shots but couldn't find the scoring range as Blair was stopping everything that came at him.

COTTER SCORES

The Tigers finally broke the ice at the 6:43 mark. Jack Dros passed across the points to Don Gallagher who was breaking toward the Burlington net. Gallagher shot from about 18 feet out, and Bob Cotter was right on the spot and tipped the puck into the twine with a great move in front of Blair in the Red Devils net.

After this goal the Tigers continued to put the pressure on in the final minutes of the first period with Toomey, Gallagher and ace defensemen, Co-Captain Dick Dezotell, just missing.

In the second frame, the Kinlinmen completely outplayed their rivals from the Merrimac Valley League. After pressing for the first five minutes, Don Gallagher took a Bob Cotter-Jack Dros pass and circled around back of the Burlington cage. He fired a backhander from 15 feet out past the surprised Blair up to the count to 2-0.

At 7:29 Mr. Donovan went to work. He took a pass from Toomey and fired a bullet into the strings from 10 feet and the Tigers were safe with a 3-0 lead. The period was all Newton's and Donovan was really flying with some great skating and stick-handling.

before the game and figured if his boys got by the first game they could pick up momentum and have a good tourney. The opposition Monday night whether it be Charlestown or St. John's Prep, should be duck soup for the Tigers . . . In his seven years of coaching hockey at Newton High Kinlin has had five teams in the state tourney. They have been in the final once and semi-finals twice . . . He rates Don Mason as his best goalie and Dick Toomey as the top forward . . . Bob Newis had a good night in the Newton net, turning aside 14 shots . . . The best player for Burlington was sophomore forward Vigneau . . .

The snow drove many local fans away but it is hoped that Monday night Newton supporters will turn out in large numbers when the Tigers strive to keep on the state championship trail.

POST GAME CHATTER— Last year the Merrimac champs, Masconomet faced Newton and were bombed by a 12-0 score. It was a much improved team under Coach Ed Cahoon who skated on the ice Tuesday night . . . Sarge Kinlin and Cahoon are buddies, both being All-Americans at Boston University . . . Kinlin had special praise for Donovan for his top performance of the season . . . Kinlin was a little worried

Scovell Named By Morse Shoe

Melvin E. Scovell of 133 Collins Rd., Waban, has been named an assistant vice president of Morse Shoe, Inc., nation's largest operator of self-service shoe departments.

He joined the Canton-based firm in 1952, and is the buyer of women's sports shoes. He has also served the company in various other buying and administrative capacities.

A graduate of Yale and Columbia Graduate School of Business, he was with the U.S. Army from 1950 to 1952. The 39-year-old Brockton native is active in local civic groups.

versity of Massachusetts in Boston.

The Council voiced disapproval of bills which would locate the Boston branch of the University of Massachusetts in Chestnut Hill, distribute State aid to education according to the populations of cities and towns, and provide for Bible reading and non-sectarian prayer in the schools.

A nominating committee to recommend officers for next year's PTA Council was created. It included Mrs. Thomas Morris of the Day Junior High School PTA, Solomon Kaufman of the Bigelow Junior High School, Mrs. Gereshen Kaufman of the Carr School, John P. MacMunn of the Burr School PTA, and Mrs. Ella M. Gay of the Division of Instruction, as teacher liaison.

The Council backed bills awaiting consideration in the Massachusetts legislature which provide that State aid to schools be allotted at the rate of 115 per cent of the 1965 figure and that a commission be created to study the best location for the Uni-

Late Mail Pick-Up To Speed Delivery

Bridge, South: Hockey, North

A trio of Newton South students plus three boys from Boston College have combined to reach the fifth round in the Gold Ring Eastern Massachusetts Double Elimination Knockout Bridge Tournament. The team consists of David Woo, a junior; Jeff Modest and Laury Dworet, both seniors; and Luke Gillespie, Clint Morrell, and Fred Luminoso, all from B.C.

At this stage of the tourney there are 13 teams left out of a starting field of 38. At the start of competition the Newton team was ranked last on the basis of their total of master points acquired previous to the tournament. However, in the first round the team upset the third seeded group.

By so doing they drew a bye in the second round. They were then narrowly defeated by the Rosentals; but since two defeats are needed to be eliminated, the team still had a chance. In their last match they clobbered the Alpert team of Winthrop. Their next match is against Al Oszy's team, also of Newton.

In the last hockey game of the regular season, Newton High's team gained a 5-1 decision over Chestnut Latin. As a result of the defeat Latin was eliminated from the tourney. They needed either a win or a tie to qualify.

The star of the day for Newton was Bob "Carey" Newiss the goalie. He turned in his second spectacular performance within three days, the previous vs. Waltham. He repeatedly stopped what looked like sure goals. The only goal scored against Newton happened after Newiss was replaced. If his appearances in the tourney are as good as his last two, Newton could go a lot farther than people expected.

Newton's scoring was done by Don Gallagher, Bob Cotter, Larry Milesky, Jackie Drose and Charlie Donovan.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin today reminds Newton residents of the location of some mail boxes which have night collections.

They would permit mail deposited in them to have reasonable expectation of delivery in any of the 25 cities and towns of the Boston Postal District the following day.

These mail boxes are located in front of the Newtonville Post Office, 897 Washington St., the Newton Centre Post Office at 211 Summer St., the Newton Corner Post Office, 237 Washington St., and the Chestnut Hill Post Office at 12 Middlesex Rd.

The box in front of the Newtonville office is collected at 12 midnight on weekdays, 8:45 p.m. on Saturdays, 7:30 p.m. on Sundays and 7:30 on holidays. The box outside the Newton Center office has last collections at 12:45 a.m. on weekdays, 3:45 p.m. on Saturdays, 3:15 p.m. on Sundays and 3:15 p.m. on holidays.

Last collections are made from the box in front of the Newton Corner office at 12:30 a.m. nightly, Monday through Friday, 4:15 p.m. Saturdays, 3:45 p.m. Sundays and 3:45 p.m. on holidays.

The box in front of the Chestnut Hill office is collected at 12:30 a.m. weekdays, 3:45 p.m. Saturdays, 11:45 p.m. Sundays and 3:45 p.m. on holidays.

It is further recommended that all mail for delivery in the City of Newton be deposited in the special box for Newton mail which is in front of the Newtonville office.

The postmaster stated that this information is especially beneficial to persons or local organizations having letter mail which could not be completed prior to the close of the local post office, or deposited prior to the last collection from other street letter boxes in the district.

CROWD AT HEARING—Part of the crowd of more than 500 persons who attended a public hearing Monday night on a report by a group which studied the issue of single sessions or split sessions in the city's elementary schools. Hearing was held in the Newton South High School cafeteria.

Hearing

be appropriate to appoint a study committee that would be objective, that would represent many different points of view.

"The committee consisted of five or more persons in favor of a single session, as well as others against a school lunch program and a great many with no feelings one way or the other," he declared.

"It's obvious that no sub-committee can make a decision on a problem like this," Berman observed. It is the school committee which must make the decision.

"There have been some reports of difficulties in communication with the School Committee. I answer every letter, I am very anxious to be communicated with. We want to listen. What we decide isn't always in agreement with the opinions we have heard. That sometimes creates hard feelings," Berman stated.

He then turned the meeting over to the chairman of the study group, Prof. Knowles, who explained the philosophy that guided his group's work: "It seemed terribly important," he remarked, "not to take over the School Committee's functions and appear as an arbitrating body. We held work meetings, not hearings."

"Our approach was to solve a problem, not to see who won," he continued.

"We mapped out five areas and set up five task forces. We enjoyed full support of the school headquarters staff. We had consultant services as we needed and wanted them. In fact, we did make use of members of the faculties of Harvard, Boston University and Wheelock college.

"We did not decide on the basis of what would mollify more people," Knowles asserted.

QUIET LISTENERS—Listening intently to testimony at Monday night's big hearing on elementary school schedules are former School Committee Chairman Haskell C. Freedman, left, and School Superintendent Charles E. Brown.

replied: "I'm sorry you think Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are for our convenience. We felt we were doing something for your children."

"The opinions of teachers in other systems was unanimous," Mrs. Everett reported. "We work our teachers too hard. We expect them to attend conferences with the teachers and with the parents. In Needham, the teachers do not have lunch duty all the time. And one principal was plaintive about teachers not being able to participate in after-school meetings."

A male teacher declared: "I speak as one teacher. When we were polled, it was indicated that we should answer in the vein of what was educationally best. I personally feel that a single session would offer me more free time."

"As a teacher in Newton, I feel that flexibility is healthy for the child. There is a very common film strip put out by the National Education Associa-cation which, without naming Newton, talks about a modern school system in Massachusetts, where for the last 58 years special teacher-pupil relationships have been developed on the two free afternoons," a teacher commented.

"If teachers are under the impression that they teach better with the free afternoons, won't their morale be damaged if we disregard their opinion and adopt single session?", a parent asked.

Officer Charles Feeley of the traffic division told parents that if school lunch programs were adopted and children were let out of school around 2 p.m. more police officers or woman auxiliary police would be needed. Officer Feeley estimated that the cost to the police department of putting the whole school system on single session would be about $250,000 per year. He explained that the police could handle up to four schools on single session with the present staff. (The extra police work would be caused because kindergarten children would still be on a split session.)

When asked about accident rates, Feeley recalled that only one child was injured at lunch time last year. He added that the frightening thing about accidents was that police investigation seemed to indicate that many children had walked into the cars, which they didn't see or hear.

Questioned as to how State laws on school hours would affect Newton, Stanley Russell, assistant to the Superintendent of Schools, replied: "This is the time of year we make decisions on school hours. It will be worked out, and of course, I can't say just how yet."

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown, who was in the audience, indicated that he expected the State Board of Education would maintain its 25-hour minimum school week, but that it would not maintain a 5-hour minimum school day to achieve this. Dr. Brown was a member of the Knowles study group, but withdrew from the group before it reached its conclusions.

Several parents objected to the small number of pilot schools in which a single session would be tried out, maintaining that a fair sample of Newton's population would not be involved. Knowles confessed: "We were overwhelmed by the problems of recruiting luncheon supervisors." Knowles added that evidence had not been found to justify a change on a larger scale.

Site

The first involved expansion of the present 3.9 acre site by acquiring the properties between the present school and Linwood Avenue, expanding across Linwood Avenue which would be discontinued at that point and eventually utilize Linwood Park.

This site was rejected not only because of reluctance to displace the four families who live next to the school, but also because the employment of park land would require authorization of the legislature.

Furthermore, the inconvenience caused by the separation of the school from the playing fields would remain. Also the school would be bounded by heavily traveled Walnut and Crafts Streets, as at present.

Site number two would have utilized the part of the playground adjacent to the Horace Mann baseball field. This site would have cut the playground in half.

Site number three would have shifted the school to Crafts St. It would have used two large pieces of private property and a piece of the Albemarle playground between the houses and the old Avery Estate woods.

This site would be undersized unless additional land were taken from the woods, which would involve special legal difficulties because of the conditions under which the land was sold to the City.

Site chosen will have easy pedestrian access as well as vehicular access, once Minot Place is extended. It is not, however, on an important thoroughfare. It is convenient to the Albemarle Playground facilities.

The site chosen will have vertical mobility, that is to say, it is a lot on which expansion will be up rather than by the more expensive addition of new surface buildings.

Mayor Basbas Asks Support Of School Bills

Local Senators and Representatives were asked this week to lend their support to a bill in the House which provides for state reimbursement to cities and towns for maintaining city-operated junior colleges without changing their methods of operation.

Mayor Monte G. Basbas said House Bill 1045, which was unanimously approved by the Board of Aldermen, would allow Newton to keep its junior college under municipal control, but financed in some manner by state funds.

He feels that other communities serviced by community colleges reap the benefit of state aid, and the junior colleges should, too.

There are only a handful of junior colleges, throughout the state, Mayor Basbas said, which if they were nonexistent, would have to be replaced by community colleges at a greater expense.

He pointed out, however, that the crux of HB 1045 is not the money, but whether the state or the city will run the junior college if the money is ever forthcoming.

Another bill the Mayor is interested in having area representatives on Beacon Hill support is HB 1041 which allows for financial assistance from the state to cities and towns in the reconstruction and rehabilitation of school buildings.

The second bill would not necessarily affect Newton but would be a boon to some of the smaller communities throughout the state that find it economically impossible to build new schools.

Presently, the School Building Assistance Commission pays up to 40 per cent of all new school building construction to cities and towns, but no assistance is given to communities that rehabilitate and modernize existing schools.

The Mayor pointed out the state would also save money since the complete cost of rehabilitation would be less than 25 per cent of the cost of building a new school.

Infantilings

Of interest here is the announcement from Mr. and Mrs. Jason I. Andrews (Phyllis Ann Gretzky) of the recent birth of their second daughter, Pamela Lee, at the Lawrence General Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Andrews of Middleboro and Mr. and Mrs. Hyman J. Gretzky of Waban.

The speaker was Wigmore A. Pierson of 80 Hillside Ave., West Newton.

He returned to the college in the evening for an informal discussion with the girls particularly interested in the Peace Corps. He brought with him some of his records of Peruvian music.

Visiting Nurse Group To Hold Annual Meeting

Speaker at the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association of Newton on Monday afternoon, Mar. 13, in the Union Church of Waban, will be Dr. Count D. Gibson Jr., professor of Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine.

His topic will be "A New Look at the Health of the Community."

A member of the advisory committee of the Visiting Nurse Association of Boston for six years, Dr. Gibson is general director of the Tufts Columbia Point Health Center.

Guests at the meeting will include representatives of municipal, social and service organizations of Newton and members of the medical and nursing profession in Greater Boston.

The Mayor pointed out the state would also save money since the complete cost of rehabilitation would be less than 25 per cent of the cost of building a new school.

Talks On Peace Corps In Peru

An enthusiastic audience of 600 Lasell Junior College students, meeting last Monday noon in an all-school convocation, heard an interesting illustrated talk on the work of the Peace Corps in Peru.

The speaker was Wigmore A. Pierson of 80 Hillside Ave., West Newton.

He returned to the college in the evening for an informal discussion with the girls particularly interested in the Peace Corps. He brought with him some of his records of Peruvian music.

Mental Health Auxiliary 21st Annual Benefit

The Massachusetts Mental Health Center Auxiliary will hold its 21st annual benefit ball Saturday, Mar. 25, in the Grand Ballroom of Boston's Statler Hotel.

Mrs. Elliot Richardson heads the roster of patrons, which includes the following Newton residents:

Dr. and Mrs. Harold S. Albert, Dr. and Mrs. William S. Appleton, Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Barrette, Dr. and Mrs. William G. Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. Alton G. Cherney, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cohen, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Corwin.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard E. Cutler, Dr. and Mrs. Max Day, Dr. and Mrs. Jack R. Ewalt, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Goldings, Dr. and Mrs. John H. Hart, Dr. and Mrs. Leston L. Havens, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Kravitz, Dr. and Mrs. S. Lewis Mogul, Dr. and Mrs. President K. Munter.

Dr. and Mrs. S. Joseph Neimetz, Dr. and Mrs. Maxwell Potter, Dr. and Mrs. John F. Reichard, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Sabbath, Dr. and Mrs. Leon N. Schapiro, Dr. and Mrs. Lionel A. Schwartz, Philip Solomon, M.D., Dr. and Mrs. Harold D. Stalvey, Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Leontavitch Zaslow.

This year the Auxiliary plans to pay tribute to its life members by designating their names in the Dance Program. Their contributions, along with those of the regular members, make it possible for the Auxiliary to continue to serve the hospital and the community.

Proceeds will be applied to ORT funds to support the world-wide system of ORT schools.

Tickets can be reserved by calling Mrs. Tessel at 332-4505.

The benefiting schools are for the training and retraining of refugees or persons whose skills have been made obsolete by machines.

Senate Set To Ratify Consular Treaty Today

THE SENATE beat down yesterday all attempts to modify the U.S.-Soviet consular treaty and its ratification by the necessary two-thirds vote appeared assured. An agreement for a final vote no later than 3 p.m. today was reached after defeat of three proposed reservations and an "understanding" that would have conditioned or related the treaty to peace in Vietnam.

The final action came in the defeat of the "understanding" offered by Sen. Margaret Chace Smith (R-Me.) which expressed a "hope" that no Russian consulate would be opened in the United States until there was an "honorable" peace in Vietnam.

JFK Plot Witness 'Sure' On Oswald's Identity

DIST. ATTY. JIM GARRISON'S star witness testified yesterday in New Orleans that when he saw Lee Harvey Oswald on television after President Kennedy was killed he was not sure the assassin was a man he knew as "Leon Oswald." But he said he since had become "absolutely sure" they were one and the same man.

Perry R. Russo, 25, a Baton Rouge insurance salesman, has testified he witnessed business leader Clay Shaw, 54, Oswald and David Ferrie plotting Kennedy's death in September of 1963.

Ex-Aide Tells of Dodd's Use of Money Orders

SEN. THOMAS J. DODD's former bookkeeper testified yesterday that Dodd ordered purchase of money orders to hide use of testimonial funds to pay such personal expenses as food and liquor bills and a limousine trip to a race track.

Michael V. O'Hare also told the Senate Ethics Committee that Dodd ordered him to charge double and triple for plane trips out of his campaign treasury and from private sponsors.

Trawler Gets Rid of Dangerous "Fish"

THE FISHING TRAWLER Crisway dumped a stray hair-trigger bomb into 480 fathoms of Atlantic Ocean water yesterday, ending 30 hours of potential disaster.

The 500-pound bomb, snagged in the Crisway's nets Tuesday, was gently cut loose by demolition experts about 58 miles off the Virginia-North Carolina coast.

Ocean Search Near End for Missing Yachtsman

THE COAST GUARD will give up a massive search of the Atlantic for a prominent New York yachtsman if he is not found today.

The missing man is attorney Samuel Morse Lane, 47, of New York, who left South Dartmouth Feb. 22 in the sloop Margareta bound for Bermuda. Normally the trip would take 10 to 14 days. Lane's wife, Marian, notified the Coast Guard last Friday that he had failed to arrive in Bermuda and an air search was launched that has covered nearly 550,000 square miles of the Atlantic.

Ides of March As Ominous As Ever

AN IDES OF MARCH snowstorm which sneaked up on the Greater Boston area as furtively as the assassins sneaked up on Caesar in ancient Rome, was tapering off early today but not before making things mighty uncomfortable.

Like two or three previous storms this winter, the storm had built up enough snow by the rush hour to tie up traffic yesterday in nearly all major highways. In one jam, Route 128 from Dedham to Braintree was transformed into a virtual parking lot well past the dinner hour. More than six inches of snow and in some areas up to ten inches kept plows, sanders and salters busy, but the all-night work was unable to prevent massive traffic jams this morning.

Two Youths Held in Handbag Snatch Murder

TWO ROXBURY teenagers were charged yesterday with the murder of an elderly woman while stealing her purse.

They are Christopher Scott and Warren Mungo, both 17, who allegedly knocked Mrs. Mary J. Francis, 67, of Dorchester, to the sidewalk March 6 and fled with her handbag containing $10. Mrs. Francis died Tuesday in City Hospital of injuries suffered when her head struck the pavement.

Louise Day Hicks Enters Mayoralty Race

THE BOSTON TRAVELER reported Wednesday that School Committeewoman Louise Day Hicks will announce her candidacy for mayor on May 1.

Previously announced candidates in the non-partisan race were Secretary of State Kevin H. White and City Councilor Peter F. Hines.

Mayor Collins Hails School Imbalance Decision

BOSTON MAYOR John Collins, in Washington for a cities' conference, hailed the decision of the Massachusetts Board of Education to accept the Boston School Committee's plan to reduce racial imbalance in the city's schools.

"I am pleased at the decision," Collins said, "and I am instructing the city's budget commissioner, Henry Brennan, to ask the state to release the money it has been withholding from the city immediately."

Richardson Calls for Social Work Jobs for Poor

ELLIOTT RICHARDSON says that fatter welfare checks alone will not relieve the problems of welfare recipients in Massachusetts.

In a position paper, co-authored with Mrs. Ellen S. Heller for the Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government, the attorney general suggested that the poor should be employed as social work case and teaching aides.

B52's Smash Laos Trails in Intense Raids

U.S. AIR FORCE B52 jets have bombed North Vietnamese supply routes in Laos at least six times in the past few weeks, informed military sources said Wednesday. The raids were said to have inflicted heavy damage along the winding Ho Chi Minh trail into South Vietnam, the most intense raids the giant bombers ever made against the supply routes through neutralist Laos.

Meanwhile, the U.S. military command reported that rock-throwing Navy jets destroyed or damaged five North Vietnamese patrol boats in attacks Tuesday off the Gulf of Tonkin coast.

British Students Continue Demonstrations

POLICE BODILY evicted 85 student demonstrators — some of them American — from the London School of Economics Wednesday when they attempted to spread a sit-in from the main entrance to the administrative block.

School administrators allowed nearly 300 militant students to continue their blockade at the main entrance, however, on the third, and most intensive, day of student unrest over the appointment of a South African apartheid educator to be a school director.

College Groups Newest Targets in Red China

COMMUNIST CHINA has demanded that professional fraternities, college alumni associations and some labor organizations be "denounced . . . condemned . . . and destroyed" because their members are more intent on keeping up with the Wongs than with Communism.

"Many of these organizations have faked support for Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung's 'cultural revolution,'" a Peking Radio broadcast said.

Tunis President Recovering from Heart Attack

PRESIDENT HABID BOURGUIBA of Tunisia today continued his recovery from a heart attack suffered Tuesday night. He has been ordered to take a complete rest for several weeks.

The stocky, 63-year-old Arab leader, who received the nickname "Supreme Fighter" because of the constant battle he waged against the French for Tunisian independence, was confined to bed at his palace at Carthage.

Single Sessions Pilot Plans Set

By JAMES G. COLBERT JR.

A pilot plan calling for an experiment with single session and in-lunch programs at a small number of Newton elementary schools was approved by the Schol Board Monday night.

This action came after the unanimous School Board vote, in effect, accepted the report and recommendations of a school schedule study group headed by Boston University Professor Malcolm S. Knowles.

many months of controversy over the question of whether single sessions should be introduced in the city's elementary schools or the present split sessions retained.

A $33,000 appropriation to carry out the experiment during the final four months of the year, starting when the children return to school next September and extending through December, was included in the school budget to be submitted to the Board of Aldermen.

In a subsequent vote, the remaining $67,000 of a $100,000 appropriation, which had been tentatively approved by the School Committee to cover the cost of placing all elementary schools on a single session, was deleted from the school budget, as was $21,600 which will be saved in the cafeteria fund by the recent 5-cent increase in the price of secondary school lunches.

In accordance with the Knowles report it is expected that the single session and lunch program will be set up in two to four schools on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, although great autonomy was left to the school administration as to the choice and number of schools as well as to the nature of the schedule, which will be submitted to the School Committee in coming months.

Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown reported to the School Committee on behalf of the school administration and elementary school principals that the Knowles report comes at a crucial time.

"We are faced with a number of concerns," Brown said. "We have been studying our Kindergarten schedule. We are concerned about a number of elementary school needs: in art, music and physical education.

"We are constantly faced with the difficult task of finding adequate time and resources for such activities," the superintendent remarked. However, it is not just these three things, but our entire program that is in the process of change. For example, our elementary science program is expanding.

"We are also concerned about time for teachers. They need more time for planning and for parent conferences. They also need more time for student conferences as we try to individualize our treatment of students. They need time to meet with small groups or with single persons," Brown declared.

Wounded Local Tot, "Fair - Doing Well"

A year-old Newton baby was listed as "fair and doing well" at Children's Hospital today after he was accidentally wounded during an auto chase by police last week end.

Robert Hoey, of 38 Ellis st., Newton Upper Falls, was struck in the head by a bullet after Waltham Patrolman Thomas Venuti fired at a speeding car in which the baby and his mother were riding on Seminole ave. about midday Saturday.

Venuti had no idea the mother and child were in the automobile. All he and his partner, Patrolman Frank Lombardo, saw was a youth at the wheel.

Police rushed the mother, Susan Hoey, 21, and the infant

CREDIT CARDS A BOON? DON'T LET 'EM GO TO THE MOON!

"You'll probably agree with me that credit cards are a great boon — both for traveling and shopping," says Mrs. Rosalie Hurwitz, bookkeeper for Newton's Alfred E. Fuller Insurance Agency. "But did you ever think what might happen if those precious cards were to fall into the wrong hands? That's why we suggest that our clients protect themselves by adding credit card coverage to their Homeowner Policies. It costs little and pays big dividends in peace of mind."

A resident of Newtonville and mother of three Newton school students, Mrs. Hurwitz not only keeps the Fuller Agency's books but also supervises all Fuller customer accounts, helping us to give up-to-the-minute service at all times.

If you would like to see if you can improve your insurance picture, Mrs. Hurwitz invites you to call or stop in at the office. You're always welcome.

Rev. Whitehouse Speaker At Lenten Program Today

Speaker for the Newton YMCA's 18th Annual Lenten Luncheon to be held on Thursday, March 16, at 12:15 p.m. will be the Rev. T. C. Whitehouse. His subject will be "Church Communication with Society."

Director of the Department of Communications for the Massachusetts Council of Churches, Mr. Whitehouse has had a long and active connection with radio, television and news programs of the Massachusetts Church Council. From 1959 to 1965 he served as director of Radio and Television for the Council, supervising programming operated by the Council. Among these were the program "Meet your Minister," "Ring Around Sunday" and "Religion Makes News."

For the luncheon attended by business and professional men of Newton and surrounding area, a local civic leader and church lay person has been usually chosen as speaker.

Ernst O. Seyfarth a member of the Christian Emphasis Committee of the Newton YMCA will introduce the speaker. Plans for the affair are in the hands of the Christian Emphasis Committee.

Rev. Cragg To Deliver Palm Sunday Sermon

"The King Comes Into His Own" will be the theme of the sermon to be delivered from the pulpit at The First Church in Newton (United Church of Christ), Newton Centre, on Palm Sunday, March 19, at 11:00 a.m. Rev. Dr. Gerald R. Cragg, Professor of Church History, Andover Newton Theological School, will conduct this worship service that ushers in Holy Week. He will use as a basis for his text, Matthew, Chapter 21.

The combined choirs, under the direction of Minister of Music, D. Ralph MacLean, will participate with special music of praise and triumph.

The congregation of The First Church will unite with the membership of sister churches in the Commemoration Services of Holy Week.

Maundy Thursday Communion Service will be in Trinity Episcopal Church sanctuary, 11 Homer street, at 8:00 p.m., March 23.

Good Friday Service will be in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church in Newton, 848 Beacon street, from 12:00 M to 3:00 p.m. March 24.

Participating in sequence will be: Rev. Ellis E. O'Neal, Andover Newton Theological School; Dr. Sam Hedrick, Boston University School of Theology; Rev. Joseph O'Donnell, Andover Newton; Rev. Seaton Woodley, pastor, Newton Centre Methodist Church; Dr. Edward H. Linn and Dr. Gerald R. Cragg of Andover Newton Theological School; and Rev. Harold A. Malmborg, pastor, First Baptist Church in Newton.

Mr. Eugene Hirshberg, Newton District Chairman and Mrs. Lloyd Warshauer, chairman of Newton Community Relations, have participated as liaison agents in arranging for the exhibit at the Library; a display of library books is included. The exhibit will remain at the Main Library through March.

Auto Insurance To Be Discussed By Rep. Dukakis

Rep. Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline will speak to the Ward 8 Democratic Committee on Tuesday, March 21.

His subject will be "The Auto Insurance Dilemma."

Rep. Dukakis has filed a controversial Bill on Auto Insurance which, if passed, will change some of the present practices of accident litigation and payments.

Ward Committee Chairman Sidney Bronstein has called the meeting in response to a suggestion by State Committee Chairman Lester Hyman that the Ward and Town Committees meet to have thoughtful, constructive discussions on how best to make the Democratic Party more acceptable to the electorate.

Suggestions will be forwarded to the State Committee.

Also on the agenda will be a resolution on the war in Viet Nam.

The meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. Henry Gesmer, 111 Dane Hill road, Newton Highlands at 8:15 p.m.

Newtonites To Attend Annual Tufts Assembly

Eugene M. Brody, William Carmen, Mrs. Jean Dietz and George Goodwin Jr., are among the 100 invited participants who will attend the ninth annual Tufts Assembly on Massachusetts Government, March 21-22, at the Tufts campus in Medford.

This year's Assembly will focus on public welfare in the state. The participants represent a cross section of Massachusetts citizenry — politicians, businessmen, lawyers, educators, industrialists, representatives of civic groups and welfare workers.

Mr. Brody, of 116 Fuller St., West Newton, is president of the Stetson Fuel Company, Brookline.

Mr. Carmen, of 48 Philmore Rd., Newton, is chairman of the Newton Housing Authority and president of Carmen Management Corporation, Brookline.

Mrs. Dietz, of 93 Hancock Ave., Newton Centre, is a writer for the Boston Globe.

Mr. Goodwin, of 38 Barracuda Rd., West Newton, is chairman of the Department of Politics at the University of Massachusetts.

The Camp Fire Girls program, which stresses the importance of the individual as well as loyalty to the group, is interwoven with Indian lore and symbolism. Each Camp Fire Girl chooses an Indian name and individual symbol which expresses her ambitions, and each girl wears these symbols on her hand-decorated ceremonial jacket together with honor beads she has earned.

Mrs. Eugene Hirshberg, Newton District Chairman and Mrs. Lloyd Warshauer, chairman of Newton Community Relations, have participated as liaison agents in arranging for the exhibit at the Library; a display of library books is included. The exhibit will remain at the Main Library through March.

Efforts of a young minister to close the racial gap within his own congregation, his failure and eventual resignation, are depicted in "A Time for Burning," an hour-long film to be shown tomorrow (Friday) evening, at 8 o'clock, at the First Parish Society in Newton.

The film, a television documentary with non-actors, was recorded by all three commercial networks. Recently it was shown over 112 stations of National Education Television.

Life magazine in a review last month, called the black and white film "important, driving television."

It is the first of the 1967 series of programs presented by the Adult Program Committee, headed by Mrs. Erwin Salzer.

The show originally was intended to be a quiet documentary about an average church's involvement in civil rights.

"There was no script. The simple sequence of events as they happened was better than a prepared story. The result is the shedding of a harsh light on the attitudes of a congregation, devoid of its Sunday veneer," Mrs. Salzer said.

The film will be shown to the public in the parish hall at the West Newton church, 1326 Washington St. Thomas Hagen will lead a discussion period at its conclusion.

Promotions
Given Five
At Harvard

Five Newton residents who are members of the Harvard Medical School faculty have received promotions, it was announced this week by Dean Robert H. Ebert.

Dr. Peter Kai-Jen Yen, D.M.D., of Newton Highlands, became assistant clinical professor of orthodontics. Dr. Yen was born in China. He received his doctor's degree in dentistry from the Harvard School of Dental Medicine in 1954.

Dr. Donald J. Glotzer of Newtonville was made clinical associate in surgery. Dr. Glotzer, who is director of the out-patient department and the emergency ward of Beth Israel Hospital, received his doctor's degree with honors from the University of Chicago in 1952.

Dr. Martin A. Berezin of West Newton was named clinical associate in psychiatry. He received his B.S. degree from Boston University in 1934 and his doctor's degree from the Boston University School of Medicine in 1937. Dr. Berezin is editor in chief of the Journal of Geriatric Psychiatry.

Dr. Dorothea E. W. Hellman of Newton Centre became clinical associate in medicine. A native of Vienna, Austria, she graduated from Radcliffe College, cum laude in 1953, and received her doctor's degree, magna cum laude, from Harvard Medical School in 1957.

Dr. Martin B. Levene also of Newton Centre, was made clinical associate in radiology. He graduated from MIT in 1942 and obtained his doctor's degree in medicine from the Boston University School of Medicine in 1950.

Vietnamese Tot Is "Adopted"

By Newtonites

Suburban Investors of Boston, whose address in Newton Centre is 105 Wayne Rd., have once again taken on financial "adoption" of a needy waif in a foreign land. A few years ago they "adopted" a small boy in the Phillipines. Now, again through Foster Parents' Plan, Inc., 352 Park Ave., New York City 10010, they have contracted to help Ho Thi Hoa, a six-year-old Vietnamese girl. As was done before, the Newton people guarantee $15 per month for a minimum of a year toward the youngster's support. Such foster parents often continue supporting the same child until graduation from school or the age of 16 is reached.

The Vietnamese child was born to a life of suffering and privation. She is a responsible, obedient and diligent youngster and a very good student.

Her parents are refugees from the North. They settled in the South in 1955 and the father served in the Army. In 1960 he was discharged because of poor eyesight and deafness. He has cleared some land and planted rice and sweet potatoes around the shack so the family will have some food. Whenever he has a chance, he works as a coolie, earning 64 cents on a working day.

The mother helps in the farming, but she has eight children to care for.

program will try to let youngsters of varying interests and abilities find something of genuine worth to them in preparing for their future.

The present Technical High School will become an integral part of Newton High School by 1970, and all facilities of the Technical High School will be available to all students, both male and female.

Patterns assures: "This is not to suggest that we will take any less interest in the college-bound, but rather that we feel that our program for the so-called terminal student is no longer adequate to meet his needs."

Flexibility will be a watchword of the new program.

Students will move through school, not in fixed patterns, but in accordance with their individual needs and objectives.

Most students will continue to spend three years in the high school, but there will not be fixed regulations on this and students will be able to go through the high school at their own pace.

Many students will be involved in work study programs.

The summer school will be part of the regular program and it is anticipated that a higher percentage of students will study during the summer, although it has been stressed that this will not be compulsory.

The year will be divided into three terms, with fall and spring terms running for 18 weeks, and the summer term for eight weeks.

All courses will be set up on a single term basis and if the demand is sufficient, each unit will be offered during each term. In major courses, two single term units are the equivalents of the previous one year's course. For example, the average student will take six units of English during his stay at Newton High School.

Eventually, during the fall and spring terms some nine blocks of classes will be scheduled between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. No student or teacher will be required to attend during this entire day, but the larger number of class periods a day will contribute to the desired flexibility.

During the summer term, however, only two two-hour sessions will be scheduled. Students will be able to take four or five or sometimes more courses during the fall and spring but will be permitted to take only two courses during the summer term.

Teachers will do more independent work with students. They will continue to teach regular classes to large groups, but they will not be required to spend as much time with the management of students and, consequently, will be able to spend more time educating them. Patterns asserted. This will be accomplished by increasing the number of aides, who are not professional teachers.

Students will enjoy greater freedom and will be expected to assume more responsibility than they do now. Attendance in class, and in other scheduled activities, will be required, but at other times they will be free to use their time as they see fit. Nevertheless, students who do poorly or who demonstrate they cannot accept the responsibility of freedom will be given extra attention and perhaps have to go to supervised study halls or even take their meals in a supervised cafeteria.

A number of architectural considerations stem from the desired flexibility. For instance, the size and shapes of rooms will be as varied as possible. The shape of a room should be a function of its purpose.

Soundproofing will also be employed. "Good education can often be quite noisy and, because of the varied and flexible use that we plan to make of our new buildings, it is impossible to predict what types of activities might be going on simultaneously side by side," Patterns declares.

Due to the projected increase in the use of school buildings on a year round basis, all buildings are expected to be air-conditioned.

There will be a trend away from picture windows. Glass may be used extensively in non-academic areas, but it will be held to a minimum in classrooms because of glare, distraction and difficulty in darkening.

St. Patrick's Day

This Friday, March 17, is a great day for the Irish. A day when Irishmen everywhere honor their patron saint, Patrick, and revere his memory by wearing a bit o' the green.

In Boston, the day also happens to be the anniversary of Evacuation Day, when the British sailed from the harbor in 1776 under the ominous threat of cannon mounted on Dorchester Heights.

The twin-anniversary celebrations are centered in South Boston, once a traditional home of the Irish and site of George Washington's triumph of skill and deception.

The day begins with Mass, a visit to historic shrines and cemeteries for the laying of wreaths accompanied by appropriate ceremony and oratory, a traditional corned beef 'n cabbage dinner for politicians at the Old Harbor House and last a big parade.

For the general public, the parade is the event looked forward to from year to year. The kids love it because it seems to herald the coming of spring, four days hence. They love the color, the music, the gaiety.

For older adults it brings back memories of the "Last Hurrah" of Jim Curley and the shamrock vest of "Knock" McCormick himself, perched on the back of a groaning, swaybacked white dray horse.

For younger adults, it brings back memories of a young Congressman with a shock of black hair, a skinny kid with a look of "class" about him who everyone marked as a "comer."

They're all gone now but the parade and the day continues. Unfortunately, in late years, hooliganism, race hatred and drunkenness kept pace with the line of march. So much so, that many persons have been reluctant to attend, fearful of the consequences.

This year, the South Boston Citizens Assn., sponsors of the parade, say it will be an orderly, joyous affair. They're clamping down on disruptive elements.

We hope so.

Restrict Immunity Bills

Witness-immunity bills now in the legislative hopper on Beacon Hill will meet unyielding opposition unless they are changed substantially. In fact, we feel they have no chance of passage if they remain in their present form.

We respectfully suggest that any witness-immunity bill will have a far greater chance of becoming law if it is confined to crimes of violence and organized crime.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, a sponsor of one of the bills which will be considered by the General Court, terms it "one of law enforcement's greatest needs in the battle against organized crime."

"The witness immunity bill will give prosecutors the opportunity to obtain testimony and evidence necessary to convict principals in return for immunity from prosecution," he said.

Richardson recently assured the Joint Legislative Committee on the Judiciary, which held a public hearing on the bills, that:

"A witness-immunity would not result in a so-called 'immunity bath,' in which witnesses who testified in one case cleared themselves of prosecution in others, since a grant of immunity would cover only information pertinent to the case under investigation."

Speaker of the House John F. X. Davoren, at the same hearing, recorded himself as against witness-immunity bills. He presented an extremely strong argument against bills granting immunity, pointing out:

"We must envision the uncompensable loss which will have been incurred if we act hastily in this session to abrogate a right every bit as precious as any set argument for and against immunity laws. Their arguments are so good that it places the representatives of the General Court squarely on the horns of a dilemma."

We feel that a bill restricting witness-immunity to crimes of violence or organized crime would resolve the dilemma and give law enforcement agencies in the Commonwealth a vital tool in combatting the current wave of lawlessness.

Letters

Commend Hearing

Editor, Newton Graphic:

It was wonderful finally having a hearing on Single Sessions. Prof. Berman and Dr. Knowles handled the meeting so smoothly. Everyone on the Study Committee should be commended at least for the great amount of time and energy each devoted to this project.

I am writing this letter in order to clarify any possible misunderstanding which may have occurred during my impromptu speech toward the end of the Single Session Hearing.

When I commented on the poor treatment that the entire concept of Single Sessions has received, I did not mean to imply that the Single Session members of the Study group had received poor treatment. On the contrary, I think the study group was handled with great dignity and respect all.

However, in my opinion, the Newton School Administration was remiss as follows:

1. Regular articles on the progress of the Study Group, in return for the stopping of the petitioning, were not published as promised.

2. No hearing was held immediately prior to the Parental Single Session Questionnaire being sent out as had been repeatedly requested by many people. Consequently, the questionnaire was unfairly worded because of the following: a. The estimated cost of Single Sessions was magnified and mentioned. (b) The unfavorable results of the Teachers' Poll was reported.

Both of these factors might influence a person negatively. However none of the many counter-balancing arguments was given in the letter. Was this an impartial poll? Either all or none of the pros and cons for both sides should have been listed.

3. No open meeting was held prior to the Single Session Study Group report as had been promised. A meeting had been scheduled; numerous phone calls had been made to interested parents, and yet with no advance warning, and for no apparent reason the meeting was canceled. True Dr. Knowles had to go to Washington. However there were other members who could have chaired the meeting. Where were they?

My real objection is that no substitute meeting was ever arranged — and no reason given.

In my opinion, everything I stated at the hearing was true and resulted from conversations I had with one of the Study Group members, as well as the many actual meetings I attended.

The March 6th hearing was the type of hearing we were entitled to have last year and did not have. At last June's meeting, no one was allowed to ask questions or make statements without prior appointment of which few people were aware. Last June's "hearing" I consider a "listing," and hundreds of rightly disgruntled parents left feeling very annoyed.

In spite of the fact that, in my opinion, the Single Session Questionnaire was unfavorably worded, a large percentage of the parents voted for a Single Session. Although the School Committee alone makes the final decision, influenced greatly by the school administration, when the large majority of the school parents are opposed to something, there should at the least, exist an optional plan.

Prosecutor Of War Crimes Is Local Speaker

Hon. Moses L. Kove, war crimes prosecutor at Nuremberg, Germany, will be featured speaker at the Market Lodge, B'nai B'rith breakfast meeting, to be held at Sidney Hill Country Club, Chestnut Hill, Sunday, March 19, at 9:30 a.m.

Mr. Kove is a practicing attorney in the City of New York . . . served as Assistant Attorney General of the State of New York and has held other important positions at various civic levels in New York.

After the end of World War II, he served as a war crimes prosecutor at Nuremberg, Germany, and was directly involved in the investigation of the use of slave labor from concentration camps and medical experimentation on human beings.

While in Europe he visited scores of displaced persons camps and spoke to hundreds of survivors of the infamous concentration camps.

Mr. Kove will speak about his experiences, but more importantly, he is anxious to inform us what is happening now, and the potential dangers of the future.

Late Rubbish Collection

Editor of The Graphic:

Let's keep the garden in the Garden City.

We, the people, are quick to criticize our elected officials and city workers, but we are very slow to praise them. I, for one, wish to praise a city department for its fine work in keeping Newton a garden city.

It is common knowledge that in order for a plant to grow it must be given an opportunity to take root. It must not be removed from its nourishing soil. The Street Department of our fair city is, therefore, to be commended for its foresight and love of nature in allowing residents' rubbish to be picked up one or two days late. In this manner, our rubbish has an opportunity to be buried by the wind, the asphalt, and the dogs. Hail to the Aldermen and the rubbish collectors, the preservers of our garden city.

He will comment on the political situation as it applies to Vietnam, stressing effective methods of communication opinions to members of Congress and other Washington officials.

Mr. Hartshough will speak under the joint auspices of the American Friends Service Committee, Newton Community Peace Center, and the Voice of Women — New England.

Further information may be had by calling DE 2-9110, the Peace Center, or Mrs. Melvin Shoul, chairman of Voice of Women, at BI 4-1171.

The Lunch Program

Editor, Newton Graphic:

At the 13 March meeting of the Newton School Committee, the members voted to allocate $33,000 to start a pilot program lunch plan in up to four elementary schools. This vote in order to carry out the recommendations of the Single Session Study Comm.

These funds will cover a lunch program for Monday, Wednesday and Friday only, and for the period from School opening in September to the December holiday period.

When you divide $33,000 by four schools, then by approximately 12 school weeks and finally by three days per week you arrive at the sum of $229.17 as being the cost per day at the individual pilot school.

For an average elementary school enrollment of 380 pupils this is 60 cents per student. For this kind of money we ought to be able to buy each child a hot lunch daily instead of just using it for supervisors. Incidentally, in case the School Committee reads this $33,000 for a four school pilot program is over twice the estimate provided by the Study Comm. I wonder if the members of the School Comm., ever bother to calculate where our tax money goes.

One should also note that in the Framingham Schools, children are able to purchase a hot lunch, which is subsidized by the Federal government, for only 25 cents. Facts such as these make you wonder as to just how well and just how fair the study for a single session was conducted.

Now that a precedent has been set by the open hearing on the Single Session, I wonder how many parents would like one to air the Meadowbrook Jr. High School situation.

Local Mother To Show Work At Art Show

A Newton mother of three children will be among six prominent Bay State artists who will exhibit their works at a traveling art show held at the First Unitarian Society in Newton, Sunday, Mar. 19, through Saturday, Mar. 25.

Mrs. Marjorie Beshers, 65 Washington street, Newton, president of the Newton Workshop which teaches art to children, will exhibit a color etching and a batique, the latter an ancient Javanese art form of painting on fabric.

Presented by the Massachusetts Bay District of Unitarian Universalist Churches, the art works will be displayed in the parish hall, 1326 Washington street, West Newton.

Mrs. Erwin Salzer, chairwoman of the Adult Programs Committee, stated that the public is invited to attend the show on weekday afternoons, Tuesday through Friday, two to four o'clock, and on Saturday morning, Mar. 25.

Speculation Mounts As To Collins' Plans

Speculation is mounting as to whether Boston Mayor John F. Collins will stand for a third term as chief municipal executive of the state's capital city or will retire from public life at the end of the year.

The insurance industry has maintained a bureau to probe such claims, but it has not had the resources to cope with the present-day situation. Unless an obvious racket or a flagrant fraud were called to its attention, the bureau did little and, indeed, it did not have the facilities to do any more.

The knowledge that a well-equipped state agency was investigating spurious claims and that a person found attempting to perpetrate an insurance fraud would be prosecuted in court unquestionably would result in a sharp drop in fake and padded claims.

Cy Coleman, Top Composer, Is Versatile

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cy Coleman is one of the most unusual figures in show business.

Coleman is a top-grade composer and arranger. He is a fine musician. And he can sing.

Cy wrote "Hey, Look Me Over" for Lucille Ball in "Wildcat" and a number of hit songs for "Sweet Charity" which is a current hit on Broadway.

Coleman is well known for his imaginative arrangements as well as for his creative compositions. And he has appeared in night clubs as a pianist.

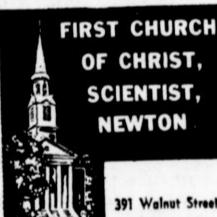

But he never has attempted to make his mark as a singer. Despite his modesty in this respect, Cy Coleman is a good song stylist and he proves this on an LP called "If My Friends Could See Me Now" (Columbia CS9378).

In addition to the title song of the album, which is from "Sweet Charity," Coleman sings "Hey, Look Me Over," "I've Got Your Number," "Sweet Talk," "Firefly," and "You Wanna Bet," among others.

Cy is not the best singer on Broadway and he will be the first to admit it. But he does have a style that lends itself to intimate night club audiences and he could easily make a living singing to the sophisticates if he ever gets tired of writing music that appeals to everyone.

Girl In Coma: Seek To Quiz Local Youth

Search continued today for a 20-year-old Newton youth sought in connection with the shooting of a Rockland girl who was found last Sunday morning on the median strip of Rte. 3 in Hingham, near the Rockland line. She had been shot five times.

Mary Alice Pike, 15, of 525 Webster st., is in extremely poor condition at Quincy City Hospital where police are maintaining a vigil in the hope of gaining information about the attack.

The girl was found Sunday morning by State Trooper John O'Brien. She had been shot in the head, body and left arm.

Search for the Newton youth started Sunday night after police learned the wounded girl had dined with her and his mother in their home Saturday night. The mother said the couple left about 10:30 p.m., apparently enroute to the girl's Rockland home.

The girl never arrived home and the boy and his car, a beige Thunderbird convertible, haven't been seen since.

Hingham Police Chief Raymond Campbell said the boy "may also have been a victim of foul play."

The youth is described as 6-foot-1, slim with black hair. When last seen, he was wearing a three-quarter length green coat over dark trousers and a gray jacket.

tant to Waltham Hospital where he was examined and taken to Children's Hospital. There the baby underwent neurosurgery for entrance and exit wounds created by the .38 cal bullet. Surgeons said the bullet pierced the brain but the extent of damage was not determined.

Waltham Police Chief Francis Dacey said the chase began at Lake and Amherst sts., in the Lakeview section of Waltham when Venuti and Lombardo spotted the speeding car. Speeds touched 75-80 miles an hour for nearly a mile on Lake st. and Lincoln st. until the car turned into Seminole ave.

Another car blocked the speeding vehicle forcing it to stop. The cruiser pulled up and Patrolman Venuti stepped out. As he approached, however, the auto blocking the street moved out of the way and the car the police were chasing started off again.

Venuti fired twice in an attempt to deflate a tire. One of the bullets went through the window of the car. The auto continued for a short distance and turned into a driveway off Seminole ave.

Patrolman Venuti continued the chase on foot, arriving at the stopped vehicle at the same time the mother stepped out of the car saying, "my baby has been shot."

Chief Dacey identified the driver of the car as a 23-year-old Waltham man. He said applications for complaints charging the driver with driving to endanger, refusing to stop on the signal of a police officer and speeding, were taken out.

It was doubtful if any complaints would be brought against the police officers involved.

Scrubadub Proves Auto Wash Can Be Different

For two years, the idea of developing a quality, sophisticated, different auto wash, has absorbed the mind and attention of Marshall Paisner, president of ScrubaDub Auto Wash Centers, which has just opened a new, model plant at Pleasant and Bridge streets in Watertown.

The architecture, the decor, the equipment, the thought of how to deliver a $2.00 quality car wash for 99¢ was investigated fully with every step taken designed to prove to the eventual customer that his confidence and concept of the regular car wash would not compare with ScrubaDub.

The details that make so much difference have been worked out completely. For instance, ScrubaDub is landscaped with bushes and flowers, the colors, the finish, the materials selected for interior and exterior, were determined by Joseph Selame Associates, the award-winning industrial designer; uniforms were selected for color to be pleasant and one piece zipperless to avoid any possibility of scratching an auto's finish.

These were only a few of the hundreds of improvements that have been initiated at ScrubaDub. The development of a combined gas purchase and auto wash package enabling ScrubaDub to sell a $2.00 auto wash for 99¢ works like this: A wash saving coupon worth 5¢ of the regular $2.00 car wash price is given with each gallon of gas purchased.

For example, the purchase of 10 gallons of American gas at ScrubaDub enables the purchase to have a car wash for $1.50; however, the purchase of 16 gallons produces a savings of $1.01 or an auto wash cost of 99¢.

It is expected that this model plant is the first of many throughout the country. The expansion into a multiple chain will be accomplished through a different form of franchising.

Investors have been invited to become "joint venturers" in up to 50 per cent of the stock of any given ScrubaDub location. The parent company owns the other 50 per cent and invests in the same manner. Through this device, investors receive a fair equity and a reasonable return equal to management's return.

Scrubadub, on the hand, is assured that the quality of operation in every ScrubaDub Auto Wash Center is maintained. George Hyde, treasurer of ScrubaDub-Watertown, is the joint venturer and also manager of this location.

These are just some of the revelations in Auto Wash Centers to be found at the ScrubaDub Auto Wash at Pleasant and Bridge Streets in Watertown.

Hockey Lingers . . .

As Baseball Season Opens With Newton Raring To Go

After a year of absenteeism from the State Hockey Tourney, Newton High came back to win their first round match against Burlington High, 5-0.

Charlie Donovan was the leading player of the day, scoring three goals. The potent second line was responsible for the other two goals, coming off the sticks of Don Gallagher and Bob Cotter.

As the score indicates, Newton's defense and goal-tending were good.

The GBI was also represented by two other teams in this tournament: Arlington and Waltham. The latter was knocked out in the first round while Arlington has survived the first two rounds and remains the Tourney favorite.

Newton plays St. John's of Danvers on Monday for their second round game.

Last week, baseball meetings and practices began and it looks like Newton will be fielding another in its series of traditionally good baseball teams, coached by Howie Ferguson.

There are several lettermen returning, led by Pete DiDomenico last year's leading hitter and MVP. He will pitch and play shortstop. Other returnees are Tony Ciocca at third base; Elliott Libman, a pitcher (probably this year's ace); Dick Dezotell, a catcher, who could also play infield or outfield; Steve Colantuono who will probably anchor this year's outfit; Warren Houston, a pitcher, who will probably see some action in the outfield.

There are many others battling it out for the remaining positions and for second string positions. The leading first base candidate is probably George Gershman, but he will be hard pressed by Cliff Asaff and Ed Drew. At second base, Peter Hicks and Jim Remley will be struggling for the starting position. The third outfields after Colantuono and Houston appears to be Kevin Mancuso.

Dana Westlund and Archie Cameron could be the teams number four and five pitchers. Newton is fortunate in having two of the best backup catchers to be found in Howie Rose and Phil Nelson.

This is a team loaded with speed and a great defense. The hitting is not spectacular, but it is good enough to beat most teams.

The key to the team's success will be pitching. Libman is the only one who was in last year's starting rotation. If the second and third pitchers come through, watch for big things from these Tigers.

Lee Loumos Says:

I am a dyed in the wool New Englander and have always enjoyed winter and snow, but I must admit that by this time every year

I couldn't be more impatient for spring to break thru. Actually, I don't expect any big improvement before St. Patrick's day, which is generally about the last gasp of winter, but if things don't improve rapidly after that, I feel mighty low. To paraphrase Shelley (or was it Keats?) now that winter is on its last legs, Spring cannot be far behind. So dust off your optimism. The sun is too high for much more of this cold weather.

Local Audience Is Told About Church In Non-Violent Revolution

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker of New York, former chief aid to Dr. Martin Luther King and now a special assistant to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller on urban affairs, told a Newton audience that the Negro Church has been the single sustaining force in the non-violent Negro revolution.

Speaking at Warren Junior High School, he was the fifth speaker in the Roxbury-Newtown Community lecture series on "The Negro in American Society."

Three of the 13 Newton sponsors of this series were lecture hosts. Ushering were representatives of the Voice of Women and Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Mrs. Helen Nemzoff and Mrs. Rose Fishman, both of Newton, were the respective representatives.

Following the lecture, the Christian Family Movement Committee of St. Bernard's Church sponsored a reception in the church's school cafeteria. Chairmen of this Catholic lay society and reception hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Peter McHugh of West Newton, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul McHugh, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shanley, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Canti, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beaudet, all of the West Newton parish. The society's presiding chaplain is the Rev. Robert Naven.

The Mayor explained that the members of the Massachusetts Mayors' Association, of which Basbas is secretary, is continuing its opposition to a reduction in the amount of corporate and income taxes allocated to the local communities at least until they determine how much the 3 per cent sales tax produces this year.

"Time For Burning" Film At Church Here Tomorrow

A television documentary film which was refused exposure by all three commercial networks will be shown to the public on Friday evening, March 17, at 8 o'clock at the First Unitarian Society in Newton.

"A Time for Burning," a 56-minute black and white film, represents the first 1967 program of the Adult Program Committee headed by Mrs. Erwin Salzer, chairman.

"Originally, the film was intended to be a quiet documentary about an average church's involvement in civil rights. In 1965, a three-man television crew, using no script, shot some preliminary footage at a Lutheran church in Omaha, but found that they had stumbled onto a much hotter story," Mrs. Salzer said.

Life magazine, in a review last month, wrote that the "candid result is probably the most honest, accurate and effective exposé of the civil rights impasse ever filmed."

Sacred Heart Girls On Way To Fourth Title

The Sacred Heart Girls advanced into the final of the Class C Catholic High Basketball tournament last Thursday afternoon in Our Lady's gym, where they executed a 53 to 21 victory over St. Clement's High of Somerville.

Cynthia Bouzan accounted for 21 of the Newton Centre girls' points, and Kathy Deaney score 16.

Tomorrow (Thursday) the girls go after their fourth straight Class C title, when they take on Immaculate Conception of Revere in the Dom Savio gym.

Court Of Honor Held For Boy Scouts Of Troop 219

Troop 219, Norumbega Council, BSA, recently held a Court of Honor at the First Church in Newton, 1115 Centre St., Newton Centre, its sponsoring institution. Five awards of rank and four special awards were given to the Scouts before a large audience of Scouts, parents, and friends.

Opening the meeting, Senior Patrol Leader Albert Carpenter showed a 15-minute movie he has taken of the Troop camping trips this winter, a humorous and candid show of the "lighter side" of Scouting that was well received by the audience.

Following this, the Troop repeated the Scout Oath and Assistant Scoutmaster Clifton Dean declared the Court of Honor open. Scoutmaster Kenneth Patterson then called Scouts Ken Kassler, Ted Lane, and Paul Ciccone, and their parents, to receive the Tenderfoot award, the first rank in Scouting.

Mrs. Patterson emphasized that Tenderfoot is only the first of six ranks in Scouting and expressed the hope that each boy would earn the Eagle award, Scouting's highest rank.

Former Scoutmaster Ronald Dean (now Assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 1 of Southboro) then called Doug Nee and his mother forward to receive Second Class rank.

Second Class, the rank following Tenderfoot, is especially a hiking award; it requires a boy to take three five-mile hikes and to understand proper hiking procedures, among its other requirements.

Scoutmaster Patterson then awarded Albert Carpenter a neckerchief slide for recruiting a new member to the troop; Scouts Mark MacFarlane, Robert King, and Albert Carpenter then came forward to select a sheath knife, hand axe, and cook kit as prizes for top salesmen in the Troop's annual Christmas wreath sales.

Following this, Bruce Goren received a merit badge in Geology.

Col. E. Lake Jones, Troop 219 Institutional Representative, then called forward Mark Macfarlane to receive Star Scout. Col. Jones compared this rank with completion of junior high school; it is the first requiring a boy to earn merit badges. In so doing, he must meet with several different men qualified in certain fields, thus both learning new skills and meeting different men.

Following this final award, Bruce Goren and Douglas Nee is a Newton High graduate.

extinguished the ceremonial candles as the Troop repeated the twelve points of the Scout Law. Assistant Scoutmaster Dean then declared the Court of Honor closed.

Howard Schuft, Norumbega Council Camping Promotion Chairman, then spoke to the audience about the Council's 2000 acre summer camp, Hidden Valley, in Gilmanston.

Senior Patrol Leader Albert Carpenter then closed the meeting, calling an honor guard to retrieve the American and Troop colors before dismissing the Troop.

Women Voters Two-Day Sessions March 22-23

The League of Women Voters of Newton will hold the second two-day session on Newton's government next Wednesday and Thursday, (March 22 and 23).

The League of Women Voters resource commission under the chairmanship of Mrs. Ruth Fernandez, will lead discussions of the powers of the Mayor, the Board of Aldermen, and City departments. The size of the Board of Aldermen, the length of terms, the methods of election and the means of filling vacancies will be among topics reviewed.

Members of the resource committee include Mrs. Sylvia Apelbaum, Mrs. Florence Rubin, Mrs. Helen Jackson, Mrs. Margaret Richardson, Mrs. Shirley Beaser, Mrs. Carol Pfund, Mrs. Connie Lipson, Mrs. Ruby Weiss, Mrs. Lee Crist, Mrs. Ross Simon, Mrs. Thelma Fleishman, Mrs. Bonnie Orlin, and Mrs. Janet Montgomery.

The home rule bill approved by referendum last November, enables cities and towns to reform their charters through the election of charter committees. Copies of the Newton charter are available through the League of Women Voters publication plan. Information about copies of the Newton Charter may be obtained from Mrs. Kravitz at 332-5084.

Dr. Walter W. Soroka, professor of acoustical sciences, says one general rule in combating noise is to make certain that sound barriers such as walls and windows are as airtight as possible.

"Sound passes readily through even the finest cracks and crevices," he says. "Leaks around doors can almost completely wreck the sound insulation value of a good wall. So it's a good idea to weatherstrip even interior doorways."

Plumbing noises can generally be controlled with a moderate expenditure, according to Soroka. By wrapping some felt around piping where clamps fix it to a structure the amplification, or soundingboard effect, of the floor or the wall can be prevented.

Other suggestions include:

—Use toilet bowl valves that permit a more streamlined flow.

—"Float" garbage grinders in neoprene rubber.

—Apply oil to squeaky hinges.

—Buy a furnace that is sturdy enough so that it won't crack or pop as it expands or contracts.

As far as eliminating "people noise," Soroka says everyone will just have to learn "that the creation of unnecessary noise is inconsiderate and ill-mannered."

Public Auction At Post Office On March 23

The Boston Post Office will conduct a public auction of 310 lots of unclaimed merchandise assembled from postoffices throughout the So. Postal Annex on Wednesday, March 22 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Postmaster Ephraim Martin stated that all articles will be available for public inspection in the basement of the So. Postal Annex on Wednesday, March 22 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

New England area, on Thursday, March 23. The auction will be held at the South Postal Annex, Dorchester Avenue, Boston, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Included in the merchandise to be auctioned are electric guitars, 6-light makeup mirrors, a golf cart, imported wine bags, ladies sport clothes, outside lanterns, portable T.V., radios, wrist watches, luggage, 14 vols. Encyclopedia, auto accessories, and many other articles.

Thurs., March 15, 1967, The Newton Graphic Page 7

The postmaster pointed out that better packaging and wrapping, correct addressing and a duplicate address inside the packages might well have permitted the return or delivery of many of these articles.

Headlights And Highlights From Newton South High

BY JAMES SHULMAN

The sophomores of Newton South High School are planning a Computer Dance for April 7, in order to create a working spirit within the Sophomore Class.

Cliff Greene chairman of the Sophomore Activities Committee said their goal is to have the whole Class of '69 attend. He also said he hoped the dance would make the Sophomores more unified and a more enthusiastic class.

There are over thirty sophomores working on the plans for the dance and the publicizing of it. The co-chairman of the publicity committee for the dance are Richard Beaser and Sherri Forman. The students are ably assisted by their advisor Mr. Frank.

At the dance the students may fill out a form for the computer, and the computer will pick his or her perfect date. Also, at the dance will be the swinging Sound Kasters for student enjoyment.

"Where's Charley?" Newton South's laugh-filled winter musical was a smash hit in each of its three performances last weekend. There was a question about whether or not there would be enough seats in the jam-packed auditorium.

During the rehearsals there was a very trying period, this was when the lights in the auditorium were not working and the students had to practice in the cafeteria. Even with this handicap the play came off without hitch.

After each performance there was one phrase that rang out through the crowd and that was "The Play was FANTASTIC!" The singing was outstanding and the dancing was excellent, especially Charley's, played by Mark Cohen. Mark's soft-shoe step while singing "Once in Love with Amy" was the hit of the show.

Heaps of praise can be given to all the talented actors and actresses for their top quality performances. However, there are many students back stage who spend long hours working to keep the play together and running smoothly.

Some of these students who have done so much in the production of the play, "Where's Charley?" are: Shelley Dwyer, Judy Lazar, Lois Levine, Marjorie Shaer, Liz Edinburgh, Laurie Zallen, Bob Chiller, Jeanine O'Reilly, and Joanne Cooper.

Shelley Dwyer has been production manager since the Fall production of "The Silver Whistle." She has worked long hours, put up with an untold number of frustrations, lived with countless compromises. Her work has encompassed all phases of production and she carried out her duties with the greatest thoroughness and tact. When asked why she does it, she replied: "Because I love it."

Judy Lazar has been a first-line worker in the past three musical productions. She has worked as properties manager, prompter, rehearsal assistant, and this year has been co-production manager along with Shelley Dwyer. One of her tasks has been that of a kind of first sergeant, making sure that the people are where they are supposed to be, when they are supposed to be there.

Lis Levine and Marjorie Shaer have served long and well as first and second choreographers. The production would not have been the same without the dancing of these two young ladies. They worked without benefit of an adult supervisor, they not only put various members of the cast through their routines, but also put in long hours creating and training other members of the dance section.

Lis Edinburgh and Laurie Zallen have been much more than just members of the singing chorus. They have been called upon time and again for ideas in staging, publicity, and the making of properties. Besides this, their general attitude has been a catching one and a definite boon to all school play efforts.

Other students who have spent much of their after school time working towards the production of the Play are: Bob Chiller, who worked long and hard organizing his artists and getting the scenery painted. Chief of the artistic workers was Jeanine O'Reilly, whose brushwork was everywhere. Another faithful worker whose name was not in the program is Joanne Copper, whose specialty has been the making of outstanding props.

Has Anti-Sub Duty With Fleet

The U.S. Navy reports that Cmdr. Eugene T. McNamara, son of Mrs. John F. McNamara, 105 Nonantum St., Newton, is at North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego, Calif., for two weeks of active duty.

He is participating in anti-submarine warfare exercises with the regular fleet.

Women of Six Churches Will Meet In Hospital Sewing Bee

More than 200 women from six Newton Centre churches will join on Wednesday morning, Mar. 29, to sew and fashion supplies for their community hospital.

The third annual Six Church Belles Day will bring together women's groups of the First Baptist Church, First Church in Newton Congregational, Lutheran Church of Newton, Newton Centre Methodist Church, Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church and Trinity Church Episcopal.

Materials fashioned on the day will be put to use at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, currently celebrating the 85th year of its founding.

The women will gather at 9:30 a.m. for an interdenominational worship service, to be held at First Baptist Church.

At the Lutheran Church, a nursery will open at the same hour for children of the mothers who are participating.

Sewing, stitching and folding of hospital supplies will begin at 10 a.m. in the Bishop MacKenzie Parish Center of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church.

At 1 p.m., the women will assemble at the Lutheran Church in Newton for luncheon.

The luncheon speaker will tained Dean's List status at the University of Vermont.

Gabriel M. Gesmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gesmer, 111 Danehill Rd., Newton Highlands, has been elected photographic chairman of the Harvard Crimson, the undergraduate daily newspaper. A junior concentrating in Government, he held Harvard scholarships during his freshman and sophomore years.

Milton Graham, 487 Ward St., Newton Centre, president of Cambridge School in Boston, has left with Mrs. Graham for a tour of the Hawaiian Islands. Graham, who is also public relations chairman of the U.S. Business School Association, has been invited to visit several private and public schools and colleges of business while on the islands.

Charles F. Tufts, 135 Jewett St., Newton, a senior at Curry College in Milton, has attained Dean's List status for the first semester of the 1966-67 academic year. Others who attained the Dean's List are:

Arlene L. Rosendorff, 535 Commonwealth Ave., Newton Centre, a senior; Roy Reiss, 409 Lowell Ave., Newtonville, a senior, and Robert N. Cohen, 50 Hartman St., Newton Centre, a freshman.

Leigh Shrago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Shrago, 1329 Walnut St., Newton Highlands, now in her sophomore year as a Drama and Musical Theater major at Boston Conservatory of Music, played the lead part of Irma in Jean Giraudeau's two-act comedy "The Mad Woman of Chaillot."

Jane Schneier of 64 BonTemp Rd., Newton Centre, was scheduled to be capped at Shepard-Gill School of Practical Nursing exercises Friday, Feb. 24 in the Church of the Covenant, Newbury and Berkley Sts., Boston.

The candle light service of awarding the cap is the first step in a 15-month course symbolizing the start of nursing care in the career of the student. During the following nine months, Miss Schneier will continue training in an affiliated hospital.

Antique Irons On Display 'Til March 23 At Library

Newton housewives who buy miracle and permanent press fabrics and only occasionally guide their cool, lightweight irons over the family laundry, can sigh with relief that the "good old days" are long gone.

This will be borne out as they inspect the cumbersome, heavy, antique ironing devices now on display through next Thursday, March 23, at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St., Newton.

The irons and decorative trivets are part of the collection of the Dalton Cleaners, and are made available to the library by Newton residents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Roberts.

These arm-wrenching old irons must have caused many a cry of "Press and Perish."

They were heavy and their handles excellent heat conductors!

In 1948 Mr. Roberts bought an old-time laundry business and discovered on the premises some abandoned commercial hand irons. This was the impetus that started him on his hobby, and he now has a collection of about 55 pieces.

The oldest irons in the collection are 17th century brass irons, and the most modern ones were in use only a generation ago.

Steam irons are not as new as one might think. A sturdy early steam iron is on display next to a pair which were heated by illuminating gas. Other unique irons were filled with hot coals to heat the sole plate; and a massive one comes complete with two slugs, one of which was heating in the fire while the alternate was in its compartment inside the iron.

Mr. Roberts, a board member of the New England Laundry Owners' Association, is always alert for likely additions to his collection. His visits to Sturbridge Village have aided him in his identification of some early American hand utensils and he has uncovered samples of early irons for home use all over the world in such countries as Siam, Holland, Belgium, England, Scotland, Germany and Italy.

Occasionally he will find a bargain for a dollar or so which might cost 10 or 12 times that amount to ship home but he has learned not to pass up a choice iron because of shipping costs. He has found that to a collector

Five Newton Girls Named To Dean's List

Five students who live in the Newtons were named to the Dean's List at Connecticut College, New London, for the first semester of the 1966-67 academic year.

They are: Myrna Chandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig A. Chandler, 112 Brackett rd., Newton; a freshman and graduate of Newton High School.

Naomi L. Corman, daughter of Mrs. Betty Corman, 11 Andrew st., Newton Highlands, a junior and Newton South High graduate.

Sandra K. Gay, also a graduate of Newton South, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Gay, 178 Oliver rd., Waban. She is a senior.

Janis Ellen Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold H. Greene, 87 Clifton rd., Newton Centre, a freshman, and Newton South High graduate.

Many of the recipes from the cookbook will be served and include delicacies from the kitchens of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, etc.

A new member sherry hour will be held from 7:45 to 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Robert Kelfer and Mrs. Michael Lesse of the membership committee will hostess this portion of the program.

Mrs. Albert Meltzer, program chairman, will present the guest speaker. Mrs. Howard Gordon and Mrs. Harry Shuman of the hospitality committee will serve refreshments at the conclusion of the meeting.

Want a job in Newtonville that makes you feel important because it is?

I started as an operator and found a challenging and interesting job. Today, I'm a chief operator and searching for qualified operators. During any given day a telephone operator handles a variety of calls testing both her alertness and good judgment. Too, she must have initiative, self-assurance and a pleasing personality.

A Telephone Company career pays among the highest wages in the area. Regular increases make them even better as time goes along. Generous employee benefits, fine working conditions and interesting co-workers all add to the appeal of being a telephone operator.

There is training for beginners and good starting pay. As an operator you'll be performing more than an ordinary job. You'll be an important part of a company long known for dedicated public service.

Easter Contrasts
Throughout the land the Easter Season is celebrated as a period of spiritual exaltation.

Once again it has brought the promise of

NEWNESS OF LIFE

But there is another side to this picture.

To thousands of helpless animals in the hands of merciless experimenters, the Easter Season means only

DEATH

We plead for mercy:
Must it be in vain?

In the experimental laboratories of merciless men and women helpless animals are —

Mutilated, skinned, burned, beaten, frozen, gassed, electrically shocked, inoculated with diseases and otherwise tortured.

Here are some specific examples of recent atrocities reported in the public press:

Removing heart of dog and substituting "a battery-powered mechanical heart." The animal died nine hours later of pulmonary edema.

Fall River Herald News

Shooting electric impulses into a monkey's brain and making him perform "like an electric toy."

They are also asked to forward to the same box the names and addresses of any member they know in the area.

"Stop Bombing" Petition Signed By 500 Newtonites

More than 500 concerned citizens of Newton signed a petition to the President of the United States asking for the cessation of bombing in Vietnam. The petition is sponsored by the Newton Chapter of PAX (Political Action for Peace).

It calls attention to recently published material which presents evidence of the extensive killing and mutilation of Vietnamese, including children, by our bombs. Prof. Richard Sterne, of Newton Highlands, chairman of Newton PAX, and I. R. Schwartz of Waban, chairman of this project, are very gratified by the response of local citizenry.

Many Americans are profoundly disturbed by the destruction of entire villages due to our bombing. Dr. Richard E. Perry (Redbook Magazine January 1967) says: "In the American press the Vietcong are almost always presented as indiscriminate terrorists. The reality is not so simple. At certain times and in certain Villages the Vietcong are in fact terrorists."

But often they are trying to win the hearts and minds of the general population. Their savagery is personal and primitive. Ours is impersonal and sophisticated. We and the South Vietnamese use artillery to shell villages; we don't see what happens at the other end when the shell explodes, killing and mutilating women and children. The Vietcong do not use napalm; we do.

Pope Paul, the National Council of Churches, and U.N. Secretary-General U-Thant have added their voices to those of millions of people who long for an end to the war.

Newton PAX coordinators are: Mrs. Nicholas Avery, Ward 1; Mrs. Edmund C. Berkeley, Ward 2; Mrs. Gilbert Friedell, Ward 3; Mrs. Victor King, Ward 5; Aaron Bernshou, Ward 7; and Mrs. Harold Stein, Ward 8.

Sheldon H. Siegel of 267 Country Club Rd., Newton Centre, a member of the board of directors of Certified Pharmaceutical Corporation, Charlestown, and president of Hub Electric Manufacturing Company, one of its subsidiaries, was elected senior vice president of the parent company at the recent annual stockholders meeting.

Another Newton Centre resident, Atty. Arthur T. Wasserman of 137 Baldpate Hill Rd., was elected to the board of directors.

Other members of the board are: David A. Aransky, 739 Commonwealth Ave., Newton Centre, and Irving J. Helman, 114 Bellevue St., Newton.

Fluoridation Vote Is Split

Newton's legislators split evenly over a move to kill a measure which would have abolished the present requirement that a referendum be held before city and town water supplies can be fluorinated.

Joseph G. Bradley and Paul F. Malloy voted to kill the measure which was defeated 159-69. Reps. Theodore D. Mann and Irving Fishman supported the repeal movement as did Edward M. Dickson of Weston, whose district includes Newton's Ward Four.

Douglas F. Gilroy of Newton Centre and Patricia A. Parmenter of Newton Highlands attained the Dean's List for the fall semester at the University of Maine.

Underwood PTA To Form Groups For Discussion

The Underwood School PTA meeting Tuesday evening, Mar. 21 at 7:30, will have an unusual format.

Parents and teachers will form informal groups with a parent moderator presiding. The topic for discussion will be communication between parent and child, school and home.

Moderators for the groups will be Gerald A. Rogovin, Thomas Dargan, Joseph Pasquarosa, Ralph Zani, Gary Brazier, Donald Smith and Dr. Thomas Hinckley.

The classrooms will be open for visiting at 7:30, and coffee will be served during discussions, which should begin at 8 o'clock.

Jeremiah E. Burke Twentieth Reunion

Members of Jeremiah E. Burke High School class of '47 are requested to send their checks for the 20th reunion at Sidney Hill Country Club, May 9, at 6:30 p.m., to P.O. Box 93, Newton Highlands 02161.

They are also asked to forward to the same box the names and addresses of any member they know in the area.

"Stop Bombing" Petition Signed By 500 Newtonites

More than 500 concerned citizens of Newton signed a petition to the President of the United States asking for the cessation of bombing in Vietnam. The petition is sponsored by the Newton Chapter of PAX (Political Action for Peace).

It calls attention to recently published material which presents evidence of the extensive killing and mutilation of Vietnamese, including children, by our bombs. Prof. Richard Sterne, of Newton Highlands, chairman of Newton PAX, and I. R. Schwartz of Waban, chairman of this project, are very gratified by the response of local citizenry.

Many Americans are profoundly disturbed by the destruction of entire villages due to our bombing. Dr. Richard E. Perry (Redbook Magazine January 1967) says: "In the American press the Vietcong are almost always presented as indiscriminate terrorists. The reality is not so simple. At certain times and in certain Villages the Vietcong are in fact terrorists."

But often they are trying to win the hearts and minds of the general population. Their savagery is personal and primitive. Ours is impersonal and sophisticated. We and the South Vietnamese use artillery to shell villages; we don't see what happens at the other end when the shell explodes, killing and mutilating women and children. The Vietcong do not use napalm; we do.

Pope Paul, the National Council of Churches, and U.N. Secretary-General U-Thant have added their voices to those of millions of people who long for an end to the war.

Newton PAX coordinators are: Mrs. Nicholas Avery, Ward 1; Mrs. Edmund C. Berkeley, Ward 2; Mrs. Gilbert Friedell, Ward 3; Mrs. Victor King, Ward 5; Aaron Bernshou, Ward 7; and Mrs. Harold Stein, Ward 8.

Award Winning Books Now At Local Library

The Newberry and Caldecott book award winners for 1967 are on display from now until the end of the month at the Boys' and Girls' Library of the Newton Free Library at 126 Vernon St.

The Newberry and Caldecott medals are the highest honor awarded to the creators of children's books and were established by the late Frederic G. Melcher, formerly of Newton, who attended the old Mason School in Newton Centre.

The Newberry award for the most distinguished children's book published in 1966 was given to Irene Hunt, for "Up a Road Slowly." The Caldecott Award for the most distinguished picture book for children published in 1966 was presented to Evaline Ness, author and illustrator of "Sam, Banks and Moonshine."

"Up the Road Slowly" is the story of a young girl and the problems which confront her in growing up. The author is consultant in languages for the Cicero, Illinois, public schools.

"Sam, Bangs and Moonshine" depicts a child's imaginative world in a free style of line and wash drawings.

Bowen, Newton's Sealer

The Bureau of Weights and Measures in Rochester, N.Y., has dedicated its Report of the Year 1966 to J. Ellis Bowen, Newton's Sealer of Weights and Measures, who is now chairman of the National Conference on Weights and Measures sponsored by the National Bureau of Standards in Washington, D.C.

The publication states that the entire country was scanned in a search for candidates for the honor.

It is stated in the dedication that "Our attention was first attracted to Jack Bowen quite a few years ago when we read, in some of the publications, of the extent of the public education he was doing.

"Not very long after this first acquaintance with him, the Newton Sealer brought into being, and became editor of, the Massachusetts News Letter, a job he retained for several years. As a regular participant in the National Conference on Weights and Measures, he was made a member of its Standing Committee on Education and served two terms as chairman.

Gallagher Goal Wins For Newton Six In Overtime

By FRANK WALL

With 3:25 gone in sudden death overtime, Don Gallagher took a pass from Dick Dezotell and rifled a bullet into the St. John's cage and bedlam broke loose as Newton fans swarmed onto the Boston Arena ice to congratulate their heroes who had battled back with a spirited rally to top St. John's, 2-1, and enter the state quarterfinals against Malden Catholic at the Boston Garden tonight, starting at 7:20 p.m.

St. John's had jumped to a 1-0 lead when Jim Tewksbury banged home a rebound at 7:12 of the middle period to give the Eagles a 1-0 lead. The Newton Tigers kept battling back but couldn't seem to get by the Eagles' goaltender who stopped 11 Newton shots in the first two frames.

With less than three minutes left in the game and the Tigers fighting to stay in the tourney, senior Steve Toomey took a leaf from his brother Dick Toomey's book by smashing in his own rebound at 7:50 of the final period to give the Francis (Sarge) Kinlin coached sextet the win.

This was the second win of the tourney for the Kinlinmen who topped Burlington 5-0 in the opening round. St. John's had a previous 3-2 win over Charlestown in the opening round.

There were many heroes on the Tiger sextet who did their share in gaining the win. Goalie Nob Newins turned aside 21 Eagles shots in his best performance of the season. In the last minute of regulation play he made three great stops to set the stage for the thrilling finish.

Coach Kinlin thought his team played inspired hockey and showed plenty of spirit to battle back to gain the win. He had special praise for his defensive trio of Dick Dezotell, Al Alessi and Mike Dezotell who never gave up when the club was behind.

Newton's opponent tonight, Malden Catholic, won the same way by pulling their contest out of the fire in overtime on a goal by Steve Harris.

If Newton can get by Malden Catholic tonight they will face the winner of the Marblehead - Norwood game which precedes the Tiger-Bluejacket clash.

Last night Arlington and Canton tangled followed by Hingham-Beverly. The state finals will be played at the Boston Garden next Wednesday with faceoff at 7:30 p.m.

There will be no New England Championship this season for the Massachusetts clubs.

Newton's last trip to the tourney was in 1965 when they were edged by Norwood 2-1 in the semi-finals. The star of that team was Dick Toomey who was a unanimous all-scholastic choice. His brother, Steve, did his share in bringing Newton victory.

Monday night.

Game Resume

Dick Pelletier took a quick shot for the Eagles but Bob Newins made a neat glove save. Charley Donovan rifled a shot from 20 feet but Saint John's goalie Barry kicked it out. Bob Cotter came flying back for the Tigers and fed a neat pass to Gallagher who just missed out front. Pelletier had another chance and Newins gloved the puck, as the action picked up. Al Alessi picked up the puck at his own end and threaded through the Eagle forward wall. Just as he was ready to break in, he was tripped by an Eagle defenseman.

John Greeley, Mark Mixis and Tewksbury roared in on

ON TO THE GARDEN—Happy Newton High hockey players whoop it up in dressing room following overtime 2-1 win over St. John's Prep at the Boston Arena Monday night. Newton sextet now faces Malden Catholic in the state quarterfinals at the Boston Garden tonight at 7:20 p.m. On right is Newton Coach Francis Kinlin.

he fired a bullet but Barry made a great glove save.

Newins had six saves in the period to five for Barry in the Eaglets end.

Third Period

This was one of the wildest periods of the tourney with both teams pressing. With less than a minute gone in the period, Donovan sent Toomey home free but Barry made the save and also stopped the rebound. Dick Dezotell fired a bullet from the points which was also stopped.

Gallagher came flying back for the Kinlinmen and went the length of the ice. He fed across to Cotter who just missed the corner. With 30 seconds left in the second period, Bruce Huntley broke in alone for Newton. He had nothing but open ice and St. John's goalie Barry to face him. Five feet from the net Newins and had three open shots in a row. Newins made three sparkling stops and his teammates were soon to repay him for his efforts.

Toomey Scores

With less than three minutes left in the game, it looked like the Tigers were dead ducks. Steve Toomey grabbed the puck at the blue line and rifled a shot at Barry. The Eagles made the initial stop, Toomey with a great second effort, dove in and poked the rebound into the corner for the tying marker. He was mobbed by the entire Newton bench. The goal came at 7:50 of the third frame.

Newton seemed to have new life as Donovan and Toomey came right back but missed in close.

Gallagher went off for tripping at 8:35 and St. John's had the man advantage.

Newins made three great saves in the last minutes to send the game into overtime.

Gallagher then performed his heroics by slapping the puck into the St. John's cage at 3:25 of the overtime, and it was on to the Boston Garden for the happy Newton High School hockey team.

Temple Emanuel Scout Supper

The 18th annual Scout Family Supper will be held in Temple Emanuel Benjamin vestry Wednesday evening, Mar. 29, at 8:15 o'clock. The temple's Troop 225 is combining with Cub Pack 217 to sponsor the event.

Abraham Stadler is supper chairman. Committee members are Morris Danovitch, Harry Weiner, Joseph Weiner, Carl Frutkoff, Marvin Berkowitz, Irving Woolf, Daniel Strier and Joseph Braunstein.

Neal Widett of 55 Ellison Rd., Newton Centre, was a script writer for 1967 Humorology, the annual variety show at the University of Wisconsin staged to raise funds for scholarships and charity.

Karen Segall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Segall, 36 Brackett Rd., Newton, was her parents' hostess at the recent Parents Weekend at Trinity College, Washington, D.C., where she is a member of the class of '69.

Wanda Gold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Gold, 126 Oakdale Rd., Waban, a freshman honor student at the University of Connecticut, has been appointed to the Board of Governors of the university's Student Union, whose purpose is to sponsor, integrate and expand the social, cultural and recreational activities of all students.

"They need more time for the curriculum. This is a national phenomenon. The only positive statement we can make about the curriculum is that it will never again be static."

"Also," Dr. Brown added, "we are moving away from the basic dependence on text books. We will be using a wide variety of materials. Thus, time for teachers is very much on our minds."

"Any analysis or any sensible analysis of students, suggests they should not all follow the same pattern. Children are different, and they require different settings and different amounts of time."

"All of this suggests," Dr. Brown concluded, "that the recommendation of the Knowles study groups, that pilot schools be identified and a pilot program be set up, should be adopted. We would welcome the opportunity to study the results of such a program in depth."

Adoption of the recommendation was moved by School Committeewoman Norma W. Mintz. Manuel Beckwith seconded the motion and requested that the sum of money to be appropriated be specified. Dr. Brown said it was very difficult to pinpoint exact figures, but suggested that to insure maximum efficiency of the lunch program and to set aside a modest sum to subsidize evaluation of the pilot program by persons both inside and outside of Newton, the sum of $33,000 be appropriated.

School Committeeman Way Dong Woo and Vincent P. Stanton expressed some reservations about the experiment with a lunch program. "I am in agreement with most or all of the facts as presented by the Knowles Committee," Dr. Woo explained. "After the report, I felt I knew what I was going to vote for. I do feel that the recommendation that the split session be maintained, should be adopted."

"We should have the courage to live or die with our decision, with election coming up next November," Dr. Woo declared. "I feel that the present split session is good. There are a number of hardship cases. There are working mothers and children who live far away from school. Why not have a pilot program to benefit them? We could make our decision within the next few weeks."

School Committee member Stanton remarked: "Personally, I believe we could look outside Newton, if it were just a question of a lunch program. I feel in sympathy with the position expressed by Way Dong Woo.

"I have talked to teachers in five other communities," Stanton said. "All five agreed that a teacher has more time on a single session schedule. Four out of the five felt that the children got more out of the split session."

"I would not vote for this," Stanton declared, "if it were just to obtain information about lunch. I wouldn't want to see myself misunderstood. I think that by December or January we will have only half information. We will need to observe single session under varying seasonal conditions for a couple of years before we can make a final commitment on it."

School Committeeman Way Beckwith and Chairman Harold J. Berman both stated they felt the educational values in programs that might be tried under a single session, were important than the mere fact that the children ate lunch in school.

School Committee members Mintz and Francis P. Frazier as well as Mayor Basbas cautioned about expecting too much from the single session and school lunch program.

"I am a little concerned that we may be interpreting the single session as a panacea for every gap in our school program," Mrs. Mintz asserted.

"We should be very careful," Frazier contended, "not to set up a straw man that we can later knock down. It is most essential that an evaluating committee be set up by the school committee to get a fair evaluation of this pilot program."

"When all is said and done," Frazier commented, "our decision will be guided by what is best for the school child. A great deal will depend on the way the pilot school is conducted. A great many people signed a petition in favor of single session. A poll of parents indicated that a sizable portion of citizens favored it. We should keep their feelings in consideration.

The type of supervision that goes on in the lunch program," Frazier added, "should be exactly the same as the type we would have if the school department went 100 per cent single session."

Mayor Basbas, an ex-officio member of the School Committee, declared: "There are so many citizens interested in this that we would be remiss not to try it. I want to see it tried and properly tried. It should be tried consistent to proper educational techniques, but it should not be a bus on which we load everything else. I know that the superintendent has in mind studying the school system anyhow."

In answer to a query by Committeeman Stanton, Dr. Brown explained "About the only thing we have learned from previous programs is that volunteer supervision won't work for a lunch program. We have occasionally after a week of blizzards adopted an emergency schedule from 8:30 to 1 p.m. But that is exactly what the word suggests: for an emergency. It involves full use of teachers which we do not want. We have never given the resources to the schools to try out a full-scale program."

"As far as the Mason-Rice and the Williams Schools go," Brown added, "these are for very small groups. They are run by paid staff. The Williams School program is supplemented by volunteers. The programs are adequate because they are very small."

Dr. Brown also replied to Committee member Woo, that a revised schedule to permit the remaining elementary schools to comply with the State requirement of a 25-hour school week is "very much on our mind. We are at present 40 minutes shy. However, I have a verbal statement to the effect that we have every reason to expect that the five-hour day requirement will be abolished or waived."

School Committee man Frazier submitted a motion to authorize the School Committee Chairman to appoint a committee to appraise the functioning of the pilot program. Mrs. Mintz amended the motion to include professional evaluators from outside Newton.

A dean's honor list student and Russian studies major at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony P. Schmitt, Chevy Chase, Md.

Miss Werner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David J. Werner of Milwaukee, is a political science major at the liberal arts college for women, and is also a dean's honor list student.

When all is said and done," Frazier commented, "our decision will be guided by what is best for the school child. A great deal will depend on the way the pilot school is conducted. A great many people signed a petition in favor of single session. A poll of parents indicated that a sizable portion

Also approved by the School Committee was a formal vote of thanks to the Knowles group for its work.

Some opponents of single session have maintained that the $33,000 appropriation for a period of about 15 weeks from the start of school in September to Christmas vacation, would average out to over $180 per day, per school, if the program were instituted in four schools during what are now the three long days—Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The appropriation would still come out to over $100 a day per school, if, as Committee member Francis P. Frazier suggested at a public hearing in Newton South High School, the lunch program set up on a five-day-a-week basis.

Some expenditures might be made for refrigeration in the schools as well as for staff to obtain supervisors and to back up the evaluation committee. It is thought, however, that the greater part of the expenditures of a school lunch program would be connected with salaries of supervisors.

and since 1957 as Director of Admissions.

Descendant of the first settlers of Nantucket, son of a Rhodes Scholar, teacher and poet, Mr. Coffin is a graduate of Bowdoin College with a master's degree from the Bread Loaf School at Middlebury.

He has also done graduate work at Harvard and Oxford and was awarded two Distinguished Flying Crosses for his services as a Naval fighter pilot during World War II.

Fessenden School was founded in 1903 by Frederick J. Fessenden as an independent boarding school and day primary school for boys, through Grade 8. Its first class of six boarding and three day boys included Sinclair Weeks, who became a mayor of Newton and later U.S. Senator from Massachusetts and Secretary of Commerce under President Eisenhower.

It has prepared boys for the leading secondary schools since that time, and the present enrollment includes 160 boarding pupils and 80 day pupils. Since its establishment The Fessenden School has had but two headmasters, Frederick J. Fessenden and his son Hart Fessenden, who succeeded him in 1935.

Its alumni, which number about 2500, now live throughout America as well as in many foreign countries. Although now greatly expanded, the original school plant in West Newton is still the center of the school.

The board of trustees includes in addition to Sinclair Weeks the following prominent Bostonians: Talcott M. Banks, president, a partner in the Boston law firm of Palmer Dodge Gardner & Bradford; John L. Cooper, trustee, Massachusetts Investors Trust, and president of the Massachusetts Investors Growth Stock Fund; Roger C. Damon, chairman of the board of The First National Bank of Boston; Samuel A. Groves, president of the United Carr Inc.; David B. Stone, chairman, executive committee, Hayden, Stone Inc., and J. Mattocks White of Beverly Farms, associated with Brewster & Lord of Boston.

Beauty Center To Be Located On Walnut St.

Final preparations have been made for the opening of the new Beauty Center at 870 Walnut St., Newton, emphasizing classes in Make-Up, Fashion Co-ordinating, and self-improvement for the discriminating woman.

The Beauty Center is fortunate to have the services of Mr. Jack Stein, make-up artist and beauty consultant, as director and co-ordinator for the school.

Jack Stein is recognized as the foremost Make-Up Artist in New England. His extensive knowledge of twenty-five years in the art of grooming for society, stage, screen, and television has helped to improve the personal appearance of home-makers as well as celebrities and professional people.

Mr. Stein is make-up artist for television, stage, and screen in New York and Boston and an instructor of make-up at Emerson College, where he has received an Honorary Master of Science Degree.

His charm courses in the New England area have proven helpful to the young and old alike, especially with professional women. He designs makeup for fashion shows and is a consultant.

Everyone wants to look her best, and to quote Jack Stein "There are no unattractive women, it is only what they neglect to do for themselves."

Young Swimmer Qualifies For N.E. "Y" Meet

Service In Honor Of Dr. Weiss Temple Organist

A Sabbath Eve Service devoted entirely to compositions of Dr. Robert Weiss will be held Friday, Mar. 24, at Temple Emanuel in Newton. The service, at 8:30 p.m., honors Dr. Weiss on his 10th anniversary as organist at the temple. The campaign gets underway shortly and will be conducted among more than 300 Tufts and Jackson alumni, parents and friends residing in the Newton area.

"More than ever before in the history of our country," Mr. Holtz declared, "we look to the educated men and women to help resolve the challenging social, political and economic problems. People who have themselves benefited from a college or university education have an opportunity and obligation to support that institution. I know that Tufts men and women will respond with understanding and generosity to insure the complete success of the Annual Fund campaign."

Solons Vote On Vets Preference

Rep. Paul Malloy of Newton was among legislators who voted 175-50 to kill a measure which would have changed the veteran's preference provision of the State's Civil Service Law. Reps. Joseph G. Bradley, Irving Fishman, Theodore D. Mann and Edward M. Dickson of Weston, whose district includes Newton's Ward Four, were among those who unsuccessfully tried to keep the measure alive.

WW II Veterans' Home Loans

Less than five months remain for veterans of World War II to use their guaranteed privileges for a loan to purchase a home, farm or for business purposes. This warning came from William F. Connors, manager VA Office, Boston.

Present statutes provide that the absolute cutoff date for World War II veterans will be on July 25. This deadline is the result of Congressional action which has delayed the final date of eligibility several times.

The cutoff will not affect veterans of the Korean Conflict or veterans who have served since January 31, 1955. Connors pointed out, as these veterans are covered by different legislation.

Almost 326,000 loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration to Massachusetts veterans since the beginning of the program following World War II. One out of every five homes constructed in the United States following World War II was with VA guarantee.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 percent of the purchase price of a home for a veteran with limitation as to the total purchase price.

Connors urged veterans planning to purchase a home to make their selection as soon as possible, avoiding the last minute rush for certification.

Information and assistance may be obtained at the VA Contact Division, Room E-116, John F. Kennedy Federal Building, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. and Saturdays, 9:00-1:00 p.m. Telephone: 223-3080.

Joseph W. Cheverly Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cheverly, 75 Waban park, Newton, was promoted to the rank of lieutenant colonel in his Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps unit at the University of Notre Dame. He was selected on the basis of his grades, outstanding leadership, ability and potential as an Air Force officer. On graduation and completion of AFROTC requirements, he will be eligible for a commission. He is a graduate of Boston College High School.

Sixteen appointments, four resignations and eight sabbatical leaves of absence were approved at the School Committee meeting Monday night. The only appointment that takes effect immediately is that of Mrs. Mary N. Snyder, who will teach grade six at the Davis School.

Mrs. Snyder graduated from Duquesne University in 1944 and subsequently taught schools in North Carolina and Pennsylvania in the elementary grades.

Two secondary school appointments were made for next September. Margaret A. Crook, who will graduate this year from Boston College, will teach English at Weeks School, Newton.

Eleanore A. Arthur will teach grades one, two, three or four. She graduates this year from Jackson College, where she is vice president of the Sociology honor society.

Mrs. Lynne M. Feiss will teach grades five, four or three. She graduated from Douglass College in 1966 and will receive her Master's degree in Education from Tufts this year.

Susan B. Handelman will teach grades four, five, or six. She will graduate this year from Boston University. She has worked as a tutor for the Y.W.C.A. in Syracuse, New York, and the Y.M.C.A. in Roxbury.

Margaret M. Hart will teach grades three, four or two. She graduated from Caldwell College in 1965. Since then she taught grade three and conducted a pilot program in linguistics.

Laura F. Huber will teach grades three, two or four. She graduated from Wells College in Aurora, New York, in 1963 and will receive her Master's degree in Education from Tufts College this year. Miss Huber has worked for a family service association as a case-aid for a year and for the Massachusetts General Hospital for two years as a social work assistant.

Naomi E. Kintisch will teach grade three, four or two. She will graduate from Boston University this year. She served as a camp counselor and boating instructor for two summers.

Bonnie W. Lafane will teach grade one or two. She will receive her Bachelor's degree in education from Wheelock College this year. She served as a cap art and drama instructor for two summers.

The Conservators' plan for the Upper Falls section of the Charles River up to Kenrick Street bridge will be on display at this meeting for the first time. Those who have helped and advised the Conservators and David L. Young of the Boston Society of Landscape Architects on this year-long project are:

Mrs. Mary C. Mansfield will teach grades three, four or kindergarten. She will graduate this year from Wheelock College. She has been a volunteer worker in several hospitals, working with children, and has also worked with retarded and emotionally disturbed children.

Sandra Neuss will teach any elementary grade. She graduated from Syracuse University in 1966. She has been a teacher aide and substitute in the Bowen School this year.

Marcia Gail Parsons will teach grades five, six or four. She will graduate this year from Framingham State College. Miss Parsons did part of her student teaching in grades five and six of the Williams School.

Barbara C. Perry will teach grades three, four or two. She will receive her Bachelor's degree from Boston University this year. Miss Perry did part of her student teaching in grade four of the Beethoven School. She has taken part in the Boston University Junior Alumnus Program, the Float Committee, and Orphanage Party Planning. She has also been a camp counselor.

Mrs. Paula S. VanDernoot will teach grade three, four or two. She will graduate this year from Lesley College. Mrs. VanDernoot did part of her student teaching in grades three and four of the Carr School.

The resignations approved included that of Fern Fogelman, who had been appointed effective next September; Mrs. Joan Bruck presently on leave of absence from the Countryside School; Alan P. Gartner, now on leave of absence from Newton High School; and Alice Ann Dias of the Beethoven School.

Sabbatical leaves of absence were approved for William W. Clark of Newton High School, Helen M. Finnerty of Newton High School, Richard T. Geist of Newton South High School, Richard A. LeMaire of Warren Junior High School, Ann V. Sanguineti of Newton South High School, Geraldine Seaver of Newton High School, Mrs. Freda B. Serkin of the Division of Instruction, and Jack Sinowitz of Bigelow Junior High School. The leave given Sinowitz is for the 1967-68 school year.

Other sabbatical leaves of absence granted, start in January, 1968, and run for the balance of that academic year.

Newton, Massachusetts

President Lyndon B. Johnson The White House

Dear Mr. President:

Recently published material, such as Harrison Salisbury's series in THE NEW YORK TIMES, Martha Gelhorn's article in the LADIES HOME JOURNAL, "Where the Innocent Die" in January's REDBOOK, and "The Children of Vietnam" in the same month's RAMPARTS, has presented evidence of the extensive killing and mutilation of Vietnamese civilians, including children, by our bombs — napalm and fragmentation bombs as well as the "conventional" type.

U.N. Secretary-General U-Thant, Pope Paul, the National Council of Churches, and other religious groups, have added their voices to those of millions of people who long for an end to the war.

The killing and maiming of civilians — and American and Vietnamese military personnel — must stop. We, the undersigned inhabitants of Newton, Massachusetts, petition you to take a first step toward peace by ordering an immediate cessation of the bombing in Vietnam.

Very truly yours,

John H. Smith

Memorial PTA Meets Tonight

The Memorial School PTA will meet tonight, Thursday, March 16, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

Albert Hurwitz, co-ordinator of the arts in the Newton schools will be the speaker. His topic will be, "Children and Art."

The speaker will specifically reveal what research tells us about the effects of art on children and their personality. Refreshments will be served.

tempt to anticipate future developments both within the hospital and those outside which might influence its research activities.

Dr. Isselbacher, an outstanding clinical investigator in the field of gastroenterology, is held in high regard for his major contributions in the areas of basic science and in clinical medicine.

The scientific contributions of Dr. Isselbacher primarily have been concerned with metabolic problems and vital physiologic processes involving the liver and the intestinal tract.

His findings have added significantly to the knowledge of medical scientists who see the bio-chemical pathways whereby foodstuffs are absorbed from the intestinal tract and subsequently utilized or metabolized by the liver.

While at the National Institutes of Health (1955-56), Dr. Isselbacher with Dr. Herman Kalckar, now Professor of Biological Chemistry at Harvard, and Henry S. Wellcome, Research Biochemist at the Massachusetts General Hospital, was the first to recognize and describe the defect in the hereditary disease, galactosemia, and developed a specific enzymatic test for diagnosing the disease.

By means of this test, Dr. Isselbacher has been able to diagnose the disorder at birth before any mental retardation occurs. The test which he developed is currently in use in most large pediatric and medical centers in the United States.

His research in the area of galactose metabolism has already had broad implications in the field of mental retardation and the formation of cataracts in the lens of the eye.

Also, with his associates, Dr. Isselbacher first provided a new and important clue to the cause of Whipple's Disease (a debilitating ailment accompanied by a deposit of fat in the intestinal lymphatic tissue in man). Their findings, since confirmed in other laboratories, suggest that Whipple's Disease is due to an infectious agent.

As a teacher at the graduate as well as at the post-graduate level at the Harvard Medical School, Dr. Isselbacher is in charge of the second year course in Gastrointestinal Pathophysiology.

He has been active in the teaching of an elective course on the Biology and

Warren G. Reed Services Held In Union Church

Services for Warren Goddard Reed, 56, of 20 Manita Rd., Waban, a former vice president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Association, were held Monday, Mar. 13, in the Union Church of Waban.

A former Plymouth resident and prominent attorney, Mr. Reed died unexpectedly at his home on Mar. 10.

His practice was in Boston with the firm of Haussman, Davison and Shattuck, and previously he had been associated with Sawyer, Hardy, Stone & Morrison as general counsel.

He was a director of the Pilgrim Society of Plymouth and a trustee and former deacon of the Union Church. A graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, he earned an A. B. cum laude from Harvard in 1932, and in 1935 was graduated from Harvard Law School.

He served as a captain in the Judge Advocate's Division in World War II. In the Philippines, while serving as a staff judge advocate of the 86th Infantry Division, he had charge of a detachment of four in a remote village on one occasion, and it fell upon them to negotiate and accept the surrender of some 700 armed Japanese who had been in hiding. For his action there, he was awarded the Bronze Star.

Formerly chief counsel for Employers Group of Insurance Companies, he had also been a director of three of its affiliates. He was also a director of the Massachusetts Federation of Taxpayers, a trustee of the Employers Group Associates and Insurance Library Association of Boston, and member of the executive committee of the International Association of Insurance Counsel and the Insurance Federation of Massachusetts.

In Newton, he had served as clerk and director of the Taxpayers Association, president of the Waban Improvement Society, and president of the Union Church Men's Club.

He was a member of the American, Massachusetts, Boston and Cambridge Bar Associations, Harvard Club of Boston, Algonquin Club, Down Town Club, Brae Burn Country Club and the Plymouth Yacht Club.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Helen C. Shepard Reed; three daughters, Mrs. William E. Morton of Belmont, and Barbara M. and Katherine G. Reed of Waban, and a sister, Dorothy B. Reed of Plymouth.

MRS. LEONARD MURMUS BARC "Friends" Prepare Gala June Function

Mrs. Leonard Murmus of Newton, chairman of "Friends of B.A.R.C." upcoming social event, announced this week that the organization is working on preliminary plans for an elegant ball to be held at the Sidney Hill Country Club on June 17th.

The Newton woman has been active in the organization, which aids retarded children, since its inception fifteen years ago.

Mrs. Murmus stated that in keeping with past performances, "Friends of B.A.R.C." committees are preparing several surprises for the gala June function at which it is expected that $35,000 will be raised to benefit retarded children.

Mrs. Melvin Ravech, president of "Friends," said that committee chairmen and workers are already preparing their plans for realizing the monetary goal of the ball.

Gala Program Highlights Local Girl Scout "Week"

Westdale Neighborhood Girl Scouts ushered in Girl Scout Week this year, March 12-18, with their annual breakfast at the Warren Junior High School in West Newton.

Several churches and synagogues in the area also made special recognition of Girl Scout Sabbath (March 11) and Girl Scout Sunday (March 12), with many scouts attending religious services in uniform for rededication ceremonies. Living with the Girl Scout Promise of "duty to God and my Country" is an essential part of their scouting experience.

Adult Leaders in presenting this breakfast each year have the deep satisfaction in the joy of helping today's girls become the happy, resourceful citizens of tomorrow.

General Chairman this year was Mrs. David Kendall of West Newton, who is also Leader of Junior Troop No. 586. Other Committee heads were Mrs. Edward Shooshan of West Newton, food chairman; head table decorations, Mrs. Gustave Harrer of Auburndale and also a junior consultant for the Neighborhood; Mrs. Richard Ingels, of Auburndale, in charge of Junior Scout Hostesses; Mrs. Justin McCarthy of West Newton, store decorations; Mrs. Newton Teixeira of West Newton, special honors, and neighborhood chairman; and Mrs. Robert Lacey of W. Newton, program chairman.

Special guests present at Games for early-comers were again planned and conducted by Cadet Troop from Warren No. 596 under leadership of Mrs. Thomas Hayden and Mrs. Ralph Alsmeier, both of West Newton.

Breakfast tables were decorated with centerpieces created by each troop at all levels.

Circles of brown-yarned Brownie dolls, stolid styrofoam headed Girl Scout statues, Girl Scout Promise trees with blossoms of achievement badges, and simple colorful tissue paper flower creations all attest to the resourcefulness of the young people's activities.

Barron's in West Newton has made a window display available to the Neighborhood.

Mrs. Shannon also conducted special presentation of Juliette Low representatives from each troop who delivered a total of $37.80 for this year's fund.

Five-year pin was also presented to Mrs. George Michaels of Auburndale during the breakfast ceremonies.

The Neighborhood chairman especially expressed gratitude to the several civic and religious organizations which generously gave of their facilities to the troops and GS team for the promotion of their activities — the news media were also expressly thanked by Mrs. Teixeira for the space graciously allotted to Girl Scouting activities, and reporting.

135 Children Take Part In Community Enrichm't Plan

The Newton Community Center announced today that over 135 children participated in their Holiday Enrichment Program, which sent youngsters from Newton on field trips in and around the Boston area.

Mrs. Murray Janower, director of the program, told the Graphic that the trips were open to all children of Newton on a tuition basis, and that the greatest number of children registered from the Ward, Bowen, Pierce, Davis and Hyde Schools.

There were also children representing Cabot, Hamilton, Memorial, Williams, Beethoven, Countryside, Angier, Oak Hill, Plympton, Emerson, Horace Mann, Our Lady's, Lincoln-Elliot, Underwood, Mason-Rice, Spaulding and Clafin schools, she added, although in smaller proportions.

Enrollment in the February Vacation Program more than quadrupled as compared with the Christmas Vacation Series and is due in a large measure to the excellent publicity of the Creative Arts Council of the Public Schools of Newton.

Information about the programs was taken by the Creative Arts council members, back to their respective Elementary Schools, and communicated to interested parents and children. "The response was terrific," said Mrs. Janower, "and in many instances there were long waiting lists. The children had a marvelous time and seemed greatly excited by their trips; Parents comments were equally enthusiastic."

Mrs. Janower also commented on the reception of the children's trips at the various places they toured. "We were warmly welcomed at Hanscom Field, the Pepsi-Cola and Fanny Farmer factories," she stated. "The children were interested, and observant, and of course delighted with some of their souvenirs—candy, pepsi, rulers, hats, etc. Unfortunately the tour to Logan Airport was cancelled, due to inclement weather, but the children explored eskimos, indians, dinosaures and glass flowers at the Peabody Museum instead, and seemed quite intrigued.

Winterfest performances were, of course, a resounding success. The children were privileged to attend two excellent performances on each trip — for Kindergarten through Grade 3, a Youth Audiences Concert and a demonstration of puppets by the "New England Guild of Puppetry," and for Grades 3-6, the Magic Carpet Players musical performance of "The Princess and the Pea," and the Fontaine Children's Theatre production of "The Snow Queen and the Goblin." "Highlights of the Winterfest trips," added Mrs. Janower, "were the zoomobile and crafts demonstrations in which some of the youngsters actually participated."

The Easter Vacation Program, third in the series of Holiday Enrichment Programs, is now being planned by the Center. Halfday trips for Kindergarten through Grade 3 should include a trip to the airport (Logan Interna-

College Combo Bill Watched By This City

A bill combining all state colleges in the Boston area and resettling them in a Chestnut Hill, Newton, complex was given a public hearing last week before the Legislature's Joint Committee on Education.

Newton Planning Director James A. Miller was present at the hearing to learn more about the bill, which was filed by State Rep. Gerald O'Leary, of Boston.

Miller said the city wanted to be kept informed about the progress of the bill, and hoped that the final site chosen, if ever, would be best for all concerned after a detailed study.

The bill was a combination of two bills that would combine all the state-supported colleges in the Boston area, and also form a branch of the U. of Massachusetts in Chestnut Hill. U. of Mass. President John Lederle opposed the bill feeling that any such move should be originated and studied by the Board of Higher Education and not the Legislature.

2 Students Get Straight A's At Junior College

Two of the 30 residents of Newton who made the honors list for the first semester of the current academic year at Newton Junior College, maintained a straight A average, it was announced by the dean, Dr. Charles D. Merrill.

They were Danah J. Tract of Newtonville and Martin R. Walsh of Newton.

The others, graduates of Newton public and parochial schools, maintained academic averages of B or better.

"Bozo," the famous television clown, will be coming to Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton on Sunday afternoon, March 19, under the auspices of Needham's Cedar Hill Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation Through Training). The doors will open at 1:30 p.m., and tickets can be reserved by calling Mrs. Herbert J. Cohen, 235-8446, in Needham, and Mrs. Milton B. Tessel, 332-4505, in Newton. Money raised from the Bozo show will be used, as are all ORT funds, to support the world-wide system of ORT schools. These schools are for the training and retraining of refugees or those whose skills have been made obsolete by machines. In addition, the schools train young people whose families have lived in abject poverty with no hope of improving their lot. With their new skills, these young people can support themselves and their families with dignity, and not depend on charity.

The success of this program can be measured by the increasing number of students who apply to ORT schools each year, and by the fact that an ORT degree is a guarantee of a job.

All interested parents are invited to bring their youngsters to this gala "Bozo" presentation.

Women's American ORT To Present "Bozo" Mar. 19

Young Fashion Designers Stress Dress Comfort

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

WEST END, Grand Bahama (UPI) — If the young American designers have their way the young man of the future will dress in a comfortable form-fitting jump suit of stretch fabric which can be worn with a fitted sports jacket and a turtleneck sweater.

This was the key design emerging from the fresh styling ideas appearing in DuPont's student fashion designer contest in which 28 students among 200 competing from 25 U.S. fashion design schools shared cash awards of $2,500 for their ideas on young men's attire of the 1970s.

The big winner was 19-year-old Michael Maiello of Ozone Park, N.Y., a student at New York City's Tropagen School of Fashion who won the $500 award for the best series of designs in three or more categories of men's apparel. He also received a $5,000 company apprenticeship from S. Rudofsky's Sons, Inc., makers of After Six formal wear.

Young Maiello won the jackpot for his original designs in suits, formal wear, outerwear and jumpsuits. Jumpsuits were not even a category but almost every student entered one or more jumpsuit designs, which were a far cry from the baggy coverall designs usually associated with the idea.

The designs, some of them so far out they brought nervous smiles to the audience of manufacturers and retailers attending DuPont's annual young men's workshop, were interpreted by John Paul Goebel, a nationally known designer and fashion consultant.

Goebel said the fitted jumpsuit, or one piece suit, was the most original idea because it was designed for most categories of men's apparel.

Japan's Shop Marts Sprawl Undergroun

By HANK SATO
United Press International

TOKYO (UPI) — Americans sprawl shopping centers across suburban landscapes. The Japanese put theirs underground.

So, when an apartment dwelling housewife tells her neighbor she will spend the afternoon downtown shopping, she really means down. And her husband would catch an elevator, up, to catch the subway home.

For in Japan today, there are some 25 underground towns, called "chikagai," most of them centered at major railway stations. Each is complete with shops, bars, restaurants and department stores. Some boast beauty parlors and theaters.

For instance, Tokyo's Palais Building, dedicated less than four months ago, has five floors underground. Above, it climbs nine stories and offers a good view of the Imperial Palace across the street and of the royal moat. Palaceside was built by Reader's Digest and the Mainichi Shimbun (newspaper) and also houses the Asia headquarters of United Press International.

The mass circulation daily's huge rotary presses are riveted on the fifth floor underground. A pressman, through with his day's work, would catch an elevator to the second level and then catch the subway home.

The housewife, meanwhile, would have completed shopping in the subterranean town where she could buy every item on the dinner menu and then some.

Once going underground at the nearest subway station to her home, she had not surfaced until her return home. She had evaded the sun, rain, snow or whatever nature had designed for that day on the world above.

But she had not avoided people.

Conservative estimates say that the Chikagais have an average of 600,000 walk-in customers daily. They come by subway, by stairways and escalators. While it is true a great number of them use the underground cities merely as alleyways enroute home, chances are they'll stop for a cup of coffee, beer or an inexpensive gift for the family.

Others stream into the area to buy, drink, eat, browse, loaf and even stand around the corner watching all the girls go by.

One of the largest of the Chikagais in the nation is at the Osaka central railroad station. It has 225 shops and some 800,000 people visit it daily. Tokyo's main railroad station has one as does Shinjuku, another important rail center in Japan's capital.

Tax Talk

This column is edited by Frank J. O'Connor, Chief of the Audit Division, Boston District, Internal Revenue Service. Questions of general interest mailed to Mr. O'Connor, Post Office Box 323, North Postal Annex, Boston, Mass., 02203, will be answered through this column.

Question: If my wife and I file separate returns, can I itemize deductions while she claims the standard deduction on her return?

Answer: No. If one spouse itemizes the other must do likewise.

Question: My husband died last October. Am I considered a surviving spouse for the year 1966?

Answer: You are considered to have been married for the entire year 1966 and may file a joint return for you and your deceased spouse. If you do not remarry, have a child or stepchild who qualifies as your dependent; and furnish over one-half the cost of maintaining your household, you will qualify as a "surviving spouse" for 1967 and 1968.

Question: My son is a full time student at the University of Massachusetts where he received a full scholarship for 1966. His tuition and room and board are paid for by the university. We provide all of his other support, including spending money while he is at school. Does he still qualify as our dependent?

Answer: The scholarship is not counted in determining total support so that you are considered to have been his sole support for 1966 and may claim him as your dependent.

Question: I am a widow, 68 years old, and I am thinking of selling my house this year and move into an apartment. I have owned the house for many years and expect to make a substantial profit. Someone told me that I may not have to pay a tax on this gain. Is this possible?

Answer: You may generally elect to exclude from your gross income part or all of the gain if you are 65 years of age or older before the date of sale and you owned and used this property as your principal residence for a period of time (whether continuous or interrupted) totaling at least 5 years within the 8-year period ending on the date of such sale.

If your adjusted sales price is $20,000.00 or less, your entire gain is tax free. If your adjusted sales price is more than $20,000.00, only a part of the gain you realize may be excluded from your gross income. For further details and examples of how to determine the amount of gain excludable, you may obtain IRS Document 5017, Selling Your Home, by calling your local IRS office.

For underground space they pay a third less, or even lower.

Real estate companies and other "Huis" operate the Chikagais. They provide their own police force, security patrols and even offer professional advice on how to improve business.

Underground towns are doublewalled with reinforced concrete slab and easily absorb the rumblings of crowded trains and the see-saw effects of Japanese earthquakes.

The most frequent complaint of underground employees, especially from beauty-conscious females, is that the processed air pumped below dries their skin.

But managers of most shops allow at least twice-a-day breaks for employees to surface for air and sunshine. Some even provide moisturizing cream and vitamin pills.

If working in a well-ventilated (heated during the winter) underground shop is a menace to good health, it is going to be several years before doctors and scientists will be able to say for sure.

But insurance companies are taking no chances, either from the health standpoint or possible damage from natural disasters such as earthquakes. They are charging higher premiums for coverage.

A. W. Mackerer of Pompano Beach, Fla., has been re-elected president of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, for his third consecutive one-year term. Recently named "Boating Man of the Year" by the Marine Trades Association of New York, Mackerer is director of industry relations and special services of the Chris-Craft Corp.

Kiekhaefer Corp., of Fond du Lac, Wis., has entered a third major area of marine propulsion with the introduction of a line of inboard marine engines. According to company president, E. C. Kiekhaefer, the new line spans the inboard engine market.

Protect Your Children Against Measles, Says The AMA

CHICAGO—Now is the time to have your children immunized against measles if they have not already received this protection, says the American Medical Association.

Many parents are surprised to learn how dangerous this common childhood disease really is.

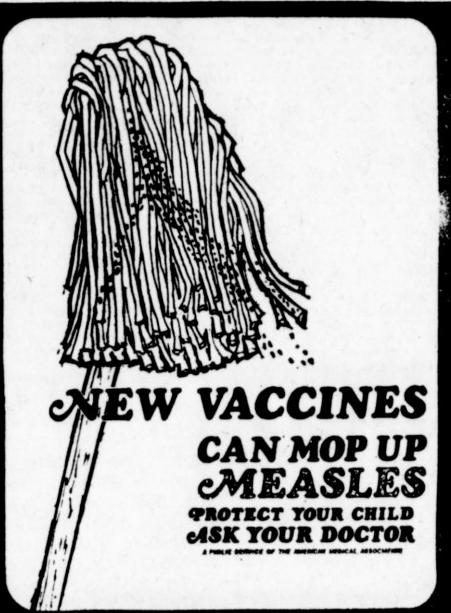

An estimated 250 American children died from measles in 1966. More than 150 suffered measles encephalitis, sometimes called sleeping sickness, or brain fever. Encephalitis frequently leaves children with permanent disabilities, including mental retardation, deafness, and blindness.

Future tragedies can be prevented, because safe and effective measles vaccines are now available. In the past four years these vaccines have helped cut the measles death rate in half.

It's possible that measles could be eradicated in the near future if more parents protected their children with immunization.

The AMA recommends that every infant be vaccinated when he is about one year old. All children over this age who have not been vaccinated and who have not had measles, should be immunized now.

It is especially important that children in nurseries, kindergartens, and the first two grades of elementary school receive measles immunization. These young sters have the highest risk of infection. If enough children are protected by immunization, measles will disappear. It's time to get rid of this familiar, but often dangerous, and sometimes deadly childhood disease.

Orange Griddle Cakes Make Breakfast Special

By LYNN MARSHALL
(Norfolk County Extension Service)

When mighty Jupiter wed the comely Juno, he presented his bride with an orange, ancient mythology tells us. If he had had this season's abundance of oranges to draw on, he could have been far more generous with the fruit fit for a goddess. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service, it's the largest crop of record.

The expected harvest is some 59 percent above average, with most of the increase attributed to a record large crop in Florida. All this spells good buys at the market on this gain.

Answer: You may generally elect to exclude from your gross income part or all of the gain if you are 65 years of age or older before the date of sale and you owned and used this property as your principal residence for a period of time (whether continuous or interrupted) totaling at least 5 years within the 8-year period ending on the date of such sale.

Employment. It is not necessary that the 39 weeks be consecutive; that you work for one employer; or that you actually have employment on the date you arrive at the new location.

Moving expenses are considered to be the reasonable costs of moving yourself and your family, and your household goods and personal effects from your former residence to your new residence.

This expense may be claimed whether or not you itemize your deductions. Form 3903 should be filled out and attached to your return when claiming this deduction.

Question: Are expenses incurred in seeking a job deductible?

Answer: Job hunting expenses, or expenses incurred with the hope that future employment will result are not deductible.

However, fees paid to an employment agency for procuring employment are deductible if you itemize your deductions.

Bishop From India Speaker At Church Here

"Ride On" will be performed by the Sacred Dance Choir at Newton Centre Methodist Church Sunday morning, March 19, at the 11 o'clock worship, when Bishop Gabriel Sundaram, a native of Hyderabad State, India, will be the speaker.

Bishop Sundaram was graduated from Wesley High School and Nizam College in Hyderabad. He also studied at Lucknow College, and holds an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, Ohio.

He served as principal of the Methodist Boys' Schools in Hyderabad from 1923 to 1947, and also as pastor and district superintendent. In 1948, he became secretary of the Council of Christian Education of the Methodist Church in South India.

Also, he has served as chairman of the Audio-Visual Committee of the National Christian Council in India, representing most Protestant churches. He is a member of the board of Leonard Theological College, Jabolpur, the boards of Lucknow Christian College and Isabella Thorneburn College at Lucknow, and a member of the All-India Council of Indian Churches and delegate to the Assembly of the International Missionary Council in Madras in 1933.

Prior to his election as a Bishop and appointment to the Hyderabadi Episcopal area, he was a delegate to the 1932, 1952 and 1956 General Conferences of the Methodist Church.

Good Neighbors Start Fund For Ailing Postman

Henry Hebert, veteran of 40 years of postal service to Newton Centre residents and businessmen, is seriously ill. The nature of his illness requires continuous hospitalization and intensive care and his retirement from the postal service.

In gratitude for these many years of faithful service, the residents of Newton Centre are establishing a fund to help defray the mounting medical expenses.

Any person desiring to participate is asked to send his contribution to Henry Hebert, General Delivery, United States Post Office, Newton Centre, Mass. 02159. Please make checks payable to "Help Henry."

Further information may be obtained by calling Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cohen, 215 Cypress Street, Newton, Mass.

Noted Newsman Featured At Lecture Here Sunday

Brotherhood Temple Mishkan Tefila has announced that Mr. I. L. Kenen will deliver the "Jack Wilson Memorial Lecture" on Sunday morning, March 19, at the Temple, 300 Hammond Pond Parkway, Chestnut Hill.

Mr. Kenen is the editor of the Near East Report, a bi-weekly newsletter on American policy in the Near East, which he has published since 1957.

In addition he is the executive director of the American Israel Public Affairs Committee, which is working to promote peace and economic development in the region.

Mr. Kenen has held key posts in the American Jewish community. He was secretary of the American Jewish Conference, organizing Jewish delegations to the United Nations Conference in San Francisco, to the Paris Peace Conference, and to other international gatherings.

When the UN took up the Palestine question in 1947, he was Director of Information for the Jewish Agency's delegation, and, in 1948, he was invited by government of Israel to join its first UN delegation in the same capacity. He resigned that post in 1951 to assume his present activities in Washington.

He has been a newspaperman in Toronto and Cleveland. In 1933 he was one of the founders of the American Newspaper Guild in Cleveland, and he later won the Guild's Heywood Broun Memorial Award for outstanding journalistic achievement.

Mr. Kenen's current one month tour of Israel will make this lecture a first hand report.

M.D. Braver, president, and Dr. Irving Shaufer, executive vice president and program co-ordinator, list the following committees which are preparing the morning's program:

General chairman: Jacob Birnbaum; reservations, Martin H. Alpert and Dr. L. Jerome Stein; arrangements, William Nathanson and Dr. Harold Ehrlich; publicity, Leo Karas, Maxwell Rosenbaum, and Jacob Sieve.

Palate Providers, Jason S. Burack, Leo Shurin, Selig Yanes, William Silberstein, Edward Kandib, Charles Weinfeld, Daniel Shrager, and Sanford Kaiser; hospitality, Irving Gale, Dr. Milton Glickstein, Lawrence Phillips, Harry Englander, Henry Greene, Samuel Greenberg, Sumner Barnett, Dr. Julian Snyder, and Samuel Sacks.

Reservations may be made by contacting the Temple office or the above reservations committee.

Local Women To Be Featured On Channel 2 Show

Three Newton women involved in "A New Kind of Volunteer Social Work" will appear on Channel 2's "THE NEXT STEP," Wednesday, Mar. 22 at 2:30 p.m.

All residents of West Newton, they are Mrs. Jane Day of 808 Watertown St., Mrs. Thomas Hayden of 8 Eden Ave., and Mrs. Arthur Barnes of 51 Winthrop St.

Mrs. Day is a retired social worker who supervises some 28 volunteers, among them Mrs. Hayden and Mrs. Barnes.

Joining Mrs. Katherine Davis of Simmons College, hostess for "THE NEXT STEP," these three women, along with Mrs. Gloria Thomas of West Roxbury, tell of the work they are doing and discuss opportunities open to women who wish to volunteer in the area of social work.

Designed to inform women whose families no longer require their undivided attention about the many professional and volunteer possibilities available in the Greater Boston area, "THE NEXT STEP," is aired each Wednesday afternoon on Channel 2. Jane Wainwright is the producer; Douglas White directs.

The leading science student in the Junior Class. The high scorers will appear as contestants.

Cong. Heckler In Strong Move For Ethics Code

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler took the initiative this week in pressing for the adoption of a Code of Ethics for members of Congress.

Three other Republican Congresswomen joined with her.

In a speech on the floor of the national House Tuesday — the third she has made since becoming a member of Congress — Mrs. Heckler declared that the enactment of a congressional Code of Ethics is the most important issue before the body.

"How can people place unequal reliance on this body to deal with the hard questions of national order and the harder questions of international disorder when the Congress appears reluctant or even hostile to dealing with the question of disciplining itself?" she demanded.

"No member of Congress can afford to ignore the growing disenchantment of our people," she asserted.

"Critics have said that giving the conduct of the members of Congress such a public nature will open the way to the calling of a witch hunt," Mrs. Heckler declared.

"I disagree," she said. "I can think of no more effective way to thwart the hunters than to open the broom closet."

Three Churches To Combine For Good Friday

Three Newton Centre churches, the Methodist, First United Church of Christ and First Baptist, will unite for Good Friday service from noon to 3 p.m. The service will be held in the First Baptist Church in Newton, Beacon and Centre Sts.

The following ministers will take part in the Seven Last Words of Christ:

The Rev. Ellis O'Neal, librarian, Andover Newton Theological School.

Dr. Samuel Handrickm, director of field work at Boston University.

The Rev. Seaton Woodley, pastor, Newton Centre Methodist Church.

Dr. Edmund H. Linn, professor of speech, Andover Newton Theological School.

Dr. Gerald L. Cragg, professor of church history, Andover Newton Theological School.

The Rev. Harold A. Malmborg, pastor, First Baptist Church in Newton.

Fishman stated that "Air pollution has become a serious threat to community health, and I look forward to working with the other members of the commission so that legislation may be forthcoming in the current session to protect the public health in this vital area."

Newton South Editors Visit N.Y. Conclave

Last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday the 43rd Annual Convention of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association was held in New York. 5500 student editors and faculty advisors from around the country came to the meeting.

Newton South was represented by "Denebola" editors Glenda Starr, Jill Davidson, and Debbie Morganthal and the paper's faculty advisor George Nye.

The quartet flew to New York on Thursday morning and registered at the Americana Hotel where the delegates from Newton High were also staying.

The days were taken up by the program scheduled at Columbia. The University presented three types of meetings. Large lectures were staged in which the speakers were such people as the editors of the "New York Times" and well known film critics.

Sectional lectures were given by various teachers to the student newspapermen. The topics ranged from the organization of a school paper to writing headlines.

The students themselves also led round-table discussions. Jill and Glenda moderated a discussion entitled "Editorial Headaches and Avoiding Them." The students were given a schedule of the events and could attend any meeting they wished.

The Newton South group found time to see two productions, "Gabaret" and "Mame," on Thursday and Friday nights. They also visited the Guggenheim and Whitney Museums plus an exhibition of Andrew Wyeth paintings.

On Saturday morning the students were invited to attend Dorothy Gordon's Youth Forum which is a weekly show on NBC radio. Four students, one each from Illinois, Brooklyn, Washington, D.C., and Montgomery, Alabama, were on a panel with A. H. Raskin, the assistant editor of the "New York Times."

The subject of the discussion was "How Important Is An Informed Public." The program will be broadcast tonight from 9:05 to 10 p.m. over the NBC network.

There was a final luncheon for the delegates at the Americana on Saturday. Fred Friendly, former president of CBS, spoke. Awards were given out. "Denebola" took a second place.

Slater's big civic contribution came this year when he served as co-director of Operation FIT. Utilizing a $250,000 federal grant, the operation trained and employed underprivileged youth.

Slater and his wife, Barbara, have four children.

Three Churches To Combine For Good Friday

Representative Irving Fishman of Newton has been appointed by Speaker John F. X. Davoren of the Massachusetts House of Representatives to a new legislative commission to study air pollution in the Commonwealth.

The problem in the air has aroused such concern that more than 25 bills dealing with various aspects of air pollution control were filed in the state legislature this year.

Rep. Fishman is also a member of the joint legislative Committee on Public Health, and most of the bills filed have had public hearings before this committee. To evaluate the suggestions and solutions recommended by these proposed laws, the new commission was organized and the bills have been referred to the commission for study.

Fishman stated that "Air pollution has become a serious threat to community health, and I look forward to working with the other members of the commission so that legislation may be forthcoming in the current session to protect the public health in this vital area."

First Honors List

Arthur T. MacKay, a freshman at Catholic Memorial High School, has been named to the first honors list for the mid term. He is a graduate of Meadowbrook Junior High School.

CLERGYMEN AT ANNUAL INSTITUTE

Among those at the recent 17th Annual Institute for Clergy at Temple Shalom of Newton were, left to right, Right Rev. Bernard O'Kane, St. Bernard's Church; Rev. Thomas H. Lehman, Grace Episcopal Church; Dr. Bernard Martin, Prof. of Jewish Studies, Western Reserve University, guest speaker; Rabbi Murray I. Rothman, Temple Shalom; and Frank Bronstein, president, Temple Shalom. Rev. J. Francis Devine, S.J., assistant Prof. of Theology at Boston College, was not present when photo was taken.

RED CROSS READY TO ROLL—The Newton Red Cross is ready for any emergency which might occur in the city. Shown in photo at a practice drill are Harold Amidon, volunteer Motor Services driver, Mrs. Robert Brandt, vice chairman of the Motor Services, Mrs. Marjorie Vancelette executive director of the Newton Chapter and G. Parker Wahn, chairman of Disaster Services.

Wabanite Is Honored By Hub Jaycees

Sister M. Andrene of the 7:30 p.m. Mass in the Church.

Sister Andrene is a graduate of Regis College, having earned a B.A. in Chemistry and director of the Child Psychology Laboratory, Regis College, Weston, will be the speaker Wednesday, March 22, at 8 p.m. in the Lenten from Catholic University, Washington, D.C.

She has been a member of the faculty of Regis since 1964 and is a member of the American Psychological Association, and the Academy of Religion and Mental Health.

This will be the sixth and final lecture in a series which has been presented each Wednesday evening of Lent under the sponsorship of the adult education division of the parish Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. The program will begin immediately after a question period after Sister Andrene's talk. The public is invited and admission is free.

Is This Any Way To Run A College? You Bet It Is

Teachers grade their students? Certainly, they do. Then it is also quite proper for the students to grade their teachers, Dr. Vincent C. De Baun, president of Lasell Junior College, Auburndale, told a Lasell Honors Assembly on Monday.

"In my judgment," he declared, "there is nothing wrong with your taking polls or conducting surveys to measure student opinion of those faculty members who teach well, and those who teach poorly. Then go ahead and publish the result."

Before student evaluations of faculty can be taken seriously, he warned however, students must put their own houses in order. "You must put away childish things," he said.

President De Baun urged students to take a more active role in the classroom, in the lab, and in the studio, and above all to question. He pointed to the positive response of the student as very necessary to the creative and intellectual spirit of the teacher.

"Communication that must flow from teacher to student and back again is the central fact of college life," he said.

For his faculty, President De Baun said he would ask for a rigorous self-study, questioning the effectiveness of courses, the interrelationship of programs, and the whole meaning of the junior college.

The President advocated a closer relationship between faculty and students outside the classroom as an important contribution to the process of education and maturity.

In speaking of the vision ahead for Lasell, the president mentioned the library and dormitory currently under construction which, when completed, will provide new areas of privacy for study, contemplation, and relaxation in an atmosphere to encourage the intellectual life. He also foresaw the development of a curriculum which "says something about human hope and need in the twenty-first century."

The Honors Assembly cited four seniors who have been on the Dean's List at Lasell for three successive semesters. They are: Cheryl Silvers, Nursing Curriculum, Wilmington, Mass.; Shea Goldman, a scholar-shipping for her ballet training in London and will take a full course of academic studies.

Army Pfc. David Vito, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Vito, 107 Newtonville Ave., Newton, has been assigned as a signal supply specialist in Headquarters Company, 1st Signal Brigade, Strategic Communications Command, near Saigon, Vietnam.

Pvt. Vito entered the Army last July.

He is a 1965 graduate of Newton High School.

Sen. Cohen To Address Brotherhood

Present day issues in Massachusetts, particularly those within the Legislature, will be the topic of a discussion by Beryl W. Cohen, Senator from the Norfolk-Suffolk District.

Senator Cohen, who presently serves as Chairman, Public Welfare Committee, Chairman, Engrossed Bills Committee, Vice Chairman, Public Health Committee, was recognized in 1964 as one of the Outstanding Young Men in America by the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He also received, in 1964, an award from the Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

Senator Cohen's talk will be given on Sunday morning, March 19th at the regular Brotherhood Breakfast Meeting of the Brotherhood of Temple Beth Avodah, Newton.

Reservations may be obtained by calling Dr. Stanley Rosenweig at 244-6844 or Mr. Jason Tonkonogy at 527-9028.

Junior College Seminar Starts Series Mar. 30

The Adult Education Program of Newton Junior College, in conjunction with the Newton Community Relations Commission, is offering a series of eight weekly seminars on community relations.

The series will begin on March 30, and will be held on successive Thursday's through May 18.

To be covered in the seminars are such topics as housing, police protection, minority groups, old age, and communications.

The seminars will be limited to an enrollment of 25. Each seminar will run for two hours, from 7:15 p.m. Meeting place will be Walnut Hall at Newton Junior College, 430 Walnut St., across from Newton High School.

The opening seminar of the series will be "The Human Element in Solving Community Problems." The discussion leader will be Mr. Fred Nader, assistant to the director of the Boston University Human Relations Center. For more information, interested people should call 969-9571.

NEWTON YOUTH PLEADS INNOCENT IN GIRLS' DEATH

A 20-YEAR-OLD Newton youth pleaded innocent in Hingham District Court to a charge of murder in the death of a Rockland school girl. He was ordered committed to Bridgewater State Hospital for mental tests.

Roger D. Francis was charged with murder by means of assault and battery with a revolver in the slaying of Mary Alice Pike, 15, who died Sunday at Quincy City Hospital after clinging to life for eight days. Judge Alvin Tamkin ordered Francis to Bridgewater until a probable cause hearing is held April 24. Harold J. Betzold was assigned to serve as Francis' counsel.

SNOW DUE TO LINGER ON FOR TWO MORE DAYS

GREATER BOSTON caught in a slow-moving low-lying storm off the coast, was looking forward today with grieved Springtime spirits to a couple more days of persistent snowfall. Although weathermen do not anticipate any sizable accumulation of snow for the next 48 hours or so, the cloudy, dismal days are putting a crimp into the area's preparation for Easter.

Yesterday's sneak storm dumped up to a foot of snow in many Northeast states after the harassed weather forecasters had predicted light fall ending in rain. The New York traffic commissioner was particularly annoyed by the forecast. Henry A. Barnes indignantly wished the forecasters an unhappy "White Easter."

LAYMAN NAMED HEAD OF B. C. BUSINESS SCHOOL

THE APPOINTMENT of Dr. Albert J. Kelley, the first layman to serve as dean of the College of Business Administration of Boston College, has been announced by Very Rev. Michael P. Walsh, president of the school. The appointment becomes effective June 1.

Kelley, 42, now deputy director of NASA Electronics Research Center in Cambridge, is a resident of Milton and a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. He holds a doctorate from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

SWAMPSCOTT FLIER KILLED IN VIETNAM

THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT has identified two New England servicemen killed in action in Vietnam.

They were Army Spec. 4 Barney J. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kelly of Danbury, Conn., and Air Force 1st Lt. Walter H. Forbes III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Forbes Jr., 28 Greenwood Ter., Swampscott, Mass.

R. I. ATTORNEY GENERAL DELAYS DESALVO QUIZ

A SCHEDULED MEETING between Rhode Island Atty. Gen. Herbert F. DeSimone and self-proclaimed Boston Strangler Albert H. DeSalvo has been postponed because of yesterday's storm.

DeSimone said he decided not to travel to the State Prison in Walpole to question DeSalvo about a Central Falls, R.I., assault and robbery case because of the snow. He said he will confer with attorneys for DeSalvo and the Massachusetts attorney general's office next week to set a new date for an interview.

HUGE SOVIET SPY RING IN NATO UNCOVERED

A FREE SPENDING Italian arrested in Turin, Italy, on charges of spying for the Russians yesterday gave investigators names of 300 U.S. and other NATO officers allegedly involved in the biggest Soviet espionage network ever uncovered in the West, counter-intelligence sources reported.

The sources said Giorgio Rinaldi, whose renown as a parachute ace and instructor gained him access to many Western military installations, was able only to provide "cover" names for many of the officers allegedly involved. They said "some" were identified as Americans.

ARMED TRUCE BELIEVED KEY TO THANT PEACE PLAN

SECRETARY GENERAL U Thant of the United Nations met privately with members of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee yesterday presumably to explain details of his new Vietnam peace plan. South Vietnamese officials, meanwhile, confirmed in Saigon that Thant had sent a new peace proposal to Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government and to North Vietnam, as well.

There was widespread speculation that Thant had merged the three points of his long-standing proposal, thus providing a sort of armed truce while peace negotiations started. U.S. sources last week pointed out that this was the technique followed when the Geneva accord on Vietnam was worked out.

PACIFISTS SAILING STEADILY TO NO. VIETNAM

THE KETCH PHOENIX, manned by eight American self-styled pacifists and carrying $10,000 worth of medical supplies for the Communists, was sailing steadily southward Wednesday toward North Vietnam. The Americans are making the voyage in defiance of U.S. government warnings.

There was some speculation in Hong Kong that ships of the U.S. Seventh Fleet might intercept the 50-foot ketch and force it to turn back. But U.S. sources said they doubted any such action.

FRENCH HAIL FORTHCOMING VISIT OF HUMPHREY

FRENCH GOVERNMENT circles are welcoming the forthcoming visit of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to Paris April 7-8 as an opportunity to take some of the chill out of Franco-American relations. Humphrey's visit will mark the 50th anniversary of the United States' entry into World War I.

Officials said it was virtually certain Humphrey will call on President Charles de Gaulle during his visit. Humphrey also is expected to meet Premier Georges Pompidou, Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and other top French officials.

SHAW INDICTED IN PLOT TO ASSASSINATE KENNEDY

A NEW ORLEANS grand jury returned a conspiracy indictment yesterday against Clay L. Shaw, the business Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison has accused of plotting the death of President Kennedy. The indictment assured he will probably be the first man to stand trial in the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

The indictment said Shaw, 54, conspired with the late David W. Ferrie, Lee Harvey Oswald and "others" sometime between Sept. 1 and Oct. 10, 1963.

LB TOLD AT GUAM U.S. MUST EXERT PRESSURE ON HANOI

U.S. AND SOUTH VIETNAMESE military leaders told President Johnson on Guam that the war could go on indefinitely unless military pressure breaks Hanoi's will and the enemy tires of paying a heavy price, U.S. officials said Wednesday.

This assessment was given to the President by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky. Officials were not elaborate on whether a certain result of the military evaluation would be a further increase in military pressure, but that seemed to be the likely outcome.

LYNDA JOHNSON TO ATTEND SHARON PERCY WEDDING

LYNDA BIRD JOHNSON will attend the April 1 wedding of Chicago of Sharon Percy, daughter of Illinois Republican Charles Percy, and John J. Rockefeller IV, a West Virginia legislator and nephew of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The White House said that the President's elder daughter, a friend of the couple since 1965, would attend the wedding. Lynda is currently vacationing with her mother at Neel Bay in the Virgin Islands.

Tax Rate Hike Of $4 Looms But Mayor Hopeful Of Holding Line

Present indications are that Newton's tax rate this year will rise about $4 over the 1966 figure of $72.20.

However, Mayor Monte G. Basbas is still hopeful he will be able to hold the 1967 rate below the $76 mark.

This was how the city's financial picture looked after the Board of Aldermen approved a municipal and school budget totaling $33,246,183.71.

The Aldermen cut $550,128.47 from the $33,796,312.18 budget submitted to them by Mayor Basbas.

The budget adopted by the Aldermanic Board for this year was $2,774,180 greater than that of last year.

That would be equivalent to an increase of about $8.40 on the tax rate if all other factors were the same as in 1967 since each $330,000 expended is equal to $1 on the tax rate.

However, Governor Volpe has predicted that the 3 percent limited sales tax, which will be in effect for a full 12 months in 1967, will yield $100 million more to the cities and towns this year than it did in 1966.

This prompted Alderman John P. Nixon, chairman of the Aldermanic Finance Committee, to voice the hope that Newton will receive $2.3 million more from the sales tax receipts this year than it did last year.

The exact amount the city will get will not be known until the state releases its so-called "Cherry Sheet," estimating the distribution of funds to the cities and towns.

If the increase in Newton's share of the sales tax should be as great as $2.3 million, it will go a long way toward offsetting the big budget increase.

But Mayor Basbas has other financial headaches apart from the rise in the cost of running the municipal government and the public school system.

The county assessment on Newton was under-estimated by about $250,000 last year. That sum must be made up in this year's tax levy, and another boost in county costs is expected this year.

Other assessments upon the city, including its share of the MBTA deficit, also will be greater this year than in 1966.

The total assessed valuation of taxable property in Newton will be about $1.4 million larger than last year, broadening the city's tax base to some extent. But the increase usually is about $3.5 or $4 million. New construction in the city last year was below normal.

Powell May Face New Ouster On His Return To Congress

Several Massachusetts members of Congress declare that the Adam Clayton Powell case probably will not end when the voters of Harlem elect Powell and send him back to Washington's Capitol Hill.

They assert that another motion will be made to deny Powell his seat and that there is a good chance it will prevail.

The next move to exclude Powell may be based on the constitutional ground that he is not a legal resident of New York State since he has remained away from the state for a long period in order to avoid arrest.

This would lessen the likelihood that a federal

"Cardiac Arrest" Theme Of Newton Police Panel

The Newton Police Department, familiar with the problems of arrest in criminal activities, studied a different kind of "arrest" during the In-Service Training Program on Tuesday, March 21, when a panel discussion on Cardiac Arrest was the feature.

Capt. William F. Quinn, director of the In-Service Training Program, announced that Tuesday's program was under the leadership of Safety Officer Gilbert J. Champagne, who had as his guests Dr. Hale H. Cook of the Newton Health Department, and Joseph Poges, coordinator for Health Education, Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

Dr. Hale Cook received an A.B. at Cornell, an M.D. at Harvard, studied theology at the Hartford Seminary Foundation, and returned to Harvard for a Master's Degree in Public Health.

In addition, his experience includes an internship at the New Orleans Charity Hospital, a residency at the McCook Memorial Hospital in Connecticut; he was a professor of biological science at the University of Hartford; a medical missionary in Western India; eight years in general medicine and surgery; 10 years in public health and hospital administration; also, for many years worked on design and construction of hospitals and clinic buildings.

Joseph Poges of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, received a Bachelor of Science degree at Springfield University, Master's degree in Public Health at the University of Michigan, is an instructor at the State Police Academy; instructor at the National Aquatic School, American Red Cross; instructor for the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency Medical self-help program. Mr. Poges works with all types of community organizations and police departments in the promotion of public health and first-aid.

Gilbert J. Champagne, a 25-year veteran of the Newton Police Department, and 10 years with the Newton Recreation Department, with an outstanding background in first-aid, water safety and disaster training, is also an instructor of first aid and water safety at the State Police Academy; instructor at the National Aquatic School, American Red Cross, instructor at the Civil Defense Staff College on "disaster training" techniques at Albany, N.Y.; lecturer at the American College of Physicians and Surgeons Convention, Portland, Ore., on first-aid; chairman of the Safety Services, American Red Cross, Newton chapter.

The In-Service Training Program is an annual effort by the Department, under the direction of Chief Philip Purcell, designed to keep the department abreast of the fast changing community that the police department serves.

Rate -

Business factors and the estimates are fitted together, they point to a tax rate hike of about $4.

The Mayor, however, expresses hope that he will be able to prevent the rate from rising that much.

Of the $33,346,183 budget adopted by the Board of Aldermen, $15,034,089 was for the operation of the school system, and $18,034,089 for the maintenance of the other municipal departments.

The school budget is $1,460,915 greater than last year, while the municipal budget is up $1,313,265 over 1966, largely because of pay raises granted to city employees. Salary increases also accounted for the bulk of the jump in the school budget.

Mayor Basbas trimmed $1,543,285 from the requests and recommendations of his department heads earlier this year before submitting his municipal budget to the Board of Aldermen.

The Aldermen approved the wage hikes which the Mayor had agreed to give to the police, firefighters and other groups of city employees.

A drastic cut was made by the Board of Aldermen in the appropriation for overtime pay for members of the police department. Mayor Basbas had allowed $131,500 in his budget to cover overtime work by police, but the Aldermen reduced the amount to $50,000.

Also stricken from the budget was an $81,000 item for the employment of 11 new workers at the city's incinerator. The welfare department budget was one of those sharply pared.

Meeting -

The nation's Mayors and other municipal officials will meet to explore ways in which local, State and Federal governments can develop closer collaboration in measures to control crime.

Attorney General Ramsey Clark has spent invitations to mayors of all cities in the nation with populations of 50,000 or more, asking them to take part in the conference.

Newton Youth Arraigned In Rockland Girl's Murder

A 20-year-old Newton youth was arraigned in Hingham district court yesterday on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting death of Mary Alice Pike, 15, of Rockland.

Judge Alvin Tamkin committed Roger D. Francis, of 66 Arlington st., to Bridgewater State Hospital for 35 days observation.

The youth was represented in court by Atty. Harold Betzold, of Whitman, a public defender.

Francis had been brought back from St. John, New Brunswick, where he had surrendered to an Episcopal clergyman last Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Quinn said he met Francis in the lobby and placed him under citizen's arrest. Two St. John detectives then took the youth into custody.

Hingham Police Chief Raymond Campbell and Sgt. James Doherty secured a bench warrant for Francis' arrest and went to Canada. Their first stop was in Trois Rivieres, Que., where Francis' late model Thunderbird had been found earlier. Police there said there was blood on the seat and two .22 cal. bullet holes in a door frame.

Chief Campbell and Doherty arrived back in Hingham with their prisoner shortly before midnight Tuesday. The youth was held in a cell in the police station until his arraignment.

The 15-year-old Rockland girl lost her fight for survival last Sunday at Quincy City Hospital after she had been in a coma for a week. She was found lying on the median strip of Rte. 3 in Hingham, near the Rockland line. She had been shot five times with small calibre bullets.

According to police, Francis had dinner with the Pike girl on March 4 at his home. Shortly after daylight the next morning, the girl was found by a state trooper lying just off the highway. She remained unidentified at Quincy City Hospital for several hours until police notified her mother, Mrs. Hope J. (Miller) DeRochea, who had reported her daughter missing.

In addition to her mother, the girl is survived by her father, John W. Pike, of Halloway; two brothers, John H. and Stephen M., both of Rockland, and her stepfather, Clifford W. DeRochea of Rockland.

She was buried yesterday following a solemn requiem

Crying In The Wilderness

A renewed call has been heard in the halls of Congress for a code of ethics. It has been sounded once again by Rep. Margaret Heckler and she has enlisted the aid of three other Congresswomen.

"No member of Congress can afford to ignore the growing disenchantment of our people with their national Legislature," Rep. Heckler said in a House speech.

"For how can a people place reliance on this body to deal with the hard questions of national order and the harder question of international disorder when the Congress appears reluctant or even hostile to dealing with the question of disciplining itself?" she asked.

"How can faith in Congress be developed unless we who seek it subject our activities to public scrutiny and open our records for full disclosure?"

We think those are good questions posed by the freshman Congresswoman from Wellesley. Questions that should receive answers and, unfortunately, probably will not.

No Congressman deeply entrenched in the public trough is going to withdraw voluntarily. No nepotistic Congressman is going to cut the family off the pay roll voluntarily. No Congressman on some obscure committee is going to forego "fact finding" tours of the world at public expense voluntarily.

We commend Mrs. Heckler and the three other Republican Congresswomen for sounding the clarion call but we are afraid it will merely echo and echo and echo.

We hope, Margaret, it will be more than a nice try.

Orphan Of State Education

The Massachusetts Maritime Academy has been described as "the orphan of state education." We wish we had thought of that appellation because it is so to the point. But credit must go to a Needham man, the father of a midshipman aboard the good ship Bay State.

The description of the Academy was made at a public hearing before the Legislative Committee on Education on a $6 million capital outlay bill that would provide for new facilities "shoreside" at Buzzards Bay.

The Committee on Education was told that failure to provide the needed physical facilities could result in a cut-off of about $1,350,000 in federal subsidies for the school. The $6 million program would be used for the construction of athletic facilities, a dining hall and student union, a power and sewerage plant, a library and land acquisition.

Dormitories, also described as a critical need, were not included in the capital outlay bill because they will be provided through the Massachusetts State College Building Authority.

The bill was proposed by Sen. Kevin B. Harrington and Sen. President Maurice A. Donahue, and both acknowledge that "educational facilities are so bad at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy that crisis legislation is needed."

We agree. This is, indeed, "crisis legislation" and should receive the most expeditious treatment by the Legislature. We think the Academy, one of only a few in the country, deserves to be taken out of the "orphan" class and be made an integral part of the state's educational system.

At present, the state has a contract with the federal government under which the government subsidizes both the training ship and student tuition. The federal-state contract is due for review this year.

Kenneth P. Fox, chairman of the Board of Trustees of State Colleges, warned that, "So far we have just not lived up to the terms of the contract." He said the agreement called for the state to provide shoreside dormitory, dining and classroom facilities. Present shoreside facilities consist of only a small building for classrooms with a small library.

Fox said the federal subsidy amounts to about $140,000 for the ship annually plus $600 for each student, and there are about 200 students at the school now with plans to quadruple attendance to 800 by 1975.

There is a critical shortage of maritime officers in the United States. There is such a shortage that the Academy held its graduation ceremonies three months ahead of schedule this year.

Even though the Academy fulfills a vital need and contributes much toward the high standards of the United States Merchant Marine and, indirectly, toward the national defense, it does not receive accreditation on the college level.

A. Sanford Limouze, president of the Academy, hopes to switch from the present three-year program to a four year program to qualify for accreditation. But he said it would "be ridiculous to apply for accreditation" without the physical facilities.

So, the situation has been spelled out for the Legislature. The situation is "critical" and it is vital to the state and to the federal government, not to mention to the students at the Academy.

Incidentally, the students are now off on their annual cruise on the good ship Bay State, continuing their on-the-job training on the high seas.

Let us hope the "orphans" will receive good news when they return from the cruise.

Letters

Editor of The Graphic:
 The Newton Public Schools Budget for 1967 contains a letter dated February 8, 1967 by Harold J. Herman, Chairman, to Mayor Basbas which has in it the incredible sentence, "we have felt compelled by immediate fiscal considerations to postpone many needed educational improvements." It seems that in the last twenty years we have experienced the greatest prosperity of all time, yet our approach to city government remains unchanged. How did our predecessors on the municipal scene ever manage to provide needed educational improvements with far less material resources?

May I respectfully suggest that the above quoted sentence be amended by striking out the words "immediate fiscal considerations" and substituting therefor the following: "lack of courage."

KEEP NEWTON GREEN

Editor of The Graphic:

If Newton is to continue its character as a garden city suburb it must establish some overall city plan for its tax-payers. Its present policy of allowing every sort of business developer, doughnut maker, car wash, car hops, etc., to attempt to re-zone every vacant spot of land, even in the center of single homes, will only result in a business city of incredible ugliness.

This is all done under the pretext of widening the tax base and lowering taxes.

Waltham has some of the most valuable commercial developments along Route 128 plus small apartments, large apartment complexes, markets, bowling alleys, factories, office buildings, Raytheon, and every sort of business enterprise.

This has resulted in a tax rate that has gone from $45.50 in 1957 to $77.00 per thousand in 1967—a 55% increase, the base is wider, the tax greater.

Watertown, on the other side of Newton, has changed from a small town of homes and market gardens, to a complex of apartment houses from Cambridge to Watertown, plus large apartment complexes with hundreds of units. Every sort of business from small nondescript buildings to large manufacturing plants have been built in Watertown.

The result of this re-zoning is on the Watertown tax rate is $87.20 for 1967 from $59.80 in 1957—a 45.8% increase.

These buildings have only brought bigger problems to match the higher tax rate.

Belmont, an attractive suburban town, closer to Boston and Cambridge than Newton, is a community strictly designed for homes. It has excellent schools, beautiful homes in well-planned areas, all the service Newton boasts, yet no industry or commercial developments. One small apartment house in Waverly Square and a beautiful garden apartment close to Cambridge in a well-planned area, are the only places not strictly single or two-family zones.

The tax rate here is $66.00 in 1967 from $48.00 in 1957, a 37% increase. This is the smallest increase of any of the communities. Belmont has met salary increases, built new schools, offers an excellent street department and allows no re-zoning for business use.

These figures speak for themselves. The people who profit by this unsightly destruction are the real estate operators, developers, banks, insurance agents, oil dealers and the many who profit indirectly, not the taxpayer.

It would be to the taxpayer's advantage if our city officials were to copy some of our more progressive nearby communities and create an over-all city plan that would settle this question and prevent Newton from becoming a city of concrete and brick with every small patch of green dotted with ugly money-makers.

The others are: Mrs. Hadwig Dertouzos of 96 Montvale Rd., Newton Centre, awarded a Doctor of Philosophy degree in chemistry, and Jerold P. Gilmore of 82 Fessenden St., Newtonville, awarded a Master of Science degree in aeronautics and astronautics.

Mayor Opens Series

Mayor Monte G. Basbas, center, was speaker in first "1967 Newton Government and Business Forum" membership breakfast meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held on Tuesday. In photo with Mayor Basbas are, left, Lewis B. Songer, Chamber executive vice president; and, right, Robert L. Tennant, meetings chairman. Membership breakfasts also will be held on third Tuesdays of April and May.

Political Highlights

court would overrule the national House and order Powell seated.

Most of the Bay State Congressmen with whom this writer has talked believe it would be a serious mistake to expel Powell a second time and that it would place him in the role of martyr, especially if he is overwhelmingly elected, as it is assumed he will be.

They say that Senator Thomas J. Dodd probably will be censured and allowed to hold his seat, from which the voters of Connecticut presumably will oust him in the 1970 election.

While they see no real parallel in the cases of Dodd and Powell, they predict that Powell's backers will try to create one if Powell is given the heave-ho again and Dodd is merely censured.

However, many of the Congressmen who are on record as having voted to exclude Powell, largely because of the pressure from their constituents, may be unwilling to change their positions because the people of Harlem returned Powell to the national House.

It will, of course, create a tremendous controversy if Powell is elected by a big margin and then is thrown out again by his former colleagues.

What is extremely difficult for the average person to understand is why the Internal Revenue Services has not involved itself in Dodd's shabby affairs and why the Justice Department hasn't investigated Powell's peccadilloes.

Financier William A. Lincoln and Dumaine make it plain that their group is still prepared to build a stadium and build it in a community where the people want it.

Their problem is to get somebody to listen to them.

A stipulation in their plan which has aroused opposition, particularly from the entrenched dog track interests, is that it would be necessary to stage winter dog-racing in the stadium in order to make it self-supporting.

This points up the fact that the choice is between a stadium with dog racing, a stadium subsidized with public funds to meet its losses, or no stadium at all.

Virtually all the new stadiums in other parts of the country, which have been built with public funds, operate at a loss. Their deficits are made up by a city, county or state because they are great civic assets and draw tremendous business into an area.

An amazing number of people are opposed to the construction of any new stadium in the Greater Boston area even though there is a clear need for one if Boston is not to become a minor league city from a sports standpoint.

Many of those who do recognize the need for a stadium either want it built in somebody else's community or are opposed to subsidizing such a stadium from the highway fund.

A major dilemma will be created if the court rules that the stadium deficit cannot be met from the highway fund.

There then will be only two ways in which a stadium could be built. One is by a private group such as that headed by Lincoln and Dumaine. The second is for the state to pledge its credit to meet any losses incurred by the stadium.

Many legislators from sections away from the Greater Boston area would be reluctant to pledge the state's credit behind a stadium from which their constituents would not directly benefit.

Lincoln and Dumaine stress, incidentally, that they would not try to force a stadium upon any community which does not want one.

They asserted that their plan for building a stadium in Dedham drew opposition from officials and residents in that town before they had opportunity to explain the proposition in full detail.

Both business leaders predicted that a majority of the people in Dedham would vote for the plan in a plebiscite if all its aspects were thoroughly discussed and presented.

But they added that there are other places they could build it if developed that the people of Dedham didn't want it after knowing all the facts.

A stadium built by private interest would, of course, be subject to taxation by the community in which it was located, and quite a few communities would like to get one.

Bellotti Conflict Row Settled After 5 Months

It took almost five months to do it, but a controversy which started near the close of last autumn's hard-hitting campaign for election as Attorney General has finally been resolved by the report of a three-member committee that Francis X. Bellotti was not guilty of any conflict of interest in representing an insurance company while serving as Lieutenant Governor.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson kept his word to insulate himself from the investigation by three outstanding attorneys into Bellotti's services for the insurance company in 1963 and 1964.

The ruling by the special investigating committee may well cause Bellotti to attempt a political comeback in 1970.

As Richardson pointed out, however, he hammered primarily at the theme of "moral insensitivity" in his clashes with Bellotti last fall although he did raise the question of a possible conflict of interest on Bellotti's part.

Ironically, Richardson lost votes by raising the issue at all.

Bellotti tried to turn the issue to his own political advantage and almost won the election. It was Bellotti, as much as Richardson, who made it the hot issue it became.

Aldermen Defer Action On Anti-Stadium Resolve

The Newton Board of Aldermen this week deferred action on a resolution opposing the location of a proposed $55 million stadium in Weston, adjacent to the Newton border.

The resolution was referred to the Aldermanic Legislative Committee for study and a report to the full board.

The referral was by voice vote of the Board following a meeting at which Mayor Monte G. Basbas and the press were present.

In an anti-room off the chamber, Louis I. Egelson Jr., Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large, used a number of visual-aid charts he had prepared in an effort to show the tremendous traffic flow that could be expected on Newton streets in the 60-minute periods prior to and after any major sports event at the stadium.

During these two peak hours, Egelson said, at least 2600 cars would clog streets already heavy with traffic, and that would result in extra costs to the city for police to control the jam. The traffic, he went on, could lead to the need for widening such streets as Commonwealth Ave., Washington St., Grove St. and Concord St.

Should the stadium be constructed, some 52,000 persons would require transportation, according to the Egelson charts. Of these, from 4000 to 5000 would arrive by MBTA at the Riverside station, the charts showed, from 500 to 1500 persons might come by bus, taxi or limousine, and the remainder would use private cars.

Despite the fact that the Boston & Albany has no Riverside turnaround, the railroad could handle from 500 to 1500 persons should it operate three shuttle trains from Boston, Egelson said.

The Ward 4 Alderman-at-Large expressed hope that the members of the Board would agree to act at once on his resolution, saying that to delay might weaken its effect.

First of the members to speak out was Alan S. Barkin, who said the Woodland Golf Club had already made overtures to the Turnpike Authority to consider the golf course as a possible site, and he urged that the matter be given more deliberation.

Adelaide B. Ball declared that the Weston site, in her opinion, was not a good one.

Ernest F. Dietz suggested that the Board wait until another regular meeting, and meantime, get together with the city's representatives on Beacon Hill.

The Mayor expressed no opinion on the question of action on the resolution, but did say that he was "concerned" about the Weston proposal.

Just prior to breaking up the meeting of the committee of the whole, a show of hands gave evidence that most of the members were in favor of holding the matter for consideration at some other time.

The motion to refer the matter to the Legislative Committee was made by Alderman Warren A. Sutherland.

There was one dissenting vote, perhaps made facetiously, by William M. Glovsky, chairman of the Legislative Committee.

Teen Singers In Concert Before Golden Age Club

Miss Gail Bloom, and brothers Clifford and James Orent, all of Newton, were guest performers at the recent meeting of the Golden Age Club of Temple Emanuel, Newton. Gail is a sophomore at Newton High School and sings Soprano. She is a member of the A Capella Choir and Voice Training. Accompanied on piano by Clifford.

Collections Lag For Heart Fund Due To Weather

A plea for Heart Sunday workers to return Heart Sunday collection kits was made by Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Amendola, Heart Sunday co-chairs, this week. They also asked that Newton People who have not contributed send in their gifts. Newton, usually a leader in the Greater Boston Heart Fund drive, is lagging behind in collections.

"I know that many Heart Neighbors have been delayed in their collections by storms and bad walking conditions," said Amendola. "I am hopeful that when all kits have been returned, Newton will again go over the top."

Kits may be returned to the Newton-Waltham Bank and Trust Company, 808 Beacon St., Newton Centre. Persons who were away on Heart Sunday may mail their contributions to Heart Fund, Boston, 02215.

ford, she rendered selections from "Fiddler on the Roof," "My Fair Lady," and "The Sound of Music."

Clifford is a junior at Newton High School, also a member of choir, and a student at the All-Newton Music School, Newton. He studies piano there with Mrs. Nini Perlo. He played the Chopin Etude in C sharp minor on the piano.

James Orent is a seventh grader at the Warren Junior High School, and studies violin with Stanley Benson of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He is a member of the Newton Junior High School Troubadours, a group which is scheduled to perform at the Montreal World Exposition in April.

James played the Vivaldi Concerto in A minor for violin and piano, accompanied by his brother. At the young age of 13, James is mastering the art of the violin.

Easter Service For Methodist Church Listed

Easter will be celebrated in the Newton Centre Methodist Church on Sunday, March 26, at 11 a.m. through music, prayers and sermon. Nursery care will be provided. The pastor, Rev. Seaton M. Woodley Jr. will conduct the worship and receive into church membership the Junior High School Class of Beth Henderson, Dale Bonner, Judy Taub, Silva Yaghmourian, Gail, Temperley, Jean Marie Rybe and William MacKay.

Special music will be rendered by the Combined Chancel and Junior Choirs, under the direction of William Clark, organist.

The music for Easter Sunday will include: Organ Prelude: "On Earth Has Dawned This Day of Days"; Bach; Introit: "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth"; Handel; Processional Hymn: "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today"; Three Anthems: 1) "Thine Is the Glory"; Handel; Junior Intermediate Choir. 2) "O Morn of Beauty"; Sibelius; Senior Choir. 3) "Awake! Awake! This Happy Morn"; Lang; preparation hymn "Joy Dawned Again on Easter Day"; recessional hymn: "Crown Him With Many Crowns"; organ postlude: "Nun Danket," Karg-Elert.

All members of the Church School are asked to attend the morning worship service with their parents.

GOP Women To Hold Luncheon, Bridge a 'Go-Go'

This past Winter sports season has been Newton High's most rewarding in recent years.

The most successful of the three major winter teams was the gymnastics team led by Richie Martin, the best gymnast in the history of the school, possibly the state. In the individual championships, Martin became the state champion in Floor Exercise and Parallel bars. He was voted the Massachusetts Coach's Trophy, symbol of the best gymnast in the state, because he won the All-Around championship which includes six events.

Dan Runfola was also a state champion from Newton as he won on the long horse.

In the Suburban league meet, Newton walked away with first place. Needless to say, Martin was the leading gymnast, winning all three of his events; floor exercise, parallel bars and high bar. Newton had 14 entries in this meet and 10 of them placed.

In the state team meet, Newton missed first place by one point and second place by eight-tenths of a point. Finishing ahead of them were Andover and Lexington. There were seven events and each of the seven teams had two men per event.

Besides Martin and Runfola, Newton had a host of other excellent gymnasts. Among them were Rich Prince, Ed Jones, Bob and Bill Henry, Steve Clancy, Dudley Hall, Hank Fishkind, Ed Hallow, Jim Battista, Larry Milasky, and George Gershman.

Another member of the squad, Howie Rose, was voted the annual New England Salomone Coaches Cup, symbolic of the best gymnast in strength routines.

South Little League Elects Officers Slate

Newton South Little League has elected the following officers for the coming season:

President, Marvin Oriel; vice president, Paul Pattison; secretary, John Alevizos; treasurer and equipment manager, Micky Olem; player agent, Ed Batzak; and publicity and official scorer, Al Campbell.

Applications have been sent to the nine schools of the area.

The season is scheduled to open Saturday, April 29, on Richardson Playground. Paul Pattison, fund raising chairman, will make his report that day.

Easter -

Easter, 1967.

One of the oldest of the Christian Holy Days—yet a day that's always new—a day of verdant hope—a day of glory—a day of joy—a day of rejoicing. That will be Easter, 1967, in this community.

It comes to an uneasy world. It comes to a world enjoying a degree of mundane prosperity it never knew before—it comes to a world on which the burden of poverty never weighed so heavily.

It comes to a world where man's knowledge of science has reached a zenith of which his ancestors never dreamed. It comes to a world as man wrests from the vast space beyond him the secrets of the ages. It comes to a man determined to conquer his future, even as he knows the agony and fears of war which could devastate his future.

If there is more fervor this Holy Week which precedes Easter, 1967, if there is more joy in the celebration of the great day itself, it will be because the hearts of Christians everywhere will be seeking the eternal solace that comes to Christians in the knowledge that "He has risen."

Easter comes early this year. It is one of the so-called "moveable feasts." Its date was fixed in 325 A.D. by the Council of Nicaea. The Council directed that its observation be held on the first Sunday after the full moon which occurs on or next after March 21 which is, therefore, between the dates of March 22 and April 25.

The days which immediately precede Easter Sunday in Roman Catholic and most Protestant churches are not days of joy—but days of sorrow—the saddest in their liturgies.

Palm Sunday opened Holy Week. It commemorated the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem. In some churches a procession preceded solemn services and the distribution of palms.

Good Friday, for Christian worshippers is, the saddest day of the year in most churches. In Catholic churches the altars are stripped bare. The door of the tabernacle is open. The statues of the church are shrouded in the dark purple of mourning for the crucifixion.

Maundy—or Holy Thursday—is the anniversary of the Last Supper.

Holy Saturday marks the period of waiting between the time of Christ's Crucifixion and His Resurrection.

Prayers and hymns of joy on Easter Sunday will mark the celebration of the Resurrection of Jesus, symbolizing the keystone of Christian faith and hope—the immortality of man.

Easter, incidentally, derived its name from Eastræ, the Anglo Saxon goddess of spring. Many of the customs of the Easter festival were incorporated from heathen rituals welcoming the spring season.

Back through the sweep of the centuries the egg has been a symbol of Easter. But long before the birth of Christ the ancient Egyptians and Persians had the custom of coloring and eating eggs during their spring festival as a symbol of fertility and renewed life.

The Christians paraphrased this ancient significance of the egg as a symbol of new life, and the egg became a symbol of resurrection.

The Easter sunrise service also is deeply rooted in antiquity. According to an old tradition, the sun rising on Easter morning danced in the heavens. This belief has been traced to the old heathen festival when the spectators danced in honor of the sun.

The traditional flowers of spring, particularly the beautiful lily, make the altars of Easter Sunday morning beautiful. Many of the Masses in the Catholic churches and the services in the Protestant churches are marked by their most joyous music programs of the year.

Yet, even with the great emphasis on the religious services of the church calendar, the joys of Easter are extended in most Christian homes for the entire day.

Like Christmas and Thanksgiving, it is a day of deep thanks, a day of rejoicing and great gladness.

The Easter Parade, seemingly entirely worldly, may be traced to an old belief that it was unlucky not to wear some new article of clothing or personal adornment on Easter; or it may stem from the universal feeling that the Easter tide is the time of casting off the old and beginning of the new.

In more modern times and even reaching back to ancient days the joy of the day is reflected in the garb of the worshippers.

Before the turn of the century the so-called Easter Parade came into being. If the Easter Parade was not originated in New York, it was in that city where it probably received its earliest impetus.

Outside the major houses of worship in Gotham following the services, the aristocrats and the bluebloods made certain their new spring finery was seen and appreciated. The newspapers found the display practically as newsworthy as the solemn religious services.

The parade term, somewhat what of a misnomer, came into use. Actually, the original "parades" were strolls or promenades rather than parades.

Today the Easter Parade is as synonymous with the Holy Day in the smallest American village as it is on New York's Fifth Avenue.

Hearing Today On Mental Health Area Establishment

A public hearing relative to the proposed division of the state into areas and regions for developing mental health and retardation services and facilities is being held this week by the Department of Mental Health in the State House, according to Commissioner Harry C. Solomon.

The session today (Thursday), lasting all day from 10 in the morning in Room 436, is among first-phase steps taken by the department to implement provisions of the new Mental Health bill, Dr. Solomon said.

Under the bill, the department is required to "divide the Commonwealth into areas and regions for the conduct of mental health and retardation services and to establish standards for development of comprehensive community mental health programs."

The bill also requires that from four to ten regions be established throughout the state, and that each region further be divided into areas comprising populations of 75,000 to 200,000.

The Department of Mental Health plans initially to establish six regions and 37 areas in which comprehensive mental health programs eventually would be inaugurated. Dr. Solomon indicated, however, that geographical lines are subject to annual review and change, if necessary, to serve the public interest.

The public hearing will be conducted by Commissioner Solomon in conjunction with Dr. Harold W. Demone Jr., director of the Massachusetts Mental Health Planning Project, and Dean William J. Curran, of the Boston University Law Medicine Institute.

Present also will be various members of the Department including Dr. James W. Dy-this community the brightest possible, shopkeepers in the area have stocked their stores with the latest clothing and accessories to meet all the demands of their customers—from the smallest toddler to the grandmother who forgets her arthritis for the day.

When Boston first began its Easter Parades in force, the malls of Boston Common, the Public Garden and Commonwealth Avenue—particularly if the weather smiled—proved favorite gathering places for many paraders. It was there that the attention of the news photographers first centered.

In recent years many of the paraders found themselves getting just as much attention outside their own churches in their home residential districts.

Easter is one of the top home-coming days of the year. It's a red letter day for the gathering of families—a day when sons and daughters are home from colleges—a day when the culinary art becomes a paramount concern on a par with Christmas and Thanksgiving.

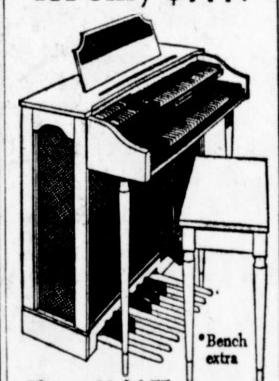

Ethnic backgrounds may dictate many traditional menus. It might be lamb for some—ham for others—and even the proud American turkey, once a piece-de-resistance only on Thanksgiving, is finding more and more acceptance.

Again the markets are geared to meet the demands no matter how heavy they become.

Easter, 1967, like the many Easters before it, will be a day of great joy for Christians everywhere.

And through the day their hearts will know the happiness of that first Easter—"He Hath Risen."

No kidding. Today you can buy a real Baldwin organ for only $777.*

Fun for the whole family. Come in and hear it.

This Girl Knows Her Own Mind

LONDON (UPI) — An ingenious and persistent suitor is Thomas Ballard, 28. At the request of the object of his ardor, Gillian Arrowsmith, a court enjoined Ballard from telephoning her. It later, again at the girl's request, enjoined him from calling upon her at home or at the job.

When once more the girl asked for legal relief from Ballard's attentions, he was enjoined from talking to her in the street. Yet again court help was asked and given—this time enjoining Ballard, at risk of jail, from parking his car outside or near Gillian's home or in any of the eight parking spaces near her place of employment.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD R. MacKAY

West Newton Church Scene Of MacKay - Devine Bridal

At a recent 11 o'clock ceremony in St. Bernard's Church, West Newton, Miss Carolyn Anne Devine and Clifford Roy MacKay exchanged vows.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Devine of 28 Fairway drive, West Newton, and Mr. and Mrs. Winford R. MacKay of 88 Harvard street, Newtonville, are the couple's parents.

The Rev. George Frahar was celebrant of the nuptial mass. He was assisted by the Rev. Robert Harding of the Central Congregational Church, Newtonville. A reception was held at Hotel 128 in Dedham.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a street-length dress of white lace made with long bell-sleeves and an A-line skirt.

A matching lace pill box cap was fastened with her short veil. She carried a cascade of stephanotis with a single orchid.

Mrs. Rosemary Scales of Arlington, Va., was her sister's matron of honor while Miss Jacqueline Gentile of West Newton was bridesmaid.

Young Bonnie MacKay of Newtonville was flower girl at her big brother's wedding. Jeffrey P. Heath of Newtonville served as best man. The ushers were Philip Wrye of Concord and Wally Lucas of Newtonville.

After a trip to Hartford, Ct., the couple left for the West Coast, where they will live in Sacramento.

The bride is a graduate of Newton High School. She attended both Cardinal Cushing College and Fisher Junior College.

A graduate of Newton High School, Mr. MacKay is now serving with the Air Force, stationed at McClellan Air Force, Sacramento.

Newton Centre Gallery To Show Work Of Two Artists

Two in one show of the works of Birgitta Ljungberg-Cosmatos and Constantine Arvanites will open March 27, through April 8th, at the Gallery of World Art, 745 Beacon street, Newton Centre.

This exhibition introduces the relief sculptured paintings of Mrs. Cosmatos, in which she sees the world around her in an intensely individual way and has the power to define its plastic statement. She commands all the freshness of youth with a searching humanistic philosophy.

Birgitta studied in Sweden, her native country, under Per Jonson, as well as in London. She is now living in Greece with her famous husband, Mrs. Cosmatos, has had several one-man shows in Europe, and is in many private collections in the Middle East, Europe and the U.S.A.

The European critics have praised her work very warmly; Sven Rabe of the Dagens Nyheter, Stockholm, said, "Influenced by Ingmar Bergman's early films and Japanese Nō theatre. The effect is stunning." Maria Norman of the Athens Daily Post said, "Merits consideration of collectors especially . . . it is the most commendable show in town." David G. Asherman of the American Almanac, Athens, Greece, said, "A technically superb artist . . . a highly specialized technique."

Constantine Arvanites extraordinarily individual images in consistent throughout his work, an image that combines power, beauty and movement. These qualities are always found in his paintings.

His works have been exhibited nationally in group shows and have received recognition and awards, among which are three Boit prizes in 1962 for Technical Painting, Design and Drawings; Rockport first prize in 1962, honorable mention in 1963.

Mr. Arvanites is a graduate of the Museum of Fine Arts with honors, and gained his B.S. degree and a Masters of Fine Arts at Tufts University.

Mr. Arvanites is presently an instructor at Division of Education at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and at the De Cordoba Museum in Lincoln. He has exhibited at the Fitchburg Museum, Fitchburg, Mass., I.F.A. Gallery in Washington, D.C., Gallery 7 Boston, Mass., and the Gallery of World Art in Newton Centre, Mass. Mr. Arvanites paintings are in many private collections and the Fitchburg Museum.

Chestnut Hill Seeks New Charter For Rotary Club

Plans for the organization of a Rotary Club in Chestnut Hill are underway by a group of 32 local business and professional men, it was announced today by Dr. Irving J. Koffman, president-elect.

Meeting with Artemas Richardson they agreed to apply for a charter in Rotary International, world-wide association of 12,375 Rotary Clubs with 592,500 members in 132 countries.

Others present at the meeting were District Governor Allen Sawyer, Irving Geller, president of the Brookline Rotary Club, and Walter Phillips, president of the Newton Rotary Club.

The new club is being sponsored jointly by the Rotary Clubs of Brookline and Newton, whose members are bringing Rotary to this Chestnut Hill community through their friendship with local business and professional men. Rotary International employs no field men to organize Rotary Clubs. All new clubs are sponsored by Rotary Clubs of nearby communities.

Since Rotarians are welcome at meetings of all Rotary Clubs throughout the world, it is expected that the new "Rotary Club of Chestnut Hill" will often have visiting Rotarians at its meetings. There are Rotary Clubs in many other neighboring cities such as Boston, Brookline, Newton, Waltham, etc.

Rotary was defined by "Art" Richardson, special Rotary representative, as "a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the Rotary ideal of service, which is thoughtfulness of and helpfulness to others."

"Members of Rotary Clubs," he continued, "put their motto, 'Service Above Self,' to work in all of their daily business, social, and civic contacts by placing the obligation to serve others before the desire for profit for themselves. By selecting its membership from each recognized business and profession in the community, a Rotary Club becomes a cross-section of the business and professional life of a community."

The new Rotary Club of Chestnut Hill will be the same objectives as all other weekend activities.

Rotary Clubs throughout the world—to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as a opportunity to serve society;

The application of the idea of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life;

The advancement of international understanding, goodwill and peace through world fellowship of business and professional men unite in the ideal of service.

The Rotary Club of Chestnut Hill will hold its regular weekly meetings at Tallino Restaurant at 12:15 on Fridays. When it has been formally admitted to membership in Rotary International, its charter will be presented by District Governor Allen Sawyer at a special meeting attended by Rotarians from many of the Rotary Clubs in this area.

'Communication' Of Church To People "Y" Event Theme

Churches are learning new things. We can only be what we really are and we must invest our time in listening as much as in speaking to learn the needs of people and help them," Mr. Whitehouse said.

Ernest E. Seyfarth, a member of the Christian Emphasis Committee of the Newton YMCA presided and introduced the speaker, Rev. William G. Berndt, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

The speaker's subject was "The Church's Communication." Mr. Whitehouse is the director of the Department of Communications of the Massachusetts Council of Churches.

"Of course our church 'communicates today,'" Mr. Whitehouse said. "The point is — what does it communicate? Is it alive or dead? Does it vibrate? Does it speak to today's issues or does it avoid them?"

"What an institution does and what it says can be different things. We can only be what we really are and we must invest our time in listening as much as in speaking to learn the needs of people and help them," Mr. Whitehouse said.

ATTENDING "Y" LUNCHEON—Among those who attended the recent 16th Annual Lenten Luncheon of the Newton YMCA were, left to right, Rev. John M. Balcom, rector, St. Paul's Episcopal church; Duane C. White, of Waban; Stafford Davis, West Newton; Donald P. Fraill, Newton Savings Bank, and Rev. Harold A. Malmborg, pastor, First Baptist Church. Serving the group is Mrs. John Coleman, president of the YMCA Women's Auxiliary.

Old Newton Slides Acquired By Friends Of Jackson Homestead

An irreplaceable collection of slides made from photographs of old Newton has recently been acquired by the Friends of the Jackson Homestead.

The preservation of this outstanding collection was begun by an informal group called the Auburndale Historical Committee.

Among the members of this group who were active in bringing the picture together, reproducing and cataloging them, were Miss Ann Bunker, Mrs. Maurice Hutchins and Mr. James K. Ufford.

Simpson Ufford, author of the old - time favorite hymn, "Throw Out the Lifeline."

His grandson did not follow in his illustrious footsteps, however, as he was "bitten by the camera bug" early in life. As an elementary student at the Williams School in Auburndale, he borrowed a camera and began his life's work. After graduating from Newton High School during the depression, he found work scarce so went to New York, where he found employment with a professional photographer for whom he worked about two years.

Returning to Newton, he submitted samples of his work to Harvard and was accepted, and he has been associated there for more than 30 years.

In addition to this collection, the Friends of the Jackson Homestead have many other slides of early Newton and of the Homestead available to groups. Members of the Board of Directors of the Friends, and Mrs. E. Graham Bates, chairman of their Speakers Bureau, will show them to groups on request. For further information call Mrs. Cannard at Jackson Homestead, 332-3920.

Thomas F. Weiskel, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Frank M. Weiskel, 70 Sumner St., Newton Centre, is one of nine Amherst College seniors named to receive Woodrow Wilson Fellowships for 1967-68. He is a Newton High School graduate.

Wheaton College Glee Club At Local Church On Easter

Mignon Bollman Mackenzie, professor of music, directs the Wheaton College Women's Glee Club in a concert of sacred music at the United Presbyterian Church, Park and Vernon Sts., Newton, on Easter Day at 7 p.m.

A former radio and concert lyric soprano, Mrs. Mackenzie earned her music degrees from Northwestern University School of Music and the American Conservatory of Music.

She is a former soloist for the Chicago Bach Singers and holds membership in the National Association of Teachers of Singing, the Hymn Society of America, Mu Phi Epsilon, and Pi Kappa Lambda.

Mrs. Mackenzie directs the Glee Club in its winter and spring tours, Chicago area concerts, and on-campus events including the spring home concert. During the past 30 years, she has traveled with her all-girl choirs during the first semester.

to all the states and into Canada.

Members of the Women's Glee Club represent various fields of study in the college including students from the college's Conservatory of Music. All members are selected by audition.

Joseph D. Jacobs, 66 Bryon Rd., Chestnut Hill; Thomas L. Rando, 100 Warwick Rd., West Newton, and Robert A. Borek, 34 Adella Ave., West Newton, were named to the Dean's List at Wentworth Institute, Boston, for outstanding scholastic achievement during the first semester.

B'nai B'rith Donor Dinner Says 'Thank You' To Women

Mrs. Julius Wilensky, of Newton, chairman of the 22nd annual Greater Boston B'nai B'rith Donor dinner has announced that the guest speaker will be Mrs. Seymour Blum, president of B'nai B'rith Women's District No. 1. The dinner will take place on March 28 and 29 in the Grand Ballroom of the Statler Hilton Hotel, with more than 2,000 women in attendance.

A feature of the event, the "Avenue of Shops" will open at 5:30 p.m.

The dinner will include: Mrs. Ada Gordon's original aprons; Holiday Sales, boutiques; Charm House, china and antiques; Sandy's Jewel Box, costume jewelry; Handbag Center, all kinds of handbags; Town Flowers, fresh and artificial arrangements, and R. & J. Candies, local candy. Entertainment will feature a special "Fashion Flight Into the Future" by Bonwit Teller.

The donor dinner is B'nai B'rith's way of saying "Thank You" to the more than 2,000 women who have raised their share of funds which support the numerous philanthropies, agencies and services sponsored by B'nai B'rith.

Assisting Mrs. Wilensky in this event are the following officers and chairmen from the various 26 chapters of Greater Boston: Mrs. Sydney Engler, Mrs. Michael Golub, Mrs. Harry Greenstein, Mrs. Daniel Kagan, Mrs. Eliot Segal, Mrs. Saul Bardfield, Mrs. Boris Bernstein, Mrs. Abraham Baker, Mrs. Phineas Gordon, Mrs. Jerome Green Glass, Mrs. Alvan Block, Mrs. Joseph Brustein, Mrs. Teddie Levine, Mrs. El-

The convention, for all women in the more than 400 parishes in the Boston Archdiocese, offers an opportunity for each woman to become deeply committed to the pursuit of personal holiness and to the Apostolic activity of her choice.

The Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, organized by His Eminence, Cardinal Cushing in 1933 is a federation of Catholic women's organizations in the Archdiocese of Boston.

The Archdiocesan Council is a unit of the National Council of Catholic Women, and through the National Council of Catholic Women, is a member of the World Union of Catholic Women's Organizations, thus enabling the women of the Boston Archdiocese to unite their efforts for Christ with the efforts of Catholic Women all over the world.

Mrs. Weiss To Preside Tuesday At Aid Meeting

Mrs. Henry E. Weiss, of Newton, president of the Jewish Vocational Aid Society, will preside at that organization's Spring meeting to be held on Tuesday, March 28, at the Longwood Towers, 20 Chapel St., Brookline.

"Fun With Flowers," a special program of floral arrangements, will be presented by Mrs. Benjamin Somers, who is a past president of the Temple Israel Garden Club and the recipient of numerous awards for her arrangements.

Mrs. Frank Breznick, also of Newton, will deliver the opening prayer. A dessert coffee hour will precede the meeting at 12:30 o'clock.

To Climax Term As State Regent Of DAR March 24

Mrs. Leslie W. Irwin, Newton, will climax her three-year term as State Regent of the Massachusetts Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, with a meeting to be held on Mar. 24 in the Heritage Suite, Hotel Lenox, beginning with a members' luncheon at noon.

A special feature of the afternoon will be the program "Musical Memories" by Nelson T. Ash who will recreate the haunting melodies of Stephen Foster, Ethelbert Nevin, Victor Herbert, and MacDowell. Mr. Ash is known throughout the Greater Boston area as a church organist and lodge organist.

Following the business meeting with reports by the various officers and chairmen, there will be election of new officers for the coming three years.

Special Music On Good Friday

A special service of sacred music will be given on Good Friday evening at 8 P.M. at Grace Church, Newton. The choir of forty-one voices, directed by Bradford Wright, will present the cantata "The Last Supper" by Eric Thiman.

Soloists in the choir are Lynn Chang, Therese Cicalon, Janet Jarnis, Charles Miller, Arthur Pike and Oliver Little.

In addition to the cantata the choir will sing "Evening Hymn," by the local composer Nancy Plummer Faxon.

The service will begin with evening prayer.

Eileen S. Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Cohen, 51 Daniel St., Newton Centre, a Smith College senior, has been elected to Sigma XI, the national honorary science society, in which membership is awarded on a basis of aptitude for, and interest in, science.

Local Druggists Assist In State-Wide Campaign

This week, March 20-25, has been designated by Governor John A. Volpe as Poison Prevention Week in the Bay State.

Newton druggists, together with pharmacists throughout the state, are cooperating in the campaign to alert all citizens to the rapidly increasing incidence of accidental poisonings.

The program in Newton and state-wide, sponsored by the Mass. State Pharmaceutical Association, and supported by the Boston Poison Information and Control Center, is held in conjunction with the National Poison Week proclaimed by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Pharmacists will distribute, free of charge, to their patrons, poison prevention folders, poison treatment cards, and a one-ounce bottle of syrup of Ipecac, a tested and safe liquid that produces vomiting and empties the stomach within 15 minutes.

William P. Shaffer, president of the Mass. State Pharmaceutical Association, said 500 Bay State pharmacists are participating in the state-wide effort and are investing upwards of $25,000 to support the program.

Melissa, a lyric soprano from Newton High School, sang Jesu Bambino by Pietro Yon and Cantique pour Noel by Adam. She was accompanied on the piano by Cliff, a Tenor also from Newton High School. Cliff also played the Chopin Etude in C sharp minor from Opus 25, No. 9.

Both students are members of the A Capella Choir at the school with Miss Geraldine Seaver, choral director. Melissa and Cliff are also members of the Newton High School Madrigal Singers, a small group which performs in Newton's elementary schools during the year, and at local functions. Melissa studies voice at the All-Newton Music School, the same institution where Cliff studies piano.

The evening's arrangements in Nashua were made by Mrs. Farley, assisted by Mrs. Hazel Painter, Mrs. Sowers, Mrs. Zeloski, Mrs. Post and Mrs. Lee.

Nursery School Information Is Made Available

A brochure with up-to-date information on twenty-four nursery schools in the Newton and nearby areas is now available at the Newton Community Council office, 950 Watertown Street, West Newton. The following kinds of information is given to help guide parents and others in planning for pre-school children this fall: name, address and telephone of the nursery school, name of director, hours, ages, provision for lunch, snack and transportation, number of children enrolled, and the fee. Both private and non-profit nursery schools are listed.

Diet Workshop Open House For Men March 30th

Edwin Hamada, Newton attorney, hopes to attract executives and scientists to an Open House for men only on Mar. 30 at the Diet Workshop, Inc., 317 Washington St., Newton Corner.

He will be the men's coordinator for the organization which, in the past 18 months, has helped Greater Boston folks shed 400,000 excess pounds.

Pharmacists will distribute, free of charge, to their patrons, poison prevention folders, poison treatment cards, and a one-ounce bottle of syrup of Ipecac, a tested and safe liquid that produces vomiting and empties the stomach within 15 minutes.

Medical experts have long observed that being stout in a skinny society is an agony. The Diet Workshop has solved the problem for thousands of people. Their secret is to encourage participants to eat sensibly. They provide recipes and an eating program which runs the gamut from pizzas to frappes Diet Workshop style.

They will hear a talk by Professor Kenneth Hudson of Great Britain, and will be taken on a guided bus tour of historic landmarks in Lawrence. The Merrimack Valley Textile Museum of North Andover has charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Lead Position In Holyoke Parade For Newton Police

The Newton Police Department Drill Team, for the second year shared with the Holyoke Police the lead position in the second largest St. Patrick's Day Parade in the United States, held in Holyoke. (Boston's Parade is partially in honor of Evacuation of the British).

Another Newton group, the Boston College marching band also participated, and won honors for the outstanding musical unit.

The Police Drill Team is a volunteer unit formed by Capt. William F. Quinn in 1965

Youth Group To Observe Purim At Sunday Rite

The teenage Youth Group of Congregation Beth El-Atereth Israel of Newton will observe the traditional Purim practice of sending gifts — Shalach Manos.

Cakes and cookies prepared by the members themselves will be given to patients at the Boston State Hospital on Purim Day, this Sunday. Rabbi Abraham Kooly and youth advisors, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Antelman, will accompany the group.

Those participating include Sheila Silver, president; Samuel Weiner, vice-president; Rochelle Feldstein, vice-president; Anita Hartstone, corresponding secretary; Eileen Kesselman, recording secretary; Joel Cheifitz, treasurer; Elaine Alpert, Rachel Cheifitz, Richard Cohen, Robert Cohen, Michelle Feldstein, Eugene Fritz, Ann Geller, Beverly Gerson, Rinah Gindberg, Linda Goodman, Nathan Goodman, Reuben Koolek, Burton Leeds, Kerry Mindick, Paul Platten, Susan Ross, Hadassah Shonfeld, Sandra Silver, Sandra Tannenbaum, Paul Wallins, Marion Wallins and Elizabeth Weiner.

Baking consultants were Mrs. Herbert Gerber and Mrs. Zaanon Silver. Plans are being made for a dance to be held on Saturday evening, April 8, to which all teenagers are invited.

Medical experts have long observed that being stout in a skinny society is an agony.

The Diet Workshop has solved the problem for thousands of people. Their secret is to encourage participants to eat sensibly. They provide recipes and an eating program which runs the gamut from pizzas to frappes Diet Workshop style.

Veteran -

Mayor Basbas took the opportunity to express his admiration for the young men of Newton, many of whom have been decorated by both the American and Vietnamese governments for outstanding military service.

The Mayor noted, however, that Newton's young servicemen, although finding themselves in war, have gone out of their way to create opportunities to be of service to both their allied comrades-in-arms and the Vietnamese people.

The Mayor said that many are putting in long hours of their own time to aid in charity work and rehabilitation of civilians fleeing Communist terror.

Perry commended the parents of the Newton young men who have so impressed upon their sons the importance of serving humanity.

Accompanying Pfc. Lick in his tour of City Hall was Guido Cetrone, 41 West St., Newton, of the American Legion Post No. 440, and Henry G. Brown, Jr., 17 Thaxter rd., Newtonville, a Newton junior college classmate of Pfc. Lick.

The Vietnam veteran is a graduate of Our Lady Help of Christians high school, Newton, and was attending Newton junior college when he volunteered for service in the Army.

Low-Income Housing Status To Be Checked By Aldermen

Wendell R. Bauckman, president of the Board of Aldermen, last Monday announced he had appointed a committee to determine if Newton has a shortage of low-income housing and, if so, to recommend a course of action.

He named the following eight aldermen: Edward C. Uehlein, chairman; Paul B. Burke, Adelaide B. Ball, Louis I. Egelson, Jr., William E. Hopkins, George L. Hicks, Ernest F. Dietz and Alan S. Barkin.

On a vote of 16 to 2, the Board confirmed the reappointment of Police Capt. William F. Quinn, 904 Washington St., Auburndale, as director of Animal Control until April 1, 1968.

Other action by the Board Monday night included:

Three projects done under the Betterment Law were approved. The work on Anthony Rd., Newtonville, was done at a cost of $20,331.95. That on Anthony Cir., Newtonville, cost $14,206.72. Work on Renee Terr., Newton Centre, was done at a cost of $12,027.24.

Also approved was an appropriation of $3100 for a manhole at Oak Hill St., New-

Sacred Heart Girls Lose Out In Final Game

Sacred Heart Girls lost out in their bid for the Class C title in the Catholic High School Girls basketball tournament last week, when Immaculate Conception of Revere dashed their hopes with a 52-44 lacing. The game was played in Dorn Gym, East Boston.

High scorer for the Newton Centre lasses was Kathy Delaney, daughter of Peg Delaney, Sacred Heart Coach. The 22 points she tallied brought her season's total to 374. In four years, she has scored 1162 points.

Sacred Heart ended the season with a 15-6 record.

Promoted To AF Captain

The husband of a former Newton resident has been promoted to the rank of captain in the U.S. Air Force. Billy L. Van Horn, married to the former Sheila O'Loughlin, daughter of Mrs. John H. O'Loughlin of 286 Derby St., West Newton, is stationed at Charleston Air Force Station, Maine. He is a ground electronics officer.

"INTERNATIONAL DAY" IS MARKED—A recent meeting of the Temple Mishkan Tefila Sisterhood set the theme as "International Day" with four unusual women forming a panel describing their home life, education and the Jewish community in their respective countries. Photo shows, left to right, Mrs. William Nathanson, hostess for the day; Miss Jalla Lawee, of Iraq; Mrs. Howard Richard, moderator and program chairman; Mrs. Reuben Brown, of India; and Mrs. Marvin Cypher, of Egypt. Dr. Dorothy Rubenstein, of Australia, was not present when photo was taken.

"Mom" Fight Prompts Fires By Schoolboy

Juvenile court charges were pending today against a 14-year-old Newton boy who admitted setting three fires in Meadowbrook Junior High School because he was angry with his mother.

The fires were set last Friday before 7:45 a.m. in three lockers. Two were on the first floor and the other on the second floor of the five-year-old school.

Newton Police Capt. William F. Quinn said the boy reported one fire to school personnel and then started another.

Clothing and books were damaged and destroyed but the fires did not prevent classes from being held as normal.

The boy was turned over to his parents pending arraignment in the juvenile session of Newton district court. The police complaint charges the youth tried to burn down the building.

Capt. Quinn said the boy is not involved in the three fires set in Newton high school last month. Investigation of those fires is continuing with a $200 reward by Mayor Monte G. Basbas still open for information leading to the arrest of the person responsible.

Capt. Quinn said the boy had a "fight" with his mother before he left for school and claimed that was his reason for starting the fires.

Art Show Now In Final Day

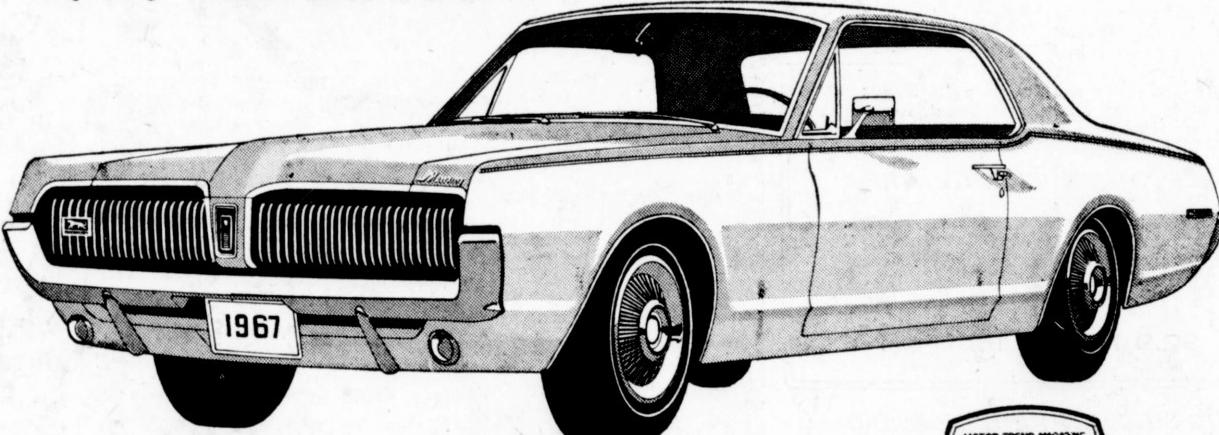

A day and a half remain for the public to view the traveling art show in the parish hall of the First Unitarian Society in Newton, 1326 Washington street, West Newton.

Mrs. Erwin Salzer, chairman of the sponsoring Adult Programs Committee, said that the art works will be on display Friday afternoon, from two to four o'clock, and Saturday until noon.

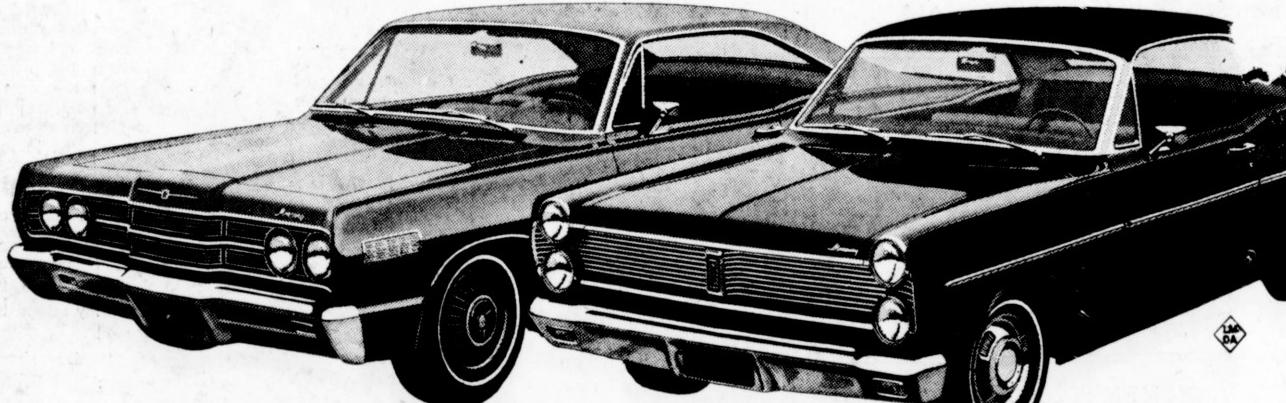

Six prominent Massachusetts artists are exhibiting their works through the cooperation of the Massachusetts Bay District of Unitarian Universalist Churches.

Registration Dates For Kindergarten Announced

Parents of children who will be five years old by next Dec. 31 of this year should register their children for kindergarten during April and May. School officials request parents to bring the children's birth certificates, small pox vaccination certificates and immunization records.

Parents of children who will be five during January, February and March of 1968 and who desire that their children start kindergarten next September may request applications for a test to be given in August to determine whether the children are ready for kindergarten next September. The application forms are available at the schools.

The registration dates for kindergarten for next September in the different Newton elementary schools are as follows:

DR. WILLIAM KAHL

Dr. Kahl To Be Speaker Mar. 27 At Club Meeting

Mrs. William Hadley has arranged to have Dr. William Kahl of Waban, first Provost of Simmons College, speak at the second meeting of the Newton Simmons Club on Monday, March 27 at eight o'clock at the home of Mrs. Marvin Grossman (Joanne Freeman, class of '54).

Dr. Kahl joined the Simmons faculty as a history instructor in 1948 and became a full professor in 1962. He was appointed Provost in 1965. He is a graduate of Brown University and received both his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard. His talk for the evening is, "Future Directions in the Higher Education of Women."

The chairman of hospitality, Mrs. Albert Sudhalter, and her committee will be in charge of refreshments following Dr. Kahl's address.

Mrs. Melvin Friedman, president of Newton Simmons Club, invites all Newton Simmons alumni to attend this meeting. For further information, please call, Mrs. Norman Goldstein (Sheila Porter, class of '57) at 332-1467 or Mrs. William (Beverly) Hadley '53 at 244-7084.

Jurors Drawn

The names of three residents were drawn for duty as traverse jurors at Monday night's meeting of the Board of Aldermen. The following are to report on Monday, April 3, to Superior Court in Cambridge: Lawrence J. Fontanner, 480 California St., Newton; Merle E. Moody, 366 Waltham St., West Newton, and George E. Bryson, 67 Waban Pk., Newton.

Deborah J. Glaser of Newton and Marsha A. Hurst of Newton Centre, seniors in Embroke College, Providence, R.I., have been elected to receive Woodrow Wilson national fellowships for first-year graduate study during 1967-68.

Waban Church Sets 3 Services Easter Sunday

The Parish of the Good Shepherd in Waban will have three services on Easter Sunday.

There will be a simple celebration of Holy Communion at 7 a.m., followed by two Festival Communion services with full choirs and trumpets at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m.

A brass quartet will play on the church steps 15 minutes before the 9 and 11 o'clock services.

Baby and pre-school care will be provided in the Parish House during those two services. All other children are invited to attend the services. However, grades one and two will leave the church during the sermon hymn and go to the crypt, where they will have a special program. After the 9 o'clock service there will be a distribution of Easter plants to all Church School children.

During the week following Easter, the Rector, the Rev. William E. Foley, will hold services at the home or hospital bedside for those who are ill or unable to come to church. Persons wishing this service are asked to call the parish office, 244-4028, and suggest a time that is convenient.

Movie Program Features Sea Scout Meeting

Master Sergeant Augustin J. Des Roches of the 9265 Information Flight located in L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, showed movies and explained them to Sea Scout Ship 13 on Friday, March 10 from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

The movies were on "First On Target," a movie on the Tactical Air Command, "Deep Sea Survival," and "Supersonic Thunderbirds."

He was assisted by his son, Bobby, who is an Explorer in Hyde Park.

The Explorers are holding a prolonged paper drive ending July 1. Papers are collected every Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Those who have papers in any form and wish to have them picked up, please call Skipper Erwin Beal Jr., 527-0367 at 919 Watertown St., West Newton, or John Donegan, 527-6132, at 803 Watertown St., West Newton after 6 p.m.

The Scouts meet every Friday night from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. at their landing site, located at 958 Watertown St., West Newton. Registration is open to boys 14 to 18. The public is cordially invited to attend any meeting. Further information may be obtained from Skipper Erwin Beal Jr.

Lapland Is Hit By Threat Of Reindeer Loss

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—The colorful Laplanders of Sweden are threatened by a catastrophe—the reindeer herds on which so much of their livelihood depends, are threatened by starvation.

The government has launched an emergency plan and will spend more than $600,000 in an effort to save as many as possible of the 130,000 animals in Lapp areas.

But the experts are pessimistic. They say many reindeer have already died and the herds are spread over such vast areas it may not be possible, even using all resources, to rescue many of them.

About 250 men will trace the animals and try to supply them with supplementary food.

The trouble started in December. Heavy snowfalls followed by rain covered the ground with a solid crust of ice that sealed the pastures from the reindeer.

Interested parties should apply at once to the Professional Office of the Massachusetts State Employment Service at 750 Park Square Building, Boston, or to their local State Employment Office.

Loss of large numbers of reindeer might force some Lapps to abandon their traditional life of following the herds from summer to winter pastures. Only a few of the 35,000 Lapps in Sweden make a living from selling souvenirs to tourists who come to their northern lands to see the midnight sun.

advantage throughout the contest.

The Robart goal came on a three-on-two break. Sheehan skated the puck into the corner and then passed it to Robart who was standing right in front. Robart completed the play by flicking the puck past the enemy netminder.

The Hawks missed a real good chance when Holland broke in alone on the Lincoln-Sudbury goalie. He completely faked the goalie out of position. Then, with the yawning mouth of the open net, eagerly asking for the puck, he hit the post.

There were two penalties called against the Hawks. Brad Graham was tagged with a major for slashing the goalie. The whistle had blown, but he didn't hear it. He saw the puck rolling loose in the crease, and in an effort to put it in he slashed the goalie.

Nelson was also sent to the "sin bin" on a freakish type of play. He was holding the puck against the boards with a rival player when the Lincoln-Sudbury man backed off. The referee gave him a one minute penance for delaying the game.

Boys Club In Pony Division Title Sweep

Boys Club banged its way into the Newton Pony Division championship series Monday night in the second of two straight games, defeating the Police AA 45 to 45 in Warren Junior High gym.

In the first contest last Friday, the clubbers overcame the same team 50 to 49.

Each game was a squeaker. Monday night, Bob McLaughlin had 20 points to be proud of, and nine of them in the fourth quarter could be termed crucial.

Hospital Fund Gets $10,000 Ball Receipts

Mrs. Howard E. Hansen, chairman of the 7th annual Valentine Ball, announced that there was a net profit of $10,000, which the Junior Aid Association of Newton-Wellesley Hospital has donated to the hospital's Building Fund. Mrs. Carl L. Recco, of Newton, is president of the Junior Aid Association.

The Ball, held on Feb. 10 at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, was a delightful evening enhanced by the decor designed by Edwin Porter of Designs Unlimited and music of Ruby Newman's orchestra.

The Ernest Ruegg family of Wellesley Hills again donated the grand prize of the evening, a trip to Antigua, and it was won by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Merrill of Wellesley. The champagne door prizes, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Ruegg and Curtain Bluff in Antigua, were won by Mr. and Mrs. Pugliese, Newton; Mr. and Mrs. James St. Clair, Wellesley Hills; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Griffin, Newton; and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Kerr, Wellesley.

Aid Program Decision Day Set April 15

An April 15 deadline has been set for a decision from the Newton Board of Aldermen whether the city will participate in a five-community program providing added services to the elderly.

The regional program, called WMBROC (Western Metropolitan Regional Opportunity Council) is financed mainly by the federal government. The program is regionalized because of the excessive costs if each city or town had their own office, with paid directors and personnel.

The APSA fellowships are given to only 18 people in the country and each fellow receives a minimum of $6000 for the year plus travel expenses.

The program, sponsored by the association since 1953, is designed to give outstanding young scholars and political journalists practical knowledge of the national legislative process. It is financed by a Ford Foundation grant.

"This is a great honor," Lobel said when informed of the distinction. "I would imagine that we'll be working as trouble shooters for Congressmen and well be doing anything from drafting difficult bills to acting as residence experts."

In addition to the previous mentioned honors, Lobel was on the BU Law Review; in "Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities"; Scarlet Key, an all university honor society; and Delta, a liberal arts honor society.

He was president of his sophomore, senior and permanent (alumni) classes and worked in the office of Attorney General Edward Brooke, now U.S. Senator. He is scheduled to begin working in Washington in November and continue until August, 1968.

Robert H. Shuler of 73 Puritan Rd., Waban, Neil L. Baker of 286 Dedham St., Newton Centre, and Alan N. Rice of 141 Blake St., Newtonville, have earned Dean's List honors for outstanding classroom work at the University of Vermont.

It was noted that Council president Wallace Fletcher would be at the next Finance Committee hearings to explain the program.

The WMBROC would be a regional headquarters where persons seeking any of the numerous city, state and federal aids, could go for information without running into too much red tape.

At the initial Finance Committee vote, Chairman John Nixon said Newton doesn't care too much for regional aspect of the program, and that the city can work out its own problems.

Last Saturday at the budget hearings, Nixon said the rising costs of running a city with adequate services for all is getting prohibitive and that Federal programming seemed like the only answer.

At Monday night's meeting, Alderman James Shea quizzed the acting chairman of the Finance Committee, Winslow Auryansen, what action, if any, had been taken on the petition.

Auryansen said that since the last Finance Committee meeting, no action had been taken on the matter. Alderman Adelaide Ball said the Committee should have more information about the program before it is voted on again.

Chestnut Hill CC Has New Golf Pro

Paul M. Goldman, president of Chestnut Hill Country Club, announces the engagement of Don Winkelmans as head golf professional for the coming season.

Don, who is a graduate of Gannon College, Erie, Pa., and Fordham University, has been the head golf professional at the East Aurora Country Club, East Aurora, New York, for the past seven years and has been an assistant pro at several well known golf clubs, including Winchester Country Club.

Winkelmans has had several years of instructing with the Kent School of Golf, and while at East Aurora, the junior golf programs he conducted were reputed to be the world's largest. He has the distinction of being the coach and playing captain of both his high school and college golf teams and has written a series of articles on the sport called "Impact Golf."

Chestnut Hill members are looking forward to this association with Don Winkelmans as head golf professional at the popular Newton layout as the golf season approaches.

Father Haring, appointed a Council Expert by Pope John XXIII, was one of the most prominent and distinguished theologians during the Second Vatican Council, and has been a pioneer in developing new insights in the field of moral theology. He is presently a visiting professor of Roman Catholic Studies at Yale Divinity School in New Haven.

On Saturday, May 27, Father Haring will conduct a one-day institute at John Hancock Hall on the theme, "Meaningful Christian Living." The noted theologian will deliver three lectures during the course of the day-long institute, and there will be general discussion.

Among the well-known patrons of the Paulist lecture series are Mrs. John T. Burns, Sr., Mr. J. Joseph Callahan, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. White of Newton.

The invitations were designed by Yoshihiro Katayama of Harvard for the affair, which will have a benefit preview at Corbusier's Carpenter Center, Harvard University, Friday evening, Apr. 21. It will be open to the public from Saturday, Apr. 22 to Sunday, Apr. 23.

The sale will feature painting, sculpture, graphics and photographs donated by leading artists and collectors in the Northeast.

The Newton workers assisting in the cause include Mrs. Louis Klebenov, co-chairman; Mrs. Milton Green, Mrs. Arthur Burns, Mrs. Norman Feinberg, Mrs. Larry Nathanson and Mrs. Louis Weinberg.

Eugene Lyne of 27 Suffolk Rd., Chestnut Hill, a partner in the law firm of Lyne, Woodworth & Evans of Boston, will serve in a capacity similar to that for which Atty. Facher was appointed. From 1943 to 1946, Atty. Lyne was a 2nd lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps. He received his Bachelor of Law degree from Boston College Law School in 1951.

Jerome P. Facher of 152 Waban Ave., Waban, will serve as Special Hearing Officer for the Department of Justice to conduct hearings with respect to the character and good faith of conscientious objector claimants. A partner in the law firm of Hale and Dorf, Boston, he was graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1951. He is a member of the Bar of State and Federal Courts of Massachusetts, the Bar of the District of Columbia and Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, and the Court of Claims.

Robert H. Shuler of 73 Puritan Rd., Waban, Neil L. Baker of 286 Dedham St., Newton Centre, and Alan N. Rice of 141 Blake St., Newtonville, have earned Dean's List honors for outstanding classroom work at the University of Vermont.

Local DAV Chapter Plan April Events

Joseph Volpe, a long-time Newton resident, was unanimously elected commander of Chaplain William J. Farrell Chapter, Disabled American Veterans.

Others elected to office are as follows:

Senior vice commander, Fred Kent; junior vice commander, John J. Sturniolo; treasurer, Joseph W. Deloppi; judge advocate, Past Commander Robert H. N. Nichols; and chaplain, Past Commander Victor R. Gorgone.

The commander-elect immediately reappointed Michael Riccio adjutant, and promised to fill all other positions at the chapter's next meeting.

Plans are being made for the chapter and auxiliary installation Saturday, April 29, in War Memorial Auditorium. Installing officer will be Past Commander J. Edward Theriault, a member of Chapter 23.

Commander Volpe urged all members of both organizations to attend the banquet for past commanders at Chapel Bridge Park Restaurant, Bridge St., Newton, Saturday evening, April 1, at 6:30 o'clock. At this affair, 33 past commanders of the chapter and three past commanders of the auxiliary will be honored.

Head table guests will include Mayor Monte G. Basbas, the Hon. Laurence Curtis, State Representatives Joseph G. Bradley, Irving Fishman and Paul Molloy, and Aldermen Paul J. Burke, and Andrew J. Magni.

This, the second past commanders' banquet since Chapter 23 was instituted more than 33 years ago, is shaping up as an outstanding affair.

DEATHS

Elsie Simmons

Services for Mrs. Elsie (McElroy) Simmons, 69, of 6 Briar Lane, Newtonville, past president of the Newtonville Woman's Club, were scheduled for this (Thursday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in United Methodist Church, with the Rev. John R. Lilly, minister, officiating.

Mrs. Simmons died March 20 in Newton-Wellesley Hospital after a brief illness.

Her late husband, Frank M. (Doc) Simmons, was with the physical education department of the Newton schools from 1923 until his death in 1965, and headed the department during his last 20 years.

Sharing her husband's devotion to the YMCA, Mrs. Simmons was its auxiliary president for four years. She assisted her husband as director of the Frank A. Day Camp in Brookfield for 22 years.

She was active in the Women's Society of Christian Methodist Church.

She leaves a daughter, Miss Norma Simmons of Baltimore, Maryland.

Burial will be in Richford, Vermont.

Malden Catholic Eliminates Newton From Ice Turney

By FRANK WALL

A three goal third period barrage by the Bluejackets of Malden Catholic eliminated the Newton Tigers from the state hockey tourney, 6-2, at the Boston Garden last Thursday night before over 8,000 fans.

It looked like the Malden Catholic sextet was going to blow the Tigers off the ice in the first period when they scored two goals.

In the first minute of the second period, Sarge Kinlin's skaters came out roaring and got them right back. With 23 seconds gone in the second period, hustling Charley Donovan fired a 12-foot rebound into the strings and the Tigers were only down 2-1. Bruce Huntley and Steve Toomey drew assists on the play. Thirty seconds later, flashy defenseman Dick Dezotell took a Donovan pass and fired a bullet into the Bluejackets cage and the game was tied 2-2.

This was all the scoring for the Tigers for the night. They gave it everything and almost scored on several occasions but couldn't get the break they needed to open up the game.

At 8:30 of the middle stanza, Catholic's sophomore sensation, Bob Reardon, fired a 20-foot screen shot past Tiger goalie Bob Newis and that proved to be the winning goal.

In the final frame it was all Malden with Reardon bagging two more and high scorer Ed Kent getting the other marker to give the Bluejackets a 6-2 win.

Malden Catholic was defeated by Norwood, Bay State runnerup, at the Garden Saturday afternoon, 1-0, in the semi-final round of the tourney.

The Greater Boston League champ Arlington topped Canton, South Shore champ, 5-0,

Wednesday night and rolled over South Shore runnerup, Hingham, 6-0, Saturday to enter the finals against Bay State runnerup, Norwood.

POST GAME CHATTER —

The Tigers did a fine job in the tourney and had their share of thrills. In the first game, Charley Donovan led the way with three goals in the 5-0 romp over Burlington. They had a big thrill as Don Gallagher scored an overtime goal to top St. Johns and bring them into the Boston Garden.

Dick Dezotell was one of the tourney's top defensemen and goalie Bob Newis was at his best in the St. John's game.

Just playing on the Boston Garden ice was a thrill for the Newton pucksters.

Coach Kinlin was proud of the way his team battled all season with their great desire and hustle.

Playing their last games for the Tigers were seniors Bob Newis, Dave Riley, Bruce Huntley, Charlie Donovan, Co-Captains Dick Dezotell and Steve Toomey, and Al Alessi.

Next year, Kinlin looks for a good season with one of the top lines in the state returning. Bob Cotter, Don Gallagher and Jack Drost led the team in scoring as a unit and Kinlin sees them as one of the best next season. With Mike Dezotell returning at the points it gives the Kinlin men four seasoned vets. If he can get added help from the junior varsity, Arlington's long reign on the Greater Boston League may be ended by the Tigers.

"The kids gave me everything I asked for during the season and I feel they were fine representatives of their school and city in the Greater Boston League and in the State Turney," Kinlin noted.

Civic Symphony Orchestra Sets Weekly Sessions

A surprise visit from Mayor Monte G. Basbas highlighted Sunday night's rehearsal of the Newton Civic Symphony Orchestra. For him, it was a chance to see the enthusiasm of the members and to hear the results of rehearsals held during the last two months. Since it started, interest in the organization has grown steadily.

Over sixty non-professional musicians, mostly from Newton, have now joined the group.

During the weekly rehearsals sessions at Meadowbrook Junior High School, Michael Sasso, the conductor, spends most of the time with repertoire for a May concert.

However, he devotes a portion of the session to reading through new pieces. Often the orchestra has played concerto with some men from the Boston Symphony Orchestra who join for an evening of musical enjoyment.

Mr. Sasso expressed his satisfaction with its development. "We're fortunate to have garnered a good complement of musicians. The group has progressed very well. All of us are excited about it and are looking forward to our spring concert."

The concert will be held at Meadowbrook Junior High School on May 7.

SENATE ETHICS PANEL RULES OUT OUSTER FOR DODD

THE SENATE ETHICS Committee has decided that Sen. Thomas J. Dodd should be punished but not ousted from the Senate, it was learned late yesterday. The decision neither to clear the 59-year-old Democrat from Connecticut of misconduct charges nor to expel him was reached at a secret meeting a week ago.

The six members agreed that the facts uncovered in a year-long investigation did not warrant expulsion. At the same time, the bipartisan committee rejected the possibility of exonerating the senator.

No decision on the precise punishment has been reached although it will be some form of censure of Dodd's conduct.

POWELL CLEARED TO RUN IN HOUSE ELECTION

ADAM CLAYTON POWELL has won a court fight to run again for the seat from which Congress ousted him. In Washington it was reported his chances of being allowed to take seat had brightened considerably.

New York Supreme Court Justice Arthur Markwich denied an application by the Conservative party to strike Powell's name from the ballot for the special April 11 election in Harlem for the seat denied Powell March 1 on grounds of misusing public funds.

COURT ORDERS COMPLETE DESSEGREGATION IN SOUTH

A U.S. COURT OF APPEALS in New Orleans has ruled that all grades in all schools in the South must be desegregated this fall. Pupils must be assigned to schools, including kindergarten, without regard to race or color, the court said.

The 12-judge court held that school officials "have the affirmative duty under the Fourteenth Amendment to bring about an integrated, unitary school system in which there are no Negro schools and no white schools, but just schools."

CHICAGO KIDNAP SUSPECT ELUDES POLICE TRAP

A FLEEING DRIVER, jettisoning a gun and a mask in his wake, led police and FBI agents in a wild, fender-smashing chase yesterday through an area being searched for kidnapped Carrie Stephen, 8.

The motorist, who resembled the description of Carrie's abductor, fled on foot down an alley and disappeared despite the emergency search parties of police and FBI agents who flooded the area.

TEAMSTER HEAD DENIES UNION LINK TO COSA NOSTRA

THE CHIEF of the Justice Department's organized crime division linked high levels of the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. with the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate.

The Teamsters' general vice president, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, termed the statement by Henry Peterson "slanderous" and urged him either to repudiate his remark or present evidence in court. There was no immediate comment from ILA leaders.

SECRET CIA FINANCING HALTED BY LBJ

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has ordered an immediate halt to secret financing of educational or other private voluntary organizations by federal agencies, including the Central Intelligence Agency.

He put Secretary of State Dean Rusk in charge of establishing a special public and private council, along the lines of the Smithsonian Institution, to provide federal funds openly to any organization's overseas activities worthy of such support in the national interest.

TEENAGE JURIES PROPOSED FOR JUVENILE CASES

THE JOINT JUDICIARY Committee yesterday heard no opposition to a proposal that teenage juries be allowed to sit in judgment on juvenile cases.

"It's a new idea," Rep. John W. Sears (R-Boston), sponsor of the bill, told the committee in urging its support. Contrary to popular belief, he said, teenage juries often mete out stiffer sentences on their contemporaries than do adults.

ILA, MPA OFFICIALS CLASH ON PORT FACILITIES

AN OFFICIAL of the International Longshoremen's Association charged Wednesday that the entire New England area will "die" without improved port facilities for Boston Harbor.

Union vice president Daniel Doherty, in a radio interview, said present port facilities were "simply deplorable," but two Massachusetts Port Authority officials discounted Doherty's views. Edward King and Thomas Soules said 54 ships have been turned away from Boston since the first of the year because the longshoremen's union could not provide adequate labor service.

TWO YOUTHS HELD FOR JURY IN LANDAU KILLING

TWO REVERE YOUTHS charged with the murder of television and stage producer Jack Landau, were ordered held without bail for the grand jury yesterday after a police officer testified one had confessed to taking part.

Chief Municipal Court Judge Elijah Adlow found probable cause to hold Michael E. Riley, 19, and Eugene C. McKenna, 17. The case of a 16-year-old youth, charged with delinquency by reason of murder, was in juvenile court.

SHATTERED OIL TANKER REFUSES TO SINK

VIRTUALLY BLOWN to pieces and smouldering like an underwater volcano, the American-owned oil tanker Torrey Canyon still clung today to the water line despite a searing bomb and rocket attack by screaming waves of supersonic RAF fighter-bombers for the second consecutive day at Land's End, England.

The precision bombing runs filled the sea and sky around the crippled tanker with fireballs. The aft section of the ship exploded in a blinding pillar of fire and sooty black smoke under direct hits.

SAIGON LEADERS SEE DISASTER IN BOMBING LULL

SOUTH VIETNAMESE Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, visited a U.S. aircraft carrier off the coast of North Vietnam and said if the United States stopped bombing the Communist North, South Vietnam would be invaded "the following day."

"And the following month all of Southeast Asia will be invaded," Thieu said as he and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky toured the USS Enterprise in the Gulf of Tonkin. Ky himself said the Hanoi leaders "hope to win their war in Washington, not in Vietnam."

SOVIETS CHARGE U.S.-CHINA PLOT ON NORTH VIETNAM

CHINESE COMMUNIST army troops moved into Canton to crush strong opposition to party Chairman Mao Tse-tung spearheaded by an armed organization known as the "August 1 Fighting Corps," reliable sources reported Wednesday.

The informants said documents attributed to the Kwantung military district reaching Hong Kong said the anti-Mao organization, which included a "sharp knife company," raided party and government offices, attacked police stations, kidnapped prominent officials, held kangaroo trials and "furnished intelligence information" to an espionage network in Hong Kong.

MAO FORCES BATTING POWERFUL CANTON TERRORISTS

THE SOVIET UNION has charged the United States and Communist China are silent partners in a conspiracy to destroy North Vietnam. It said Peking was helping the United States by opposing a cease-fire in Vietnam.

The allegation was made in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. Peking has repeatedly accused the Russians of collaborating with the United States in efforts to force Hanoi to end the war on American terms.

Mayor Tells Aldermen

Broaden Tax Base Or Face New Hike

Mayor Monte G. Basbas mounting real estate tax rate told the members of the if it is to provide the services and public facilities demanded by its residents.

The Mayor offered this choice in a major address to the Aldermanic Board on the problems confronting Newton today and the plans he considers must be made for the future.

He advocated that selected areas of the city be developed in a manner designed to create substantial new taxable property, thus broadening the city's tax base and providing new tax revenue.

At the same time the Mayor warned that Newton's tax rate would go up at least $8 this year if it is necessary to estimate the rate on the basis of last year's "cherry sheet" listing the amounts of revenue to be distributed by the state to its cities and towns.

Indications a week ago were that Newton's tax rate might jump about $4 this year, and Basbas expressed hope that he would be able to hold the rise below that figure.

However, he disclosed Monday night that he had been informed by the State Tax Department that the "cherry sheet" will be late this year because of court suits which are still unsettled.

The Mayor also asserted that he had been advised unofficially that he should use last year's "cherry sheet" in establishing this year's tax rate.

"If we must do this, our tax rate this year would go up no less than $8," Mayor Basbas declared.

Basbas stressed that the character of Newton as a Garden City must be maintained.

Move To Reduce Voting Age

May Meet Public Opposition

There is little doubt that a proposed constitutional amendment, which would lower the voting age in Massachusetts from 21 to 18, will be passed by the State Legislature.

The move has the backing of the Democratic big command on Beacon Hill, Democratic State Committee Chairman Lester S. Hyman and Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

Their immediate objective, of course, is to appeal to the youth of the state and to make an impact upon the present 18-year-olds who will be voting before the proposed change in the Constitution becomes effective—if it is eventually adopted.

It is difficult to challenge their contention that youths old and mature enough to fight in Vietnam are also old and mature enough to vote.

Newton Police Officers At Criminalistics Talk

Conducting the program, the Boston Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara, a team of Boston Police detectives - Robert B. Dewsnap and James H. Bradbury - gave a lecture on "Criminalistics," the application of physical sciences for the detection of crime, to members of the Newton Police Department, in their In-Service training program on Tuesday, March 28.

Every member of the Newton Police Department participated in one of three programs in order that every officer becomes familiar with modern crime laboratory techniques.

The importance of the crime laboratory has increased tremendously since the recent Supreme Court decisions regarding questioning of suspects and the greater need for physical evidence.

Chief Philip Purcell recommended Commissioner McNamara and the Boston Police Department for the assistance that the crime laboratory has rendered to the communities outside Boston and the contribution Boston has made in the training of photo and fingerprint men under the auspices of the crime laboratory since its inception in 1950.

Purcell went on to state that Boston has been using crime laboratory techniques prior to the formation of the laboratory and has in its history adapted scientific and new procedures before the days of fingerprinting and other accepted modern detection concepts.

Both officers are charter members of the New England Police Photographers Association, a self-help, continuous training group that promotes efficiency and increased professionalism among police photographers.

Captain William F. Quinn, director of Newton Police In-Service school, pointed out that through the efforts of Detectives Dewsnap and Bradbury "every officer was able to discover, protect and use physical evidence found at the scene of a crime."

Quinn stated that while every officer may not approach the proficiency of these "Evidence Technicians" they will be able to recognize evidence that may be developed and used in today's "team approach" to crime detection.

Talk On Navajos At Auburndale Church Friday

Navajo Indians spinning, weaving and tending sheep, an authentic Pueblo Indian corn dance, a green lizard resting on colorful petrified rock - these are some of the slide subjects to be seen at Auburndale Congregational Church tomorrow (Friday) evening Mar. 31, at 8 o'clock.

Dorothy Bates will present her most recent program entitled "From Red Rocks to Golden Aspens." Based on a recent trip to the spectacular southwest, this series covers many aspects of western scenery from Arizona deserts to the Rocky Mountains.

While on the Navajo Reservation, Mrs. Bates attended the annual Tribal Fair at Window Rock, Arizona, and spent some time at the Ganado Mission. She photographed both abandoned and present day Pueblo villages. The trip is climaxed by a visit to the high Rockies of Colorado just when the aspens were at their height or autumn gold.

PLAN BENEFIT — Plans were recently completed for the annual Boys' Towns of Italy Dinner Dance to be held Sunday, April 16, at the Statler Hilton, Boston. Boys' Towns of Italy, founded in 1945 by Monsignor John Patrick Carroll-Abbing, will honor Honorable Howard W. Fitzpatrick, Sheriff of Middlesex County, for his outstanding contributions to the organization. Shown in attendance at the meeting were, left to right: Dinner Chairman Ralph Tedeschi; Executive Director Lucia Vollono; Vice Chairman Joseph Fernandes; and Executive Planning Committee Member Joseph Lorusso.

Democrats Of Ward 8 Oppose U. S. Bombing

By a vote of 14 to nine the Ward Eight Democratic Committee resolved last week to send a telegram to President Johnson calling for a halt in U.S. bombing in Vietnam.

"We who supported you, worked for you and believed in you," the telegram stated, "urge you to stop the bombing. We urge you to stop the bombing because its military effect has been at best questionable, its psychological effect has been to stiffen resistance, and its moral effect has been alienation of our friends, our young people and a large segment of our party. We urge this on you as the leader of the Democratic Party whose greatness has always been rooted in compassion and concern."

The telegram was signed by the Newton Ward Eight Democratic Committee. Dissenting members of the committee sent a minority telegram to the President expressing their views.

Rep. Michael S. Dukakis of Brookline spoke to members and associate members of the Ward Committee. He discussed automobile insurance laws.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Henry Gessner, 111 Dane Hill Rd., Newton Highlands. Ward Eight Committee Chairman Sidney Bronstein presided.

Art Workshop Planned For Patriots Day

Newton Community Center has planned an experimental workshop called "An Art Show in Creation" to be presented on Patriot's Day, April 19.

It will be held in the open air in the park at Cherry and Washington Sts., West Newton, or indoors if it rains. Booths will be set up featuring experiments in different forms of art. Among those contemplated are sponge, straw and texture, painting, tissue, fabric, pop art and paper magic collage; gadget, potato and cardboard cuts; puppet making, woodworking, clay modeling, sand casting and many more. The number and variety of activities will depend on the number of advance registrations.

Registration at the Center will entitle an individual to a specified number of activities, and anyone can work alone or in a group. Information sheets will be mailed on the program is under the direction of Mrs. Murray Janower, 3 Valley Spring rd., Newton, who teaches art and enrichment at the center.

Newton Clergymen Oppose Stand By Senator Brooke

Two Newton clergymen were among a group which met Monday with U.S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke to object to his change of position on the Vietnam war and to his apparent support of the Administration's use of military power in Vietnam.

They were Rev. Harold R. Fray, Jr., and Rev. Paul Deats.

Rev. Fray, who is chairman of the Committee of Religious Concern for Peace stated:

"After the meeting with Sen. Edward W. Brooke for one and a half hours on Monday, my personal opinion remains unchanged — that he is a man of high integrity. He has altered his position publicly on Vietnam, knowing full well the fall-out that would follow among those who supported and worked for his election in the fall of 1966. I like a man who has the courage of his convictions."

"However, I dispute the wisdom of Sen. Brooke changing his position on the basis of Ho Chi Minh's hard attitude toward peace negotiations. At the outset of the United States' bombing of North Vietnam, the American people were told that this would bring Ho Chi Minh to the conference table. It has not and probably will not. In all likelihood a cessation of bombing by itself will not bring meaningful peace talks either."

"The essential issue is that we keep clearly in mind U.S. goals in Vietnam. If we want to win a military victory, logic demands that we use all military means available to us. However, a military victory has always been denied as the goal of American involvement in Vietnam, and rightly so, for it would be an empty victory."

"Herein lies my greatest fear. The use of military force generates a momentum of its own which is difficult to control, and the more military success we have in Vietnam the stronger will be the pressure to reach for a military victory. Such a desire represents, in the words of Sen. William Fulbright, "the arrogance of power" which has an almost irresistible attraction to the U.S. at the present moment."

"Military power is never more than a means to an end. The great danger we face in Vietnam is to make it an end in itself. Sen. Brooke, by his change of position in support of present administration policy, contributes to that danger. He states that this is a misunderstanding of his position."

"However, he has given to the American people the impression of supporting the administration's use of military power in Vietnam and he will have to make strong, forthright statements to change that impression. This is especially true because of his un-critical acceptance of our government's continued escalation of the war in the past four months."

"It is not a matter of Sen. Brooke's position alone. He has become a symbol. He makes it more difficult for others to resist this enormous pressure to achieve a military victory in Vietnam."

"The future of Southeast Asia will be decided by social reforms, political changes that give a voice to the people, and by overcoming the enormous poverty that grips that area. Our preoccupation with a military victory delays what must be done."

Local Man Is New State Tax Commissioner

A man long active in Newton civic affairs has been appointed as the Commonwealth's new Tax Commissioner. He is Cleo F. Jaillet, 56, of 95 Glen Ave., Newton Centre, chief in Massachusetts of the Internal Revenue Service Collection Division.

His appointment, by Governor John A. Volpe, is for three years as successor to Guy J. Rizzotto, appointed last month as judge of the East Boston District Court.

For a number of years, Mr. Jaillet has been a director of the Newton Centre Improvement Association. This year will be his 26th as chairman of the July Fourth celebration for youngsters on the Newton Centre playground, an affair that in recent years has been the nearest thing to an official city observance of Independence Day.

He was an organizer of the Newton East Little League and active in its affairs for a number of years.

He is a member of the Holy Name Society of Sacred Heart Church and a member of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

He headed the IRS collection division since 1960, and has been with the federal service since 1934, when he was appointed as a clerk. He became chief of the regional training branch, and in 1955, when the northeast data processing center was established, he became assistant in that department.

With other exceptional young men, he was chosen for the executive selection and development program in which IRS trains men for positions in top management.

He was assigned as assistant to the director in St. Louis on graduation. Then, in 1959, he returned to Boston as executive assistant to the assistant chief of the Boston district collection division.

A graduate of Holy Rosary School in Gardner and of Gardner High School, he received a law degree from Suffolk University, and did graduate work at Northeastern University.

Mrs. Jaillet is the former Helen J. Doherty, who was born and raised in Newtonville. Their son, William Jaillet, is in the Veterans Administration in Philadelphia.

banks and a parking space in the first phase of the development over the Turnpike.

The first phase would occupy approximately three acres of the total area and would be worth about $10 million, according to Mark H. Waltch, president of Urban Development Corporation. Waltch declared that the completed complex would be worth between $15 and $20 million.

A pedestrian walk from the Centre St. side of the Turnpike to Washington St. would be part of the initial phase of the development, Waltch added.

Lunch -

High School has been chosen for Newton's first automated lunch program because its spacious modern cafeteria has room to install necessary equipment and give automation a fair try and apparently because the hot lunch has been less successful at Meadowbrook than at the other secondary schools.

School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge pointed out the latter, saying: "It is interesting that we lose 17 cents a meal at Meadowbrook and 9 or 10 cents in the overall set-up."

"We have over a 25 per cent loss in the Meadowbrook lunch program," he revealed. Hawkridge also pointed commented.

out that less than 40 per cent of Meadowbrook students take part in the present hot lunch program.

School Committeewoman

Mrs. Norman W. Mintz suggested that student participation in the school lunch program would go up when the children were given a choice of lunches by the automated

In answer to a question by School Committeeman Vincent Paul Stanton, Gillean said he hoped to eliminate the existing deficit by cutting back labor costs.

Committeeman Francis P. Frazier no one working in the Meadowbrook cafeteria will lose a job. "Labor has been a continuing problem for us," the business director said.

"We will absorb these people in the other schools."

Business Director

Gilleland explained that part of the difficulty was caused by Meadowbrook's flexible class schedule, which brings children into the cafeteria at different times and lengthens the time cafeteria help must work, thus increasing labor costs. "We could double our counter sales using little additional labor," Gilleland said.

The only commitment made by the school system to the concessionaire will be to provide space for his equipment and to bring in necessary electricity and water. Gilleland estimated that the additional utilities costs might amount to $1000 a year.

Bible Society Lunch

Franklin K. Hoyt of 279 Fuller St., West Newton, will be a participant in the semi-annual program of the Massachusetts Bible Society Monday afternoon, Apr 3, at 12:30 o'clock, in the Society headquarters, 41 Bromfield St., Boston.

Editorial . . .

Where Will It All End?

"This bill is a cornerstone in a structure which is being built but is by no means complete." These words were uttered by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt some 32 years ago when he signed the original Social Security bill.

No truer words were ever spoken.

We are now paying over nine times as much a year for Social Security as we did in 1937, the first year workers began contributing. In 1941, the first full year of payments, retired workers or their survivors or dependents, collected $88 million in Social Security benefits. This year, under a vastly extended program, the Social Security Administration estimates it will pay over $22 billion in benefits.

When the Social Security system first started, the combined payroll tax paid by worker and employer was one per cent of the first $3000 of income.

Now with Medicare, the tax is up to 8.4 per cent of the first $6600 of income, $580.80 paid half (4.2) and half (4.2) by employee and employer.

Recently President Johnson asked Congress to approve increases in Social Security benefits averaging 20 per cent. The smallest increase would be 15 per cent. The largest increase, 59 per cent, would apply to persons receiving the minimum benefit, which would grow from $44 to $70 a month.

The President also asked that Social Security benefits for three million children in families where the main provider has died, retired or become disabled be raised by 15 per cent.

The first program would add $4.5 billion to the Social Security benefits. The second would add $350 million.

If Congress passes the President's program, then taxes will go up to pay for the additional benefits. The President is asking that both Social Security taxes and the tax-base be raised. Next year the rate would still be 4.4 per cent each for the worker and the employer but the base would be extended to $7800.

That means a worker's share would be a maximum of $343.20 in 1968. And Social Security taxes and the tax base would keep rising in stages to 1987. Then the rate would be 5.8 per cent on the first $10,800 earned, or $626.40 a year each for the worker and employer.

When Social Security was first initiated, it provided old age insurance for workers in commerce and industry. That was all. The original Social Security Act was amended in 1939 — even before the first scheduled payments to retired workers in 1940 — to provide for the worker's dependents and survivors in the event he died before reaching 65.

In 1955 Congress passed legislation providing for benefit payments to adult disabled workers. The disability clause was broadened in 1958, enabling dependents of disabled workers to draw benefits, and again in 1960 when all age barriers were removed.

The program shifted gears again in 1965 bringing the controversial health insurance and voluntary medical insurance acts under the umbrella.

Today's program has little in common with the original old-age survivor's program. The Social Security laws have reached far beyond the concept of an old-age survivor's program and provide for a vastly expanded range of coverage and benefits.

These include welfare assistance for the poor, medical care for the young and the aged, health examinations for the poor and aid to dependent children.

Social Security has been transformed into the world's biggest insurance program, covering nine out of 10 American workers.

The Social Security tax is second in size only to the income tax. As of now it represents 17 per cent of all federal tax collections.

This brings us to the point where one of the hot arguments is raging. The dispute is over this: Whether or not general revenue funds should be added to the pool.

Most arguments over Social Security have been imbedded in politics or political philosophies.

Both political parties are fully aware of the merits of Social Security. Some see its dangers. Some fear even that it is undermining some basic values of personal thrift and responsibility. Some feel that the President's request for increased benefits marks the next but last step toward something like a guaranteed annual wage.

Who will pay for all this? Will rising income taxes and Social Security taxes prove too crushing a burden on the already burdened taxpayer? Are today's younger workers being penalized to pay for the growing old age retirement, survivor's, disability and health benefits available to the older workers?

These are some of the questions being raised as the Social Security program hurtles along. The answers aren't coming back loud and clear.

Where it all will end, nobody knows.

Civic Symphony Orchestra

The Community Lecture series on "The Negro in American Society," scheduled to be held on April 5th at the Warren Junior High School at 8 p.m., has been postponed until April 12th at the same time and place, it was announced yesterday.

Michel Sason, a violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has recently assumed the role of conductor and music director with the Newton Civic Symphony Orchestra.

He was widely acclaimed as a child prodigy in his native Egypt. While attending St. Andrew's School for Boys he pursued a career as a concert violinist. At eight years of age he performed the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto with the Cairo Symphony Orchestra.

In 1950 Mr. Sason left his home and family in order to study at the Paris Conservatoire. He spent the next eight years there. At one point his studies were interrupted when in 1956 he aided his parents to flee from Egypt. Prior to that time Mr. Sason's father had been doing all the electrical wiring in King Farouk's many palaces. During the period spent in Paris he studied music with Nada Boulanger, violin with Marcel Reynal and Nathan Milstein as well as conducting under Eugene Bigot. By the time he left Paris, Michel Sason had achieved the highly coveted "premier prix" with a unanimous jury and a medal for chamber music.

With his education completed Mr. Sason arrived in the United States and in 1958 joined the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

He makes his home in Newton with his wife and two young sons. He is an ardent basketball fan and it is said that at times he can be seen running from Symphony Hall after a concert to catch Johnny Most's late basketball round-up.

True, the gardener may charge what he wishes, or whatever he thinks the customer will pay. But, don't blame the city for this. Pay if you wish, hire another gardener, if you wish, but stop and think before condemning.

As Alderman - at - Large, I have already received numerous calls on the subject and I wish to set the record straight.

Yours truly,
Jason Sacks,

Casualty Rate

Washington—In World War II the casualties in the army and air force amounted to about 9 percent of the mobilization of 10.4 million.

Lee Loumos Says:

An old friend and customer was in the store today to complain about the performance of a new radio phonograph console he just received as a wedding present. Upon inspecting it I found absolutely no name on it anywhere. It boasted a five foot cabinet and six speakers, but the cabinet was made of $\frac{1}{4}$ " Masonite panels and all six speakers were the cheapest $\frac{3}{4}$ " diameter. The tuner-amplifier was less than half the size of a shoe box. The tone control had absolutely no effect. I doubt if it was even wired into the circuit. It was the worst stereo I have ever heard and the best thing I could say of it was that whoever made it had only enough conscience not to identify himself. I wonder who is to be pitted more, the giver or receiver of this gift? What better example can I give you for insisting on a respected brand name from a reputable dealer when you purchase such items?

Personnel Changes Get School Board Approval

Twenty-three appointments, one retirement, five resignations, six extensions of leaves of absence and a transfer to higher training level were approved by the Newton School Committee at their meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Frances D. Forgie of the division of pupil personnel services has retired after 36 years of service in Newton. Committeewoman Grace C. Whitmore moved that a special letter of thanks be sent Mrs. Forgie by the School Committee. The motion was seconded by Committee member Edwin Hawridge who termed Mrs. Forgie's retirement "a real real."

Two appointments of substitute teachers for the balance of the year were approved. Roberta L. Garson will teach grade six at the Beethoven School. Miss Garson received her B.A. degree from Vassar College in 1964. She received her Master's degree in education from Tufts in February and did her student teaching at the Hyde School last fall and winter.

Mrs. Rose S. Markey will teach English and Social Studies at Meadowbrook Junior High School. She graduated from St. Elizabeth's College, Morristown, New Jersey, in 1928. She taught in Holyoke and Ware, Mass., for several years. She has been a substitute teacher in the Newton public schools since 1963, and is a resident of Auburndale.

Eleven September appointments were ratified.

Jeffrey C. Griffith will teach social studies at Newton High School and Elaine N. Scotch will teach English at Warren Junior High School. Both Griffith and Miss Scotch will occupy newly created positions.

Griffith graduated from Harvard College in 1966 and will receive his M.A.T. degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Education this year. He did his student teaching last fall at Newton High School.

Paulette A. Prezner will teach grade six, five or four. She graduate from Southern Connecticut State College in 1966. She will receive her Master's degree from the University of Connecticut this year. Miss Prezner served as a camp counselor and playground leader for two summers and as a floor counselor at college for one year. She has tutored emotionally disturbed girls. Recently she has served as a substitute in the New Haven and the Hamden Schools.

Lucy W. Shade will teach kindergarten. She will graduate from Wheelock College this year. Miss Shade did part of her student teaching in the Beethoven School. She served as a dietary aide in Concord Hospital last summer and the summer before as a camp counselor.

Mrs. Marjorie Sussman will teach any elementary grade, with preference for grade three. She is a graduate of the University of Vermont, class of 1966. Mrs. Sussman served as camp counselor for two summers and has been program chairman of the Student National Education Association.

Diane R. MacIver will teach grade one, two, or three. She will graduate from Northeastern University this year. Miss MacIver served as a tutor in reading at the Y.M.C.A.

The appointment of nine student aides from Brandeis for the second semester of the present academic year was also approved. Ellen M. Beck will work at the Davis School. Aviva J. Kligfeld and Arlene Cohen will be assigned to the Cabot School. Nancy L. Reiner will work at the Hamilton School.

Marilyn Goldfarb, Ann Ann Garelick, and Gary Prince will be assigned to the Angier School. Sandy Prozman and Toby Fishbein will work at Newton High School.

Also approved was the appointment of Stephen Landy on a part-time basis, as a statistician for the follow-up program, under the direction of Dr. David B. Clemens.

Five resignations were accepted by the School Board, which initiated a policy this week of stating the reasons given for the resignations.

Four of the five resignations were by persons already on leave of absence.

Robert L. Belensky of the division of Pupil Personnel Services has resigned to con-

COMMITTEE FOR SPRING BRIDGE—Committee members of Newton YMCA Woman's Auxiliary who met recently to discuss plans for annual spring bridge party to be held April 3rd. Seated, left to right, Mrs. Winston Auryanson, Chairman; Mrs. John Coleman, president; Miss Grace A. Darling, publicity; standing, Mrs. Elmer Kendall, treasurer, Mrs. Alex Miller and Mrs. R. Emerson Sylvester, in charge of food; Mrs. Ralph Brown, setting tables, and Miss Mary Visco, prizes.

Mr. Bloom has been associated with Elm Farm Foods since 1948, when he became counsel for the company. In 1953, he left his law practice to become vice-president in charge of operations for Elm Farm Foods. He was executive vice president in 1956, and in 1961, he was named president of the company.

The author of "Economics of Labor Relations," now in its fifth printing, Mr. Bloom is also the co-author of two other volumes, "Government and Labor" and "Readings in Labor Economics."

He is a director of Raymon's Inc., and president of several real estate development corporations affiliated with Elm Farm Foods. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and the Boston and Federal Bar Associations.

Currently, Mr. Bloom is a trustee of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies, a trustee of the Children's Hospital Medical Center, a director of Morgan Memorial Inc., and a director of Junior Achievement Inc.

He has served as vice-chairman of the Boston College Development Fund, chairman of the food division of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies campaign, and special projects chairman of the National Continue his present college work. Mrs. Irene S. Buonopane of the Spaulding School has resigned to remain at home. Jonathan M. Daube of Newton High School has resigned to take an administrative position. Mrs. Charlotte P. Harlan of the Lincoln-Elliot School has resigned for personal reasons. Mrs. Patricia K. Hennin of Newton High School has resigned for maternity; Mrs. Hennin was the only one of the five not already on leave of absence.

Extension of leaves of absence were approved for Mrs. Robin L. Andrews of the Bowen School; Robert J. Carr of the Warren Junior High School; Francis X. Corcoran of the Hyde School; Esther Jackson of the Spaulding School; Gerardo N. Tempesta of the Franklin School; and Douglas E. Wax of Newton High School.

Three of the persons given leaves of absence are involved in graduate work; two are participating in educational projects; and one will remain at home.

Mrs. John C. Wighton Weds Dr. John W. Keller

The Cliff Street Congregational Church in Nahant was the recent setting for the marriage of Mrs. John Clasper Wighton Jr., daughter of Mrs. Daniel Heefner and the late Mr. Heefner of Mercersburg, Pa., to Dr. John Wilbur Keller. He is the son of Captain and Mrs. Harold Russell Keller, U.S.N. (ret.), of West Newton.

The Rev. Edward Swanson officiated at the family wedding. The couple's children, Jeremy Keller, Natalie Russell Keller, Peter Gardner Keller, Polly Hill Keller and Anne Morgan Wighton were present.

Following the service, there was a reception at the bride's Nahant home.

Mrs. Thomas Heefner of Mercersburg, Pa., was matron of honor, while Mr. Hamilton Coolidge served as best man.

Mrs. Keller was graduated from Vassar College.

The groom served four years with the Royal Air Force during World War II, and was graduated from Harvard Medical School. He is now on the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

NTA Opposes Three Bills At State House

The Newton Teachers Association is opposing three bills, H742, H743 and S285, which are designed to reduce and possibly eliminate the certification requirement for Industrial Art teachers.

Vice President Paul Ippolito of the NTA voiced the opposition at a hearing in the State House last Monday as follows:

"Today, teachers are becoming more professional and better qualified. This legislation would open the door for a gross reduction in standards, and thus cause a giant step backwards in teacher professionals. Their work will be in vain if these bills are passed, because it could encourage an influx of non-certified people."

The vice president has asked his fellow teachers to oppose the bills by writing to their Representatives and Senators and to the members of the Committee on Education at the State House.

Also attending the hearing were Daniel Mialar, president of the Massachusetts Industrial Education Society and Ward Mangue, a graphic arts consultant of the Newton schools. They also spoke in opposition to the legislation.

Federal Housing Talk

"Federal Housing for the Aged" will be discussed by Mrs. Dorothy Reed at the Wednesday afternoon, Apr. 5, 2 o'clock meeting of the Afternoon Guild of the Church of the Messiah in Auburndale.

It's fun, and a part of the Kindergarten Art Program offered by the Center.

Many newcomers are expected when the spring program begins, and for it advance registration is recommended. The place to call for details is the Community Center at 429 Cherry St., West Newton, 244-2260.

New classes begin Thursday, April 6, and there will be a special morning session on May 4, 11, 18 and 25.

Newton Man Helps Plan Big Real Estate Dinner

Levi, Newton Centre; Assistant Secretary: Mrs. Herbert Messon, Newton Centre; Treasurer: Mrs. Walter Tebbets, Waban; Assistant Treasurer: Mrs. John B. Palen, Auburndale.

The six new directors appointed were as follows: Mrs. Frank Quinn, Newton Lower Falls; Mrs. Robert Elder, Newton Centre; Mrs. William Saville, Waban; Mrs. Alfred Ginsberg, Newton; Mrs. J. Ernest Smith, West Newton; Mr. Robert Schaefer, West Newton.

Dr. Count D. Gibson, professor of Medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine spoke about the Columbia Point Health Center of which he is General Director.

This community Health Center is staffed by pediatricians, internists, nurses, and social service care and serves 350 families who live at Columbia Point. The Community Health Center is a definite need in the future with the disappearance of the family doctor.

Laura Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard I. Kaplan, 1451 Beacon St., Waban, is one of three freshmen elected to serve a four-year term on the Curriculum Committee of Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y. This committee comprises students, faculty members and the Dean, and meets each week to evaluate the courses at the college. Miss Kaplan was graduated from Newton High School in 1966.

MRS. JOSEPH BLOOM

Mrs. Bloom Is Made Chairman In Newton Area

Mrs. Joseph Bloom of 82 Sharpe Rd., Newton Center, has been named chairman of the Women's Division drive for Newton in behalf of the 1967 Appeal of the Combined Jewish Philanthropies of Greater Boston, according to an announcement by Mrs. David B. Stearns, general campaign chairman for the Women's Division.

The Women's Division is responsible for contacting women for their 'plus gift' — a gift made to CJF independently of those made by their husbands.

The 1967 Appeal, which is now underway and will continue through the first weeks in May, will seek to raise $6,454,000 on behalf of more than 75 local, national, and overseas agencies in the fields of health, education, group work, family welfare, and community relations.

TRIO TALLY TICKET TOTALS—Advance requests for tickets to the annual Pops Concert to be sponsored by the Women's Committee, Massachusetts Kidney Foundation at Symphony Hall, Saturday evening, May 20, bring joyful smiles to officials of the concert committee. Left to right are Mrs. Harvey Fleishman, chairman of hostesses; Mrs. Herbert Carver, chairman of reservations; and Mrs. Robert Hurwitz, co-chairman of hostesses, all of Newton.

Hancock ORT Chapter Sets April Dance

Tax —

But he also emphasized that the city "must recognize the full potential of the uses permitted within an area zoned for apartments and commercial purposes."

In polite fashion, the Mayor reminded the Aldermen that they had turned down petitions for the erection of apartment buildings which he considered were not out of character with the areas in which it was proposed to locate them.

Planning Director James A. Miller supplemented the Mayor's remarks with charts showing the city's anticipated expenditures in the future and the sources from which money might be obtained to pay the bills.

Miller declared that any hope that the city can obtain new revenue by broadening its own tax base would "require affirmative zone changes by the Board of Aldermen."

"However," he continued, "there are a few areas in which I feel that the executive department of the city should become involved, and that is in the larger scale developments such as the air rights or perhaps guide and assist in the proper development of such large tracts of land as what we call the Sylvania land and perhaps the study of future development of the balance of the Norumbega Park land."

The Mayor also asserted that there is a need in Newton "for middle-income apartment houses for the citizens of the city, especially for the older citizens who have spent a lifetime in Newton and now, with their children having grown, find it necessary to sell their larger houses and move out of Newton into one of the adjoining communities that can provide apartment living for them."

"We in Newton must learn to accept some of these changes which can be accomplished without materially affecting the character of our neighborhoods or community," Mayor Basbas maintained.

few facts that I think I should bring forward to you in order to remind us that we have committed ourselves to heavy support of education in the city. For example, in 1955 the tax rate of $46.80 per thousand was divided for the following purposes: $17.35 for schools, operating costs and school maintenance and $29.45 for all other departments.

"In 1966," Mayor Basbas continued, "just 12 years later, the tax rate was $72.20 with $41.66 for school operating costs and school maintenance and $30.54 for all other departments. In other words, in that period of time of approximately 12 years, the total tax rate increase was $25.40 or percentage wise it was 54.27 per cent."

"At the conclusion of the talk by Mayor Basbas and Planning Director Miller, the members of the Aldermanic Claims and Rules met to consider the Pentland petition seeking the right to erect office buildings in Newton Lower Falls.

Mayor Basbas in his talk pointed to the sharp increase in the cost of operating Newton's public school system.

"As we review with you this evening, primarily the capital improvement program," he said, "you will note that by far the greatest percentage of projects proposed are for school purposes," he said.

"I would again reiterate my complete support of the philosophy that our school system should be, as it has been, one of the finest school systems in the country," the Mayor continued.

"There are, nevertheless, a

"We can anticipate, however, continued increases in salaries and wages as the cost of living increases across the country, and we must compete for the services of these people on the open market, so to speak," the Mayor said.

"Events that occurred during the past several months," the Mayor declared, "such as the collective bargaining experience, a review of the capital improvement program, further action on the part of the State and a review of our own financial condition, are really what inspired me to call you together to seek your assistance in studying our future development," Mayor Basbas told his listeners.

"I was concerned, for example, that during the year 1966, there has been an increase in assessed valuation over the previous year of only approximately $1,416,550, which is one of the lowest sums of new assessed valuation in any year for the past dozen or so.

"I worried about the $250,000 extra assessment that the City of Newton was hit with in August of last year which was not incorporated in the cherry sheet given to us in May, and I wondered what the assessment from the State might be this coming year," Mayor Basbas asserted.

"In discussing the need for the most suitable development of certain areas of the city, Mayor Basbas said he is concerned about the Newton five years from today.

"Where will the tax rate be if we continue to demand the greatest in services and all the new structures and the new items indicated in our capital improvement program without providing for a broadened tax base?

"During the past year I have submitted many applications to Washington for federal funds, but to date we are still waiting. State assistance is insufficient," the Mayor contended.

2 To Attend Hub Conclave

Forest Davidson, president of Long's Jewelers, and Donald Bethany, formerly of Wellesley Hills and now manager of Long's Chestnut Hill Store, will attend the 33rd Annual Conclave of the American Gem Society, April 1 to 4, in Boston.

Both Mr. Davidson and Mr. Bethany hold the title of Certified Gemologist, American Gem Society, which is an organization of 2,000 jewelers in the United States and Canada that meets the exacting standards regarding ethics and gemological knowledge.

Organized in 1919, the Daughters of the British Empire in the United States of America supports four Homes in the U.S. (in New York, Florida, Illinois and California) for aged men and women of British birth or parentage who are residents or citizens of the United States. In the name of the DBE, the Organization also works with community efforts in its particular locale.

Guest speaker for the meeting will be Mrs. Edith Clapp of Needham. Mrs. Clapp, formerly of Rutherford, N.J., was an active member of the New Jersey DBE. State Board during the time the Eastern District Home (Victoria Home) was on Staten Island, N.Y., and when negotiations were made for the purchase of the present Home in Ossining, New York, from the McAlpin family.

She will speak to Mass. DBE members about those early, history-making times of the DBE here in the East. Today there are DBE Chapters in some 44 states in the country. Anyone interested in the organization and its work, please contact Mrs. Francis H. Achard, 332-0023, or Organizing Secretary Mrs. George B. Rowlings, 37 School St., Weston, TW 4-6494. Reservations for the luncheon may also be obtained by calling Mrs. Rowlings before March 31, if possible.

Officers (whose terms expire in April 1968) are: President Mrs. Francis H. Achard; 1st V.P., Mrs. Louis Charles Stein; 2nd V.P., Mrs.

British Empire Daughters Annual Meeting April 7th

Mrs. George B. Rowlings of Weston, has set April 7th at 12:30 p.m. at the Pillar House, Newton Lower Falls as the date, time and place for the 29th Annual luncheon and meeting of the Daughters of the British Empire in Massachusetts. Mrs. Rowlings and Mrs. Austin A. Chute of Sudbury; Organizing Secretary and Registrar, Mrs. George B. Rowlings of Weston; and Standard Bearer, Mrs. Laura L. Witter of Newton Highlands.

Conducting the meeting will be State President of the Society, Mrs. Francis H. Achard of Newton Centre. Officers of the State Board presenting their annual reports will be Mrs. Herbert B. Dwight of Newton, recording secretary; Mrs. Austin Chute of Sudbury, treasurer; Mrs. George B. Rowlings of Weston, organizing secretary.

Mrs. Francis H. Achard, president, will report for the Eastern District Board and outline activities in store for the national annual meeting of the DBE, in the U.S.A. to be held in Detroit, Mich., April 30 through May 4. Mrs. Achard plans to attend this meeting to represent Massachusetts as State President and voting Delegate.

Annual reports will be heard from the State's four Chapters, these to be given by the respective Regents: For Hampton Court Chapter in Brookline, Mrs. Arthur G. Merwin; for Temple Court, Mrs. Herbert B. Dwight; for Maritime Chapter, Mrs. Alex B. Wallace, Jr., and for Wedgewood Chapter on Nantucket Island, Mrs. Austin A. Chute will read Mrs. Matthew Jaekle's report.

During his more than 200 hours, he learned about weapons and combat techniques from combat veteran instructors. They taught him how to conduct combat patrols, detect and remove mines and booby traps and use the standard Marine Corps infantry weapons.

He will now receive at least four weeks of specialist training before being assigned to his first permanent unit. Marines going to combat units will get detailed training in the particular combat skills they are designated for. Those who are going into technical fields will receive their advanced training at one of a variety of technical schools throughout the country.

HIGHLAND GLEE CLUB GIVES SPRING CONCERT APRIL 7TH

The Highland Glee Club, the well-known 50-voice men's chorus, will give a Spring Concert at the Newton Highlands Congregational Church Parish Hall on Friday evening, April 7th, at 8 p.m. under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Group.

In charge of arrangements are the Ways & Means Committee chairman, Mrs. George P. Bolles, and her committee members, Mrs. Alice T. Hatch, Mrs. Clifford W. Rust, Mrs. Herbert W. Gleim and Mrs. Ralph W. Kellaway, assisted by the officers: Mrs. Harold L. Burrill, president; Miss Doris L. Hayward, vice-president; Mrs. Anna Nassif, secretary; and Mrs. Alice T. Hatch, treasurer.

Proceeds will advance the community and church projects of the Group. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

The Highland Glee Club, now the oldest musical organization in Newton, gave its first public concert in March 1909 in the Newton Highlands church. George H. Wright was its president from 1923 to 1963, and D. Ralph MacLean was musical director from 1923 to 1958.

Under the long leadership of these men the club rose to its present position of prominence in the musical community of Boston. A charter member of the New England Federation of Men's Glee Clubs, the Club participates in their annual singing contests, winning the grand prize ten times.

They have established a music scholarship, and they encourage young artists by engaging them as soloists for the Club concerts.

The present director, Robert C. Prince, has won the enthusiastic confidence of the singers by his intelligent and perceptive approach to the music, as has also the accompanist, David M. Arner. The president, George F. Brewer, has been a member of the Glee Club since 1926 and an officer during many of these years.

Queen's Lunch To Hear Singers Next Wednesday

The Suburban Singers, under the direction of Mrs. Irving Fanger of Brookline, will present a special program entitled "One World In Song" at the Queen's Luncheon of Sisterhood Mishkan Tefila on Wednesday, April 5th.

Attired in national costume, they will sing a series of folksongs from various countries of the world. Although well-known for their singing at many local functions, the group is presenting this particular program for the first time in Greater Boston.

Young Sammy Morse will talk on his experiences, illustrated with slides he had taken himself, during the year he spent in New Zealand and Australia while his father, Professor Morse of Northeastern University, taught in New Zealand as guest professor.

To further illustrate his talk, the young lecturer will exhibit boomerangs and other objects of interest which he has collected.

All children six years old and up are cordially invited to attend the library program and share Sammy Morse's experiences.

HIGHLANDS CLUB AMERICAN HOME DAY WEDNESDAY

American Home Day for the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands — an all-day meeting — will be held Wednesday, Apr. 5, from 10:45 in the morning to 3 in the afternoon, in the Columbia St. Workshop.

At 11 a.m., Jeanne Ambuter, First National Stores food consultant, will present "Heritage Cooking," a program featuring spectacular food, and recipes.

After lunch, there will be a short business session, followed by "Color Correlations," a program dealing with interesting fabrics presented by Mrs. Margo Cabanne of Mayflower Furniture Company, West Newton.

HEADLIGHTS AND HIGHLIGHTS FROM NEWTON SOUTH HIGH

By JAMES SHULMAN

The finale of a hard fought winter sporting season for Newton South High School was held last week when the Clawing Lions received their well deserved letters at the winter sports assembly.

Mr. William Geer, Jr., principal of Newton South, said that the recognition, effort and achievement of the students are a great contribution to the school.

Varsity basketball coach, Mr. Warren Bechtold, thanked Elliot Hartstone, the "Johnny Most" of Newton South. Mr. Bechtold also thanked Mr. Knapman, Mr. Poskit, Mr. McConnell, student managers, and a special tribute was given to the cheerleaders.

Students on the Sophomore basketball team who received Newton South letters are: Richard Arons, Bob Bakerman, Malcomb Becker, Rick Black, Howard Blank, Stuart Chasen, Lew Friedman, Barry Kraft, Fred Landy, Bill Levine, David Long, John Lopez, Jeff Newman, Bill Starr.

The Sophomore team had a rough start, but as the season progressed the team picked up momentum and had very good showings during the latter part of the season.

Mr. Youngblood, coach of the Junior Varsity basketball team, said "the J.V. was an exciting team to coach and watch." He thanked Joe Brodsky, this year's captain and he praised the three sophomores who played on the Junior Varsity team: Cliff Greene, Stuart Silverman, and Ken Stewart. The other J.V. dribblers are: Alan Berkowitz, Howard Gillis, Irving Huston, Bob Saltsberg, Herb Snyder.

Steve Cooper this year's Varsity basketball team captain, was third in the league in scoring, set a new school rebounding record for Newton South, was selected to the all league basketball team, and received Newton South's Second Effort Award.

The Second Effort Award is given on the basis of the most points a player compiles in a season by making an assist, causing a turnover of the ball, intercepting pass, double teaming a man, and rebounding.

The high scoring players on the Varsity basketball team are: Paul Brissette, Lee Casty, Jeff Cohen, Steve Cooper, Richard Ginsberg, Steve Gordon, Ken Isaacs, Bobby Levine, Steve Lampert, Skip Novick, and Bob Whittlesey. Next year's Varsity captain is going to be Bob Levine.

Newton South's wrestling team boasted an 8-2 record and three undefeated wrestlers, who are: Herb Buchine, Lou DiFazio, and David Sellinger. The Matmen also had three winners in the District Championship who are: Neal Applebaum, Lou DiFazio and David Sellinger.

For the second year in a row Newton South has come home with the Most Outstanding Wrestler Award, this year won by Lou DiFazio, who finished third in the state in his weight class. Lou

BOYS' CLUBBERS TAKE OVER NEWTON CITY HALL APRIL 6

City officials will step down for a day and turn their offices over to the Youth of the City on April 6. "Boys' Day in Government" will begin at 9 a.m. To Go — A Way To Grow.

He reminded Newton residents that the Boys' Club of America, a National movement since 1906, is a federation of more than 700 clubs dedicated to the development of character and citizenship in over 700,000 members.

"The Newton Boys' Club is affiliated with the Boys' Clubs of America, and is serving the boys of Newton on an everyday, every boy, non-profit, non-sectarian basis," the proclamation noted.

Hospital Alumnae To Hold Annual Institute

Nursing education and nursing service today is the theme of the annual institute to be held next Wednesday, April 5, by the alumnae of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing.

At 9:30 a.m. in the hospital's nursing residence, graduates of the school and guests will hear greetings from Miss Anna Helfer, R.N., of Brookline, president of the alumnae group that comprises over 2000 graduates.

The morning program, beginning at 10 will investigate nursing education today.

Participating in a panel discussion will be Mrs. John Hanron, M.S., instructor at the Boston College school of nursing; Miss Virginia Allen, M.A., chairman of the nursing program at Newton Junior College; Miss Eleanor Gaffney, M.S., director of nursing at Lemuel Shattuck Hospital; and Miss Elizabeth Ketchen, M.S., assistant director of the Newton-Wellesley Hospital school of nursing.

A noon luncheon will be followed by a glimpse into the future of Newton-Wellesley Hospital. Hospital director William S. Brines will describe a new patient service wing to be added to the hospital beginning this year, as well as the broadening scope of the hospital's educational activities.

In addition to being the newest formal teaching affiliate of Tufts University School of Medicine, the hospital conducts a school of nursing and schools of medical and radiologic technology. It also is the place where nursing students of Lasell Junior College and Newton Junior College receive much of their clinical instruction and experience.

At 1:45 p.m., Miss Myrtice L. Fuller, M.S., director of nursing service and nursing education at the 250-bed hospital, will review highlights of the past year in the nursing department.

At 2:15 p.m., the program will investigate nursing service today.

Speakers will be Mrs. Marilyn Prouty, M.S., assistant director of nursing at Newton-Wellesley Hospital, and Miss Helen A. Smith, M.S., nursing supervisor.

Chairman of the annual institute is Mrs. Henry Powicki, R.N. Luncheon reservations can be made by telephoning her at 653-1294.

The Newton-Wellesley Hospital School of Nursing was established 79 years ago, in 1888. Enrollment presently averages 150 students.

The hospital was founded 85 years ago, in 1881.

Miss Carol Taylor Is Bride Of Newton C. Churchill, Jr.

A pretty candlelight wedding was that of Miss Carol Anne Taylor of Needham, formerly of Dedham, to Mr. Newton Collins Churchill, Jr., of Guilford, Conn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Taylor of 50 Mayflower road, Needham. Her husband is the son of Mrs. Eugenia O. Churchill and the late Newton C. Churchill, Sr.

The single ring, one o'clock ceremony took place on Saturday afternoon, March 18, in St. Paul's Church, Cambridge. A reception followed at the Harvard Club.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of white crewel embroidery over net designed in chapel length. Her chapel length veil was attached to a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis and sweethearts roses.

Mrs. Richard West Hynes (the former Janet Taylor) of Needham was matron of honor for her sister.

Serving as best man was Mr. James Moore of Hingham, and ushers included the bride's brother, Dr. Elliot Taylor of Boston, as well as Mr. Richard West Hynes of Needham, brother-in-law of the bride.

The couple left for a honeymoon trip to the Virgin Islands.

The bride is a graduate of Dedham High School and Smith College. Mr. Churchill, a graduate of Yale University, served as a jet pilot for the U.S. Navy for four years.

Miss Cheryl Anne Harris Wed To Mr. Paul Reynolds

Saint Joseph's Church, Needham, was the setting for the recent wedding of Miss Cheryl Anne Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Harris of 955 Webster street, Needham, to Mr. Paul Michael Reynolds, son of Mrs. Terrence Reynolds of 110 Harvard street, Dedham.

Rev. Daniel Hickey officiated at the double ring, 11 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Lakewood Country Club, Natick.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Rochelle lace designed with a basque bodice, Sabrina neckline, long tapered sleeves, and four tiered bouffant skirt. The cathedral train was headed with sequins.

Her three-tiered imported silk illusion veil was fashioned of elbow length and caught to a crown of sequins and pearls.

Barbara Simpkins of Needham was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Kathleen

Poll Shows Mixed Opinion On Office Sports Clothes

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI)—Burton D. Ruby is happy. T. Thomas Gurtner is resigned to the inevitable. Carmel Meyers is horrified. John Weitz thinks it isn't necessarily too bad. George Cohen thinks suits are better. And Bill Ullman was actually wearing a sports jacket and slacks.

The question concerned the lowering of another barrier in the men's clothing industry—the wearing of sports jackets and slacks to an office. The opinions came out in a private survey conducted by Bud Ruby and at a panel discussion at the recent meeting of the American Institute of Men's and boy's Wear.

Ruby is happy because he is president of Jaymar-Ruby, Inc., a leading slacks manufacturer. His survey carried out in the Chicago area showed 60 per cent of the companies permit sports jackets at work, but 55 per cent impose restrictions, usually a demand for a coat and jacket and slacks.

Miss Meyers, still attractive at her uncertain age (she once starred opposite Rudolph Valentino), is president of Carmel Meyers, Inc., which manufacturers colognes for men. Her opinion expressed with firmness and heat was that wearing a sports jacket to work is objectionable beyond belief.

"One really cannot be a gentleman and wear sports jacket to work," she said.

Gurtner is fashion director of the AIMBW and as such he believes in the proper clothes for the proper occasion. Sports clothes at the office certainly is not proper he said.

"It is happening," he conceded, "but it is wrong. I will bet that New York is the last to go." Gurtner lives in New York.

Cohen is chief designer for Michael Stern Clothing Co., of Rochester, N. Y. and President of the International Association of Clothing Designers. He was pretty lukewarm about the idea but thought it might be all right if the sports jacket and slacks looked like a suit.

Ullman, a former editor on Men's Wear Magazine and a consultant to the Menswear Retailers of America, was brought up in the old fashioned newspaper school where "none of us could afford a suit—we had to mix things up." But he believes it should all be done with quiet conservatism.

"To slip on over most anything." That's the promise with high-fashion togs from Helen Cookman, executive director of the Clothing Research Development Foundation. The Foundation, to help you comprehend the promise, is dedicated to encouraging manufacture of chic clothes for the handicapped—ranging from those with missing limbs to those with paralyzed limbs. Miss Cookman offers, for example, a prettyfore, a polka dotted top for a school age girl. It is worn under a rain or shine coat. Both come in blue polka dots. Manufactured by Gay Sprites, the togs are especially easy to put on by a handicapped child. Meanwhile, for a woman who must wrestle with clothes while in a wheelchair or handling crutches, Dorothy Cox, designing for Tanner of North Carolina, comes up with a colorful floral print shifty shirtwaist dress—belted or not. It goes over "most everything" says Miss Cookman.

Weitz, who designs both sports clothing (including polka dot resort suits) and suits, agreed there was a trend toward informality in men's clothing. He was properly appalled at the thought of white shirts with sports jacket but conceded that trim non-flamboyant sports clothes could be worn to work.

As for the survey, bankers demanded the executives wear suits. "We're a bank," one bank spokesman said. "We must look business-like and trustworthy."

The more liberal businesses are transportation, retail merchants, insurance companies and wholesale men. And 55 per cent of them imposed restrictions. "The sports jackets must be cut like a business suit jacket," said an insurance company. "The colors must be dark and business-like in cut and color. Of course, white shirt and tie."

"The so-called white collar worker can be considerably better dressed if he is allowed to wear conservative sports wear," Ruby said.

But with a white shirt? "Over our dead body."

Facilities are being improved so the parks can be used not only for a day's picnic, but for weekend or longer camping trips. Special government agencies were created to build refuges, tables, benches, cooking grills, sanitary facilities and recreation equipment.

The gamut of Mexican climatic conditions is run by the parks, some located in areas that include snow-covered mountain peaks, while others are located deep in tropical regions.

7th Annual Family Living Conference Here Tomorrow

The Seventh Annual Conference on Family Living, sponsored by the Massachusetts Branch of the American Mothers Committee, Inc., will be held on March 31 at Lasell Junior College.

Presiding at the all-day meeting will be Mrs. Lawrence Jasper, state president of the American Mothers Committee and National Vice-President at Large.

The morning session, beginning with a coffee hour at 9:30 and registration at 10:00, will be highlighted by the presentation of guests of honor. These will include Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, national president, American Mothers Committee, Inc.; Mrs. John B. Lyte, Rhode Island, regional chairman of the Young Mothers Council Service.

The latter will then preside at a demonstration of the Young Mothers Council Service. Members of the panel will be Mrs. Richard Jasper, Mrs. E. Tyler Parkhurst, 1966 Massachusetts Mother, presiding. Representing the Jewish faith will be Mrs. David Silverman, Worcester. Mrs. Orazio Vaccaro, Auburndale, president of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, will present the Catholic faith.

The Protestant faith will be outlined by Mrs. Frederick Bliss of Plymouth.

Speakers during the morning session will be Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, national president, American Mothers Committee, Inc.; and Mrs. Daniel K. Poling, national chairman of the Young Mothers Council Service.

The latter will give brief resumes of the purpose and meaning of the Council, and tell of ways in which such groups can strengthen the moral and spiritual foundations of the home.

After luncheon at the college, the Conference will reconvene at 2:15. At this time the Hon. Loitman Barron, Judge in the Boston Courts and former National American Mother, will speak on "The Home in a Changing World."

The Annual Meeting of the Massachusetts Branch of the American Mothers Committee will then be called to order, and Mrs. Jasper will call on the nominating committee to present the slate of officers for 1967-1968.

These are President—Mrs. E. Tyler Parkhurst; 1st Vice-president—Mrs. E. James Leonard; 2nd Vice-president—Mrs. David B. Silverman; Exec. Sect'y—Mrs. Ralph G. Swain; Recording Sect'y—Mrs. William White; Corresponding Sect'y—Mrs. William Bergan; Treasurer—Mrs. Elwyn Wright.

All interested women in the community are invited to attend either morning or afternoon sessions. There will be no registration charge.

Tenley Albright, Now A Surgeon, Plans A Party

Big and little sisters of the Greater Boston Big Sister Association shared the excitement and joys of ice skating last Monday evening, Mar. 27, at a special party at the Boston Skating Club, an event planned by a former Newton resident, Dr. Tenley Albright Gardiner, honorary Big Sister chairman.

As Tenley Albright, she won renown as a figure skating champion. She was Olympic champion in 1956, world and North American champion in 1953 and 1956, and U.S. champion from 1952 to 1956.

Now married to Tudor Gardiner and mother of two young daughters, she is a practicing surgeon, associated with her father, Dr. Hollis Albright of Newton. She was recently named among the "Top Ten in Newton" by Fred Foye, Boston sports writer.

The Big Sister Association started in 1950, when a group banded together with the idea of giving needed friendship to young girls, each Big Sister volunteering to be a special friend of one youngster to be called her Little Sister. The Big Sister is required to pass one day a week with the little one in an activity pleasing to both.

Little Sisters are referred to or other social agencies.

In Newton there are both Big and Little Sisters. The Big Sisters here include: Mrs. Alice Batchelor, Miss June Carmel, Miss Lydia Ciccone, Miss Rosalind Fuller, Mrs. Dorothy Gibson, Miss Helen Kupman, Miss Charlotte McCallough, Miss Carolyn Morse and Mrs. Marie Resnick.

The Big Sister office welcomes inquiries from women interested in volunteering or in learning more about the movement. They may get in touch with the Boston office at 73 Tremont St., or call LA 3-5426.

Wheelock Head To Give Ethical Society Talk

Dr. Margaret Merry, president of Wheelock College, will address the Ethical Society of Boston, 5 Commonwealth Ave., on Sunday, April 2, at 11 a.m. The subject of her address will be "The Education of Women."

The Ethical Society of Boston is a part of a universal religion, "Ethical Humanism," and draws its members from all religious backgrounds, creeds and races. The common bond among members is a mutual concern for the problems of mankind. Regular talks and discussions are held each Sunday at 11 a.m. by speakers from such fields as education, politics and social welfare, to give the members and the interested public an opportunity to consider more thoughtfully the quality of their personal relationships and the nature of their responsibilities to society.

Further information about the society may be obtained from treasurer, John Weaver, at 332-8092.

Needs Of New Day School In Report Sent To Board

An interim report on the needs for the new Frank A. Day Junior High School was delivered to the School Committee Monday night and sent by the Committee to city officials.

On hand to answer questions about the report was Ernest V. Seasholes, assistant to F. A. Day principal Ralph H. Morse. Seasholes, who is earning his doctor's degree at Harvard University, has acted as coordinator for the Day faculty members who have collaborated in an effort to foresee educational development that might serve as guidelines for the architect who will design the new school.

The School Committee voiced its praise for effort that had gone into the bulky report, which according to School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier, contained 173 pages.

Their vote to transmit the report stressed its interim character and that they endorsed only what School Committeeman Edwin Hawkridge termed "the broad educational philosophy of increased individual attention."

Questions directed to Superintendent of Schools Charles E. Brown and Seasholes were mainly aimed at pinpointing the practical effects of ideas contained in the report on the building.

Dr. Brown remarked: "We asked the Day faculty to think together. This is a statement of philosophy and needs of junior high school education and of the Day School in particular as they envisage them. We hope you understand that they realize and we realize that not everything contained in the report will find its way into the new building.

"We didn't want to limit them, but rather to present the architect with a wide variety of points of view. We are very much aware that considerable work will follow with the architect and that we will have to come back to you with the results," Brown added.

School Committeeman Francis P. Frazier congratulated Seasholes on "this exhaustive and exhausting time. I don't go along with everything," Frazier commented. "Some requirements are just too much at this particular time. I was very interested in the philosophy expressed and I disagree with some points." Frazier quoted the report which affirmed that it is of the essence of educational thought to shed singular ideologies and that morality should be based on individual standards. Frazier contended that ideology was not sufficiently defined in the document and that not all ideologies were bad. He added that if the report means that "every person sets the standard for his own code of ethics, this would lead to anarchy."

School Committeeman Chairman Harold J. Berman cautioned Seasholes: "We must recognize that with a program this flexible, this broad, that we are putting ourselves in the hands of the architect. Now this might be a good way of building a house; the different members of the family could tell the architect what they wanted, and the architect would come back with something that would reflect all of their needs. But there will have to be a very close relationship with the architect."

Committeeman Hawkridge expressed some doubt as to whether the kinds and extent of activities recommended in the report could be made to fit into a school day. "The groups of teachers have not been modest in their demands for time," Hawkridge remarked. I wonder if you have tried to schedule all these things."

To Seasholes' admission that the Day teachers had not attempted to work out a plan which would encompass all the things they felt should be included in future junior high education, Hawkridge observed: "My question was a little bit facetious. I do not mean to deprecate the effort that has gone into preparing this report, and I do think that the school day is going to increase. But it is a standard way of planning to try to fit all of your demands into some kind of a matrix."

In more specific areas, committee woman Mrs. Grace C. Whitmore asked Seasholes if the individual attention stressed in the report would require an office for each teacher. Seasholes replied: "As someone who has been a teacher at South High School, I can say that the teachers would like this very much. It is very important psychologically. It would give the teachers a space of their own which they don't have now, when they are shunted about the school."

"Certainly relations between teachers and pupils are going to change," Dr. Brown commented. "It is inconceivable that the only pupil-teacher relationships are those that the teachers have with groups of 20 to 30 pupils. In order to give individual attention, a variety of different kinds of spaces are necessary. It is neither realistic nor practical to ask teachers to carry on individual attention in the present large cubicles we call classrooms. That does not necessarily mean that each teacher will have an office of his or her own," Dr. Brown said.

In answer to a query by Chairman Berman, Seasholes stated that "there will be much more individual space in terms of carrels for stu-

CREDIT CARDS A BOON?
DON'T LET 'EM GO TO THE MOON!

"You'll probably agree with me that credit cards are a great boon — both for traveling and shopping," says Mrs. Rosalie Hurwitz, bookkeeper for Newton's Alfred E. Fuller Insurance Agency. "But did you ever think what might happen if those precious cards were to fall into the wrong hands? That's why we suggest that our clients protect themselves by adding credit card coverage to their Homeowner Policies. It costs little and pays big dividends in peace of mind."

A resident of Newtonville and mother of three Newton school students, Mrs. Hurwitz not only keeps the Fuller Agency's books but also supervises all Fuller customer accounts, helping us to give up-to-the-minute service at all times.

Free Swim Lessons For Youngsters At YMCA

Newton YMCA will hold its Annual free 'Learn to Swim' Campaign, beginning Monday, Apr. 17, according to James H. Rogers, chairman of the Physical Education Committee.

The classes are free to all boys and girls who are non-swimmers only, and will begin on Monday and continue for five consecutive days, ending Apr. 21.

The boys and girls will learn to swim at the Newton YMCA pool, which boasts beautiful clear water, especially lowered for the campaign. Ages will be accepted from 8 to 15 years.

The registration form appearing in this paper is your means of entering your boy or girl for the free lessons.

All that a parent need do is to fill out the registration blank and mail it to Newton YMCA, 276 Church St., by the closing date of Apr. 10.

The child will be placed in a class according to his or her age and notified when to appear at the YMCA for classes.

Classes for girls will be held each morning, Monday through Friday, and the boys each afternoon. All that is needed by the children is a towel and bathing suit and caps for girls.

YMCAs all over the country are conducting Swimming Campaigns during the month of April. The YMCA has been a pioneer in teaching both children and adults to swim for health, safety, and recreation.

Learning to swim is one of the best life insurance policies you can give your child and it's all FREE at the Newton YMCA Learn to Swim Campaign.

Clip the blank and mail it today! Don't wait! Registrations must be in the mail by Monday, April 10.

Music School To Conduct Final Concert Of Series

The Parent's Association of the All Newton Music School, Mrs. John Reichard president will present the final concert in its chamber music April 2 at 8 p.m. when Elizabeth Epstein soprano of Newton will be featured in a program which will include selections from the music of Bach, Handel, Schumann and Etler. Playing with Mrs. Epstein will be Louis Bagger, harpsichord, Ira Deutsch, oboe, Friedrich von Huene, recorder, and Myron Press, at the piano.

These concerts are open to the public and will be held in the concert hall of the All Newton Music School, 321 Chestnut Street, West Newton.

Mrs. Epstein studied at the Royal Academy of Music in London where she won a prize enabling her to spend three years at the State Academy in Vienna. She has performed extensively in Europe and has recently been heard in concert at Brandeis University, the Loeb Drama Center at Harvard and the Gardner Museum.

Louis Bagger, harpsichord was a student of Ralph Kirkpatrick, at the Yale Music School and received a MFA from Princeton University. He has performed with the New York Baroque Ensemble and for the Boston Opera Company. Mr. Bagger taught at the Manhattan School of Music and is currently on the faculty of Brandeis University. Ira Deutsch, oboe, received his masters degree at the New England Conservatory.

He was a winner of the Fromm fellowship at Tanglewood which is given to encourage the performance of contemporary music. Mr. Deutsch who is a substitute oboe player with the BSO has performed with chamber musical and orchestral groups and is at the present on the faculty of the New England Conservatory and the All Newton Music School.

Friedrich von Huene, recorder, in addition to performing extensively in the Boston area, designs and builds recorders. He has performed with the Camerata of the Museum of Fine Arts and currently holds a Guggenheim grant for the investigation of old woodwind instruments in the United States and Europe. Mr. von Huene has been a member of the faculty of the Longy School of Music, Interlaken, Mich., Goddard College and the All Newton Music School.

Myron Press, piano, is one of the best known accompanists in New England and has a degree from the New England Conservatory. He has been accompanist in concerts throughout the New England area and toured with Columbia Artists. He is currently on the faculty of the Brookline Music School, Lowell State College and the All Newton Music School.

A limited number of tickets for this performance are available from the chairman of the Chamber Music Committee, Mrs. Thomas Morris, 244-1430 or Mrs. Robert Buxbaum.

Dr. Gilmore reported on his study in an article, "Parental Counseling and Academic Achievement," which appeared in the recent issue of the School's Journal of Education. The issue explored the question of counselor involvement and responsibility.

Dr. Gilmore conducted a 15-week study at Meadowbrook Junior High School in Newton. Fifteen students entering the ninth grade with an approximate eighth grade average of C were chosen.

The parents of six of the children were asked to come in for weekly counseling. The children themselves were not counseled.

At the end of the first marking period in November, there was a noticeable improvement in the records of all but one of these six children. By the end of the third period their marks had changed in the following manner: while none of the group had received an A in the eighth grade, a small number (six per cent) of A's was now recorded. The percentage of B's had climbed from 14 to 58. The percentage of C's dropped from 72 to 33, and D's plummeted from 14 to 3.

For the group whose parents received no counseling, the marks at the end of the same period showed that A's made up only one per cent of the total grades. Their percentages of B's was almost one-third lower, and for C's almost one and one-half times higher. They also had three times the percentages of D's.

At the end of the school year, the average mark in all subjects for the group with counseled parents was B. The non-counseled group retained its C average.

The counseled group had some spectacular improvements such as the boy who jumped from a D in eighth grade mathematics to an A in mathematics at the end of the ninth grade.

A similar but larger study conducted this year at Meadowbrook Junior High School points in the same direction of improved academic achievement for children whose parents receive counseling. In this recent study 22 parents were seen weekly.

Although the results have not yet been tabulated, approximately 80 per cent of the parents have reported that their child is doing better in school and that he is investing more time and effort in his studies. All of these parents felt that the entire family had profited from these conferences and enthusiastically approved of the direct approach used by the counselor.

In June, these students will be compared with a similar group whose parents have not been counseled.

In his report, Dr. Gilmore mentioned several syndromes characterizing families of low achievers. They include the "don't-spoil-your-child" syndrome; the "double bind" situation where the parent tells a child one thing at one moment and something different the next; the "yo-yo" syndrome in which the insecure and alienated parent showers attention and affection on the child but later pushes him away when he needs affection; the "do-it-yourself" syndrome; the "be-what-you-want-to-be" and "ask-your-mother" syndromes.

Parents displaying the "don't-spoil-your-child syndrome," avoid praising their child in the mistaken belief that praise weakens motivation. But psychological studies show that the more a child is rewarded by praise, the more motivated he is to achieve.

And even if the child "does nothing correctly," as many such parents indicate, he can still be praised for being a wonderful person. Approval should be shown by physical expressions of affection.

The "double bind" syndrome is reflected in such statements as "The trouble with you is that you have too much done for you," followed a short time later by "Let me do this for you because I want to help you." Such conflicting attitudes produce a feeling of helplessness and a kind of paralysis in the child, and becomes apparent in school work that is characterized by a lack of direction and goals. Similarly inconsistent behavior in the "yo-yo" syndrome leaves the child prone to anxieties.

The "do-it-yourself" syndrome shows itself particularly in regard to homework and many parents unwillingness to help with it. Dr. Gilmore believes that education is moving at such a rapid tempo and becoming such a vast undertaking that parents must assist the school in the child's development.

It is not unfair, dishonest or unethical for a parent to discuss projects and reading assignments and to help with preparation for tests, he says. "Not to help the child with his homework is just as absurd as saying that one refuses to hold the hand of a child when he is learning to walk because he will be on his own later on," Dr. Gilmore said. The child interprets this lack of assistance as indifference. He is frequently correct.

The "be-what-you-want-to-be" syndrome is also interpreted as a lack of caring. A child feels more comfortable when he has guidelines for behavior, when he knows what is expected of him and what behavior will be rewarded.

The "ask-your-mother" syndrome frequently results from lack of agreement between parents about goals and communication with the child. In these cases, the father should be encouraged to take a more active role and assume more responsibility and interest in family affairs and the future of his children. If he doesn't, he is not furnishing the quality of leadership the family needs. And he is not providing good role models which his sons can identify.

The low-achiever himself can be identified by certain characteristics. He does not seem to have a clear sense of self, or to know what he really wants. He is easily hurt by the criticism of others. He tends to be dependent, prone to anxiety and given to mood swings. In general, the low-achiever's lack of drive, determination and goals results from too little parental warmth, sympathy and affection.

Dr. Gilmore believes that a child's academic record is the best single index of his emotional security and that it can be used to measure his level of functioning. If he is not functioning well, he is, in all probability, not getting the proper ego support at home.

Summer Jobs Drive For Young People Begun

The Division of Employment Security, 290 Centre St., Newton, has started a drive to secure a listing of summer jobs for young people for the summer vacation of 1967.

The summer of 1966 was one of the best summers for youth placement in the history of the D.E.S. Young people are requested to register early because the competition for summer jobs is keen, due to the increased number of young people on the labor market each summer.

Students are accustomed to filling in on a variety of jobs during summer vacation. Employers are urged to get their orders in to the D.E.S. office as soon as possible in the spring season.

Mr. Hyman's topic will be "The Democratic Party in Massachusetts Today." Following the speaking program there will be a question and answer period.

Mr. Regal stated "that all members of the Newton committee, associate members and friends, are invited.

The evening's program committee consists of Dr. Burton D. Levine, chairman, Sidney T. Small, Alderman Paul J. Burke, and Mrs. Joseph Hanigan.

Service-Bound Youths Given Local Sendoff

Eight Newton youths recently inducted into military service were given a sendoff at the draft board center on Boyd St., Newton, by the Newton Servicemen's Committee.

Each was given a traveling bag holding gifts.

The Newton Honor Guard served coffee and doughnuts under the direction of Murdock W. Faser.

They were driven to the Boston Army Base by Lawrence Kadis of Newton Lions Club and Francis L. Howley of Newton Post 48, American Legion.

The inductees were: Eric Branzburg, 343 Cabot St., Newton; Robert Cornish, 31 Larkin Rd., West Newton; Daniel Grella, 12 Clinton St., Newton; Kurt Hertzfield Jr., 39 Sewall St., West Newton; Ralph Campbell, 299 Centre St., Newton; Norman Fritzberg, 137 Washington St., Newton; Pasquale Burera, 297 Webster St., Auburndale, and Joseph Mahoney, 68 Hyde St., Newton Highlands.

Creative Art Works On Display At Free Library

Imaginative oil paintings and ceramics, the creative work of students at the Newton Evening School Art Classes, are now on display at the Newton Free Library, 414 Centre St.

Proud instructors Mrs. Mildred Kingsbury and Miss Barbara Kohler, who have made all arrangements for the show, together with instructors Mrs. Donald R. Smith, Mrs. Marcia Karas and Tom O'Hara, have brought together a lively collection showing the arts and skills which have been accomplished during the academic year by their part-time adult students.

Mrs. Kingsbury, a graduate of Boston University College of Practical Arts, has also studied at Columbia University. She has been Art Consultant in Concord and Wayland and an Evening school instructor in Newton and Brookline. Her Newton Students of oil painting who are represented in this show are Alice Campbell, Saria Cohen, Ruth DeVito, Goldie Dorfman, Margo Driben, Betty Garrett, Lourdes Gonzalez, Debbie Hyslop, Leon Lamprinos, Louise Lutz, Sarah Lehner, Fannie Ostrov, Barbara Sackett, Alvin Sadow, Winifred Smith and Ellen Stephenson.

Guild To Give Awards For Service To Blind

The annual reception and award ceremony for volunteers of the Catholic Guild for All the Blind, sponsored by the Mater Dei Guild, will be held on Sunday afternoon, Apr. 2, at 2:30 o'clock, in the American Center for Research in Blindness and Rehabilitation, 770 Centre street, Newton.

The volunteer program, an integral part of the work of the Guild, provides thousands of hours of services annually to blind persons, the volunteers serving as readers (most of them to blind college students), drivers, guides and visitors.

The program on Sunday will include a Sherry Hour, greetings from Mrs. Gerard Fulham, president of the Mater Dei Guild, and the awarding of 58 service pins to those volunteers who have given one full year of service and five full years of service to the program.

The Rev. Thomas J. Carroll, director of The Catholic Guild for All the Blind, will be present to express his appreciation for the work rendered each year through the volunteer program. A concert by the Guild Choristers, under the direction of Anthony V. Cirella, will close the program.

The Guild has more than 400 volunteers, 200 of whom read every week to blind students attending colleges in the Greater Boston area. Any person interested in this work may apply to Mrs. Haskell C. Freedman, supervisor of volunteers for The Catholic Guild for All the Blind.

The Rev. Mildred Palmer will be the speaker at the meeting of the Women's Association of the Eliot Church on Tuesday afternoon, April 4th.

An executive board meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m., with luncheon to be served at 12:15 p.m., preceding the program. Mrs. Raymond Garrison will be luncheon hostess. Mrs. Philip N. Horne is president of the association.

Program Planned To Help Students' Vacation Work

A unique program to match students looking for part-time seasonal and vacation-replacement jobs with local business firms, stores and industry has been established through the Newton School Department, Division of Pupil Personnel with the assistance of the Newton Chamber of Commerce.

Prospective employers of these students are asked to mail their job listings to Mr. Circle at the School Dept. office at 88 Chestnut Street, West Newton, or they can call him at his office: Tel. 969-9810, Ext. 282.

It is expected that during the coming summer months, many employers in the Newton area will be in need of people who can work either full or part-time, either to replace vacationing employees or to assist in an expected increase in services.

As examples of such possible sources of help, Newton Junior College has students majoring in liberal arts, business administration, accounting, data processing, nursing and electronic technology.

Newton high schools can provide students in science, industrial arts, office techniques, home economics and art, while Newton Technical High School has students trained in auto mechanics, drafting, printing, sheet metal work, electronic and machine operation. The only exception to the provision of service is that of baby-sitting.

Dr. Harold J. Berman, chairman of the Newton School Committee, and also a Harvard Law School professor and specialist in Soviet Law, will speak on "Soviet Russia and the War in Vietnam" at the Community Church of Boston, Conservatory Auditorium, 31 Hemenway street, on Sunday morning, April 2, at 10:30 o'clock.

Dr. Berman, a member of the Executive Committee of Harvard's Russian Research Center, has visited the Soviet Union seven times since 1955. In 1961-62 he spent 12 months in Moscow, and lectured at the famous University. In 1965 he spent six weeks discussing legal aspects of foreign trade with their jurists and officials. In 1966 he served as advisor to a committee of the World Peace Through Law Center in Lenningrad and Moscow.

Dr. Berman's books include, "Justice in the USSR," "Soviet Criminal Law and Procedure: The RSFSR Codes," "Disarmament Inspection Under Soviet Law," and "The Nature and Functions of Law."

Before coming to Harvard in 1948 he served on the faculty of Yale Law School and Stanford University.

The Community Church is non-sectarian. The public is invited.

Women Voters Study Units To Discuss China

Newton League of Women Voters will discuss China and the crisis-ridden Asian continent in units that will assemble on April 5, 6 and 7.

The groups will study the mysterious, inaccessible land about which Americans know little, exploring the geographical and historical background of the China puzzle, the relations with other countries, and in particular the China-United States relationship.

On Wednesday morning, April 5, a unit (9:30-11:15 a.m.) will be held at the Newtonville Library, Walnut St., Newtonville. Wednesday afternoon (1:15-3:00 p.m.) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Alan Goldberg, 31 Sheffield Rd., Newtonville.

The oil paintings will remain on view until April 14, and the ceramics until April 1. A complementary collection of excellent art books is on display in the library with the exhibit of the Newton Evening School Art Classes.

Grant For A Sacred Heart Science Bldg.

Federal funds will cover approximately one-third of the cost of the new science building at Newton College of the Sacred Heart, for which a grant of nearly $500,000 has been announced by the Office of Education.

The new facility will bring to 13 the number of buildings on the college's 40-acre campus on Centre street, Newton.

Construction will begin next fall and require nearly a year, according to a spokesman for the women's liberal arts college. A 3-story building of brick, it will be connected to Stuart House, the central administration building, and will house the physics, biology and chemistry departments.

Being designed for future expansion, it will include a large lecture hall, several laboratories and facilities for research.

League members and interested friends of the league are invited to attend any of the discussion groups.

Troubadours Plan Concert On April 6th

The Troubadours, Junior High choristers from Newton, are planning a concert for April 6 to introduce their Spring tour program. Highlight of this year's tour is their invitation to appear in May at Canada's Expo '67 in the Performing Arts program.

Purpose of the concert is also to raise additional funds needed to complete their stay in Canada. Tickets are presently being sold by members of the Troubadours.

Parents of the choristers will be special guests at a reception following the concert, at which time complete plans for the tour will be presented and discussed by directors Donald R. Sullivan, of the Warren Jr. High music faculty, and Raymond W. Smith, of the Weeks Junior High music faculty.

Space will be limited and reservations are being made now.

Ticket information is available by calling either of the directors at their schools.

Cong. Heckler Opens Newton Office Apr. 1

Congresswoman Margaret M. Heckler today announced that she will open her Newton Congressional office on Saturday, April 1st, at 1 Washington street, Newton Lower Falls.

Refreshments will be served on opening day, and the general public is cordially invited to attend and meet with Congresswoman Heckler from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

This is the first time in the history of the 10th Congressional District that a Congressional Office will be maintained in the northern end of the district.

"The office is being opened," Congresswoman Heckler stated, "to provide fast and efficient service for the thousands of residents of Middlesex and Norfolk Counties who formerly had to travel to Fall River for Congressional assistance."

DISCUSS CIVIL DEFENSE — Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, right, recently met with Mrs. Jane F. Hanna, deputy director of civil defense, who is the highest ranking woman in the Defense Department. Electronic Vote Test Is Seen Likely In Newton

Newton was well represented at the State House last week, when a petition initiated by Alderman Paul J. Burke for legislation that would allow the city to test the use of electronic voting in next November's election was given a public hearing.

In addition to the alderman, those at the hearing were Mayor Monte G. Basbas, Alan Licare, executive secretary of the Newton Election Commission and Rep. Joseph G. Bradley.

Burke reported following the hearing that the bill had little opposition—that the only objector was a representative of the type of booth voting machines now in use in some cities, who pointed out that the State Election Commission was contemplating a measure that would allow several cities to test the electronic machines.

On Friday, April 7, a morning unit (9:30-11:15 a.m.) will meet at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock St., Auburndale. A baby sitter will be in attendance.

On Thursday, April 6, a morning unit (9:30-11:15 a.m.) will be held at the Newton Highland Workshop, 72 Columbus St., Newton Highlands. That evening (8:00-9:45) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Leonard Albert, 92 Victoria Rd., Waban.

On Friday, April 7, a morning unit (9:30-11:15 a.m.) will meet at the Auburndale Congregational Church, 64 Hancock St., Newton Highlands. That evening (8:00-9:45) a unit will meet at the home of Mrs. Leonard Albert, 92 Victoria Rd., Waban.

If the testing period here is allowed, one precinct in each ward would try out the new voting machines.

Mayor Basbas testified that Newton needed the electronic system because of the city's large voting list and the prohibitive expense of the booth-type machines, which would cost the city more than a half million dollars.

If the testing period here is allowed, one precinct in each ward would try out the new voting machines.

Community Dialogue, a non-sectarian program designed as a public service to all of Auburndale, will be presented on six Wednesday evenings by the Adult Education Committee of the Auburndale Congregational Church, Hancock street, and Woodland Rd.

Its purpose is to give residents an opportunity to see their community in dialogue and in relation to forces at play within it or upon it.

The first program will be on Wednesday evening, April 5, at 8 o'clock, when the Rev. Eugene W. Meyer, minister of the church, who holds graduate degrees in Sociology and Social Research from Washington University in St. Louis, Mo., will give a brief history of the community. He will deal with its demographic changes and the necessity to face the sociological realities of the community as projected into the future.

On the evening of April 12, Mayor Monte G. Basbas will cover the subject "Auburndale in Relation to the City of Newton."

"Auburndale in Relation to Lasell College" will be discussed Wednesday evening, April 19, by Dr. Vincent DeBauw, Lasell's new president.

The April 26 subject, "Auburndale and its Relation to the Public School System," will have Dr. Charles E. Brown, superintendent of schools, as the speaker.

Dr. Max Stackhouse, professor of Social Ethics at Andover - Newton Seminary, will be the speaker on May 3. His subject: "The Concept of Property in Auburndale and its Moral Implications."

In the final session on May 13, religious leaders of the community will deal with "Auburndale and the Meaning of its Religious Forces."

School Costs Is Theme For PTA Conclave

"How Are We Going to Pay for Our Schools?" is the question posed by the Newton PTA Council Regional Spring Conference, Tuesday, May 9.

Feeling the need for a dialogue on the problems of funding public education, the Council has invited educators, legislators, and concerned community organizations from Newton and the surrounding communities to discuss this critical issue with Newton citizens.

Conference co-chairmen are Mrs. Thomas A. Morris and Mrs. William Simons of Newtonville; program co-coordinators, Mrs. William Heine of Newtonville and Mrs. Mary Everett of Auburndale; dinner chairman, Mrs. Henry A. Lambert of Waban; reservations chairman, Mrs. Merritt Saltinger of Newton Centre; public relations, Mrs. Barry Curhan of Newtonville; PTA liaison chairman, Mrs. Charles Levy of Auburndale, and community relations co-chairmen, Sidney Shuman of Newton Centre and Henry Shor of Chestnut Hill. President of the Council is Bernard A. Kaplan of Waban.

Richard C. Howland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Howland, 38 Islington Rd., Auburndale, has been elected feature editor of Northeastern News at Northeastern University. He is a 1965 graduate of Newton High.

"The office is being opened," Congresswoman Heckler stated, "to provide fast and efficient service for the thousands of residents of Middlesex and Norfolk Counties who formerly had to travel to Fall River for Congressional assistance."

Joseph B. Yokelson of 45 Farquhar road, Newtonville, has been named faculty adviser to the Blue and Gold Yearbook at Bentley College, where he is an assistant professor in English.
